Coal Operators Reaffirm Opposition to Payroll Levy

UMWA President Says Owners Must Agree To Set Up Welfare Fund

Demands Seven Per Cent Payroll Deduction To Be Under the Sole Management of Union

WASHINGTON, May 14—(AP)—Soft coal operators tonight reaffirmed their opposition to the principle of the seven per cent payroll levy for a miners' welfare fund demanded by John L. Lewis, shattering any hope of immediate settlement of the coal controversy.

A person close to the operators and in attendance at their special night session said there was "no recession from their former position of adamant opposition to the acceptance of a tax on payroll or a royalty on the coal to go to Lewis for his unchecked use."

Hope of Agreement Fades

The producers met to draft a reply to Lewis's demand, to be handed to the United Mine Workers' president tomorrow, and subsequently to President Truman, who had asked for a report on negotiations by Wednesday night. Most of the 400,000 bituminous miners were working under a two-week truce in their strike, expiring May 25.

In view of the position of Lewis and the operators, hope of coming to an agreement even before the end of the truce seemed remote. The operators will meet again tomorrow morning to complete their reply.

The fund, Lewis declared today, must be under sole management of the union.

Lewis and the operators are to report to President Truman during the day on the progress of their conferences. The president last week asked the union and operators to reach some agreement by Wednesday.

One coal producer who declined use of his name said the operators would hand Lewis an emphatic rejection tomorrow. Other operators withheld comment as they went into the evening caucus.

At conclusion of the day's negotiating sessions, Charles O'Neill, chief spokesman for the operators, told newsmen Lewis had made the statement that "there would be no contract until the welfare fund was conceded by the operators on the basis presented by him, which was the amount discussed yesterday (seven per cent levy on payroll), to be paid into the union and administered by the union."

Lewis Denies Statement

Lewis asserted he "suggested that basis yesterday but I made no such statement as that" attributed to him by O'Neill.

"That doesn't mean we will take less," he added, cryptically. "It must be an adequate amount."

Complete Review Of Prison Camp Cases Is Ordered

Instances of Mishandling Discovered, Gen. Joseph McNary Reports

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 14 (AP) — Gen. Joseph T. McNarney said today he had ordered a complete review of the Lichfield detention camp cases after discovery of "instances of mishandling."

The commander of American forces in Europe asserted there would be no "railroading" or undue haste in the trials of fourteen officers and men on charges of mistreating soldier prisoners at the camp in England and that "I am determined that no one who may be culpable will escape being brought to justice."

In a typewritten statement distributed at a news conference, McNarney said an investigation by Maj. Gen. John T. Lewis "revealed instances of mishandling of the case and indicated a failure of some intermediate commanders concerned at the outset to recognize the seriousness of the situation and to direct a complete investigation and take prompt corrective and punitive action as required."

McNarney did not specify what thei nstances were; but said he had directed his inspector general "to undertake a complete review of all phases of the Lichfield cases from the day the first complaint of irregularities was received."

McNarney said "there will be no 'railroading' or any undue haste to the prejudice of either side" in the pending trials of six officers and eight enlisted men accused of brutality at Lichfield, "no matter how much we desire speed in the conduct of these cases."

Three weeks ago McNarney had pledged that he would not tolerate any "whitewash" of the charges. The attorney for one accused officer complained that this statement might indicate an army desire to "railroad someone to obtain a conviction in the cases."

McNarney's statement today said Lewis, after citing his conclusions, "recommended specific disciplinary action, principally in the form of administrative reprimands, against certain officers involved in the delays that had occurred."

But, he said, Gen. Eisenhower "decided to withhold action on Gen. Lewis's recommendations of specific punishments for the officers involved in the belief that the conduct of the trials themselves would elicit further facts and evidence which might indicate that more drastic action should be taken against certain officers."

"This expectation has already been justified," McNarney said, "as charges have been preferred against several additional officers as a result of facts revealed by the trials of enlisted men."

He said a final report on Lewis's investigation would be submitted in the near future.

Induction of Youths 18 and 19 Is Banned by Legislation; Truman Signs Reluctantly

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—President Truman affixed a reluctant signature tonight to a stop-gap bill extending the draft until July 1 but banning the induction of fathers and youths 18 and 19 years old.

Confronted with the alternatives of accepting the amendments or letting the whole wartime Selective Service law expire at midnight, the president chose "the lesser of two evils," as his secretary put it.

The secretary, Charles G. Ross, told reporters that the president regarded it as a "bad bill." It was passed because the two houses of congress were unable to get together in time on a longer extension.

Less than six hours before the midnight deadline, the Senate agreed to the House restrictions on inductions, and Senate Secretary Leslie Biffle sped the measure to the White House.

There Secretary Ross informed newsmen:

"The president doesn't like it at all, but feels, as some of his officials do, that it will be better to sign it than have confusion that will result from failure to continue a legislative support for armed force inductions."

Youths Must Register

Selective Service announced that its present ban on the induction of men 26 and over will be continued, despite the fact that the act as renewed permits the drafting of men through age 29.

In a telegram to state draft directors the agency also formally halted the induction of teen age youths. It said, however, that men 18 and 19 still will be required to register.

Only men 20 through 25 will be drafted. This reduces Selective Service to a comparatively tiny reservoir of manpower. Officials estimated that there are only 59,000 eligibles left in this age bracket, of whom perhaps fifty per cent would be found physically unfit.

The telegram said local boards should not "take any of the following actions with respect to any registrant who has not reached his twentieth birthday:

"(A) Order any such registrant to report for preinduction physical examination;

"(B) Forward any such registrant for preinduction physical examination;

"(C) Order any such registrant to report for induction;

"(D) Forward any such registrant for induction; or

Hopes for Extension

The signing took place at 8 p. m., Eastern Standard Time. The president planned to issue a statement on the subject tomorrow. Meantime

New Government Wheat Program Is Announced

Restrictions Will Not Be Abolished until Summer of 1947

WASHINGTON, May 14. (AP)—The government announced today a wheat program that will mean continued skimping on bread, meat, beer and whisky for the next thirteen and one half months to help feed hungry people abroad.

Furthermore, the bread will continue to be "dark" and it may come in smaller loaves.

Previously the government had hoped to lift the restrictions on wheat, flour, etc., this summer after the 1946 wheat crop is harvested. Today's announcement means that the curbs will not be abolished before the summer of 1947, unless there is another change in the situation.

Might Be Changed

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said the plan might be changed later. But at the moment, he said, it "is regarded as necessary to insure the most effective distribution and use of the 1946 crop, in meeting both domestic and foreign needs."

The way it sizes up, the program will provide considerably less wheat for food for the American dinner table during the twelve months beginning July 1, 1946, as compared with the year that began July 1, 1945. It will provide about half as much wheat for feeding to livestock—that means less meat—and none at all for brewing and distilling.

Officials have said that heavy feeding of wheat to stock was chiefly responsible for bring on an acute shortage of the grain.

Even with the slashes in domestic consumption, Anderson figured that exports of wheat to famine areas will drop from around 400,000,000 to 250,000,000 bushels.

Date Not Decided

To make sure of getting the 250,000,000, the government will requisition a fourth of all the wheat that producers deliver to elevators or commercial buyers. When that new control will go into effect has not been decided.

Most other food saving devices, both compulsory and voluntary, will be retained until July 1, 1947, under Anderson's program. Under the voluntary system, consumers are asked to eat forty per cent less wheat products.

26,000 Additional Soft Coal Miners Return to Work

75,000 of 100,000 Men Continue To Stay Away from Pennsylvania Mines

By The Asscociated Press

An additional 26,000 soft coal miners returned to work across the nation yesterday (Tuesday) under the twelve-day strike truce, as first reports of relief were received from industries curtailed by lack of fuel.

Approximately 128,000 of the industry's 400,000 bituminous miners still are idle, but that figure was expected to be whittled down further today when additional mines resume production.

About 75,000 of 100,000 miners still stayed away from mines in Pennsylvania — second largest bituminous producing state — because of the traditional "no contract, no work" policy and fears of losing unemployment compensation.

In several other states, completion of mine repairs, tardily-held truce ratification meetings, local disputes over working hours and lack of a contract delayed resumption of operations.

In West Virginia, where only 3,000 miners were not working out of 104,000, production slowly approached normal. About 16,000 of Alabama's 23,000 miners were on the job, while in Kentucky 30,000 out of 55,000 were working. Indiana reported 5,000 working and 3,000 idle but United Mine Workers officials said the 3,000 were expected to enter the pits today.

Meanwhile, the first industrial upturns from the truce occurred. The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corpor-

Baltimore Man's Body Is Found

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 14 (AP)—The body of A. W. Hollstein, Baltimore, Md., was found shortly before 11 o'clock tonight two miles east of McEwen, Tenn., state highway patrol headquarters announced. John D. Taylor, Ripley, Tenn., veteran, confessed at Knoxville he struck Hollstein with a bottle during a hitch-hike ride.

Earlier District Atty.-Gen. Hal Clements, Jr., Knoxville, announced he had obtained an oral confession from Taylor that he had knocked Hollstein on the head three times with a bottle and pushed him down an embankment near McEwen.

Taylor's confession concentrated the search in the Waverly area.

Clements said Taylor told them he hitched a ride from Ripley to Jackson, Tenn., and that Hollstein picked him up there. Clements quoted Taylor as saying Hollstein had been drinking and that near

Grierson Stresses Need of Foreign Policy for Peace

QUEBEC, May 14 (AP)—The need for a foreign policy and an educational policy directed towards the maintenance of peace was stressed tonight by John Grierson, chairman of the International Film Associates, New York, in a dinner address prepared for delivery at the twenty-fourth annual conference of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, Incorporated.

He said that tolerance, by reason of the atomic bomb, had become not just a virtue but a necessary law.

Grierson, former head of the National Film Board of Canada and a pioneer in the field of documentary films, spoke at a dinner which proceeded the opening of the Canadian art center exhibit assembled by the National Film Board.

As a first step in the preparation for peace, he said, "let us determine to lose our fear of the Soviet Union, for it is the best way to invite them to lose their fear of us."

Mrs. Walter Bouldin of Birmingham, Ala., retiring secretary of the association, introduced the speaker to the forty hundred fifty delegates, representing one hundred sixty junior leagues in Canada, the United States, Mexico and Hawaii.

Activities on this second day of the five-day conference included a schedule of twenty group meetings including such topics as radio councils, projects, problems of a president, public relations, money raising, community arts programs for children, league news sheets, children's theaters and placement adjustments.

The association president, Miss Cecil Lester Jones of Washington, asked members at a luncheon meeting to stress to fellow league members at home the urgency of President Truman's famine emergency program. She outlined the accomplishments of Junior Leagues to date in the food collection in behalf of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Compulsory Arbitration on Labor Disputes Is Proposed by Rep. Roe

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP) — Compulsory arbitration of deadlocked labor disputes by a nine-man "supreme court" of labor was proposed today by Rep. Dudley R. Roe (D-Md).

"We have courts for everything else; why not one to settle labor disputes?" Roe asked, suggesting that the plan be included in a labor disputes bill pending in the Senate.

He suggested that after expiration of the thirty-day cooling-off period provided in the bill and if "the nation's welfare demands that the strike be settled, the president shall have the authority to announce that a national emergency exists."

That would give him the power, under Roe's proposal, "to compel the parties to the labor dispute to submit their case to the court of arbitration for decision, and said decision when rendered shall be enforceable by all the authority and power of the government of the United States. x x x"

"The whole nation has been shocked by the actions of John L. Lewis (president of the AFL United Mine Workers) in the recent coal strike," Roe declared in a statement. "We all realize how helpless we were and what great power he exercised over the very life of our people.

"Legislation must be passed to remedy the situation."

He proposed that the court of arbitration be appointed by the president and confirmed by a two-thirds vote of the Senate.

He said the court members should be paid at least $25,000 a year. "When we think of the cost of one day's strike in the automobile industry, in the steel industry, or the coal industry, a big salary to nine men is only a drop in the bucket."

Tawes's Nomination Urged by Tydings

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP)—Urging the Democratic nomination of J. Millard Tawes for governor, Senator Tydings (D-Md.) tonight characterized "repeated attacks" on Tawes because he has the support of Attorney General William Curran as "transparent sham and thinly veiled hypocrisy."

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Poplar Grove (Baltimore) Democratic Club and broadcast by radio station WCAO, Tydings said all three major contenders for the nomination—Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, W. Preston Lane, Jr., and Tawes—had at one time or another sought Curran's support.

"All three of them stood in precisely the same position. Mr. Curran finally announced that he would suport Mr. Tawes. When this happened, we then see the ludicrous spectacle of the other two candidates denouncing Mr. Tawes for what they themselves eagerly sought and failed to get," Tydings added.

Welles Advocates Commonwealth For Palestine

Transjordan Move Termed Breach of British Obligations

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP)—Calling for the establishment of a Jewish commonwealth in Palestine, former undersecretary of state Sumner Welles asserted tonight that the British government's recent decision proclaiming the independence of Transjordan was a "breach of the spirit as well as the letter of the obligations which were assumed when it obtained the Palestine mandate."

Welles also described as a "disappointment" the report of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry on Palestine. As state chairman of the American Christian Palestine Committee, his address was prepared for delivery at the closing session of a two-day Maryland conference.

"There has been no sorrier manifestation in recent British history than the Palestine white paper of 1939 x x x" the former State department official declared.

British Policy Scored

"And I regret to say that during the years of the war and even during recent months I cannot find that British policy with regard to Palestine has been any more courageous, any more enlighted, or any more in keeping with the solemn engagements into which great Britain originally entered in 1917, than it was at the time of the issuance

Negroes Convicted Of Raping Girl, 19

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., May 14 (AP) — James Clarence Raymond Washington, 16, and Willie Gray Taylor, 15, both negroes of Huntsville, Md., were convicted today of raping a 19-year-old Seat Pleasant girl last March 17.

The verdict was returned by Judges Charles G. Marbury and John D. Grey, Jr., in Prince Georges County Circuit Court. They set sentencing tentatively for Friday. The maximum penalty in Maryland is death by hanging.

Two other youths, Charles Ross, 20, and his brother Walter, 21, charged with the same offense, will be tried later in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court at Annapolis. Their attorney obtained a change of venue.

The assaut victim testified that Taylor and Washington were two of the four youths who accosted her and her companion, Donald Beyer, 20, former coast guardsman, while they were seated in a parked car near Huntsville. She said she was raped by three of the youths, twice by two of them.

The court admitted as evidence statements the prosecution claimed were made after the attack by Washington and Taylor. Defense attorneys contended the statements were obtained under duress. County police denied any mistreatment and the court held the statements were obtained "freely and voluntarily."

Seek Investigation of Causes of Strikes and Industrial Disputes

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP) — Senate opponents of swift labor control legislation brought out unexpectedly today a counter proposal for investigation of the causes of strikes and industrial disputes. After a meeting of sixteen senators, Senator Murray (D-Mont) told reporters it was the consensus that Senate action on labor should be delayed until such an investigation is made. But he added in response to questions that he saw no prospect that the Senate, having taken up labor legislation, would drop it without enacting some bill.

There was strong evidence, however, of an organized move to delay for several days action on the legislation which was whirled into prominence by the coal strike.

An administration lieutenant said the group appeared to be able to keep labor debate going on the floor well into next week.

Did Not See Truman

Murray, chairman of the Labor committee, said he might call that group to meet tomorrow to approve a resolution by Senators Kilgore (D-WVA) and Morse (R-Ore) for the investigation of the causes of labor disputes. "There is no opposition in the committee," he said.

Expressing belief such a proposal would meet little opposition in the Senate, Murray added that he would seek to put the Case Strike Control bill aside momentarily to consider the resolution.

Asked whether he had received any word from President Truman in connection with the labor legislation battle, Murray said he had not and did not expect to consult the chief executive.

In the House, a Judiciary subcommittee approved a bill that members said would outlaw the seven per cent payroll tax that John L. Lewis has demanded for the health and welfare of his United Mine Workers.

The measure would declare it illegal for an employer to give an employes' representative money for any purpose except dues. However, the full Judiciary committee had no meeting scheduled so far this week and there was considerable sentiment in the House to wait for Sen-

Central Iranian Government Does Not Want War

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, May 14 (AP) — Premier Jafar Pishevari of the self-proclaimed autonomous regime in Azerbaijan province declared tonight that troops of the Central Iranian Government had "moved to our border, but we are not afraid of an attack."

As Pishevari broadcast this statement over the Tabriz radio, Iranian troops streamed northward toward the troubled province where reports said Separatist forces attired in Russian uniforms were holding warlike maneuvers. Azerbainjan province is adjacent to the boundary of the Soviet Union.

The Central Iranian Government reaffirmed its determination to avoid civil war. In his broadcast Pishevari described Ahmed Qavam, the premier of the Central government, as a "wise and patriotic man" and added: "he knows our strength."

Telling the Azerbaijan people of the failure of the Azerbaijan-Central Government negotiations Pishevari charged that "reactionary elements" had influenced the Tehran government's stand.

He criticized the Central government's action in bringing the recent Iranian-Russian oil agreement into the conversation and termed this agreement a "foreign affair" while the Azerbaijan problem is "strictly internal."

Pishevari said that any attack by the Iranian army on Azerbaijan troops would constitute a breach of the agreement Qavam reached with the Soviet Union, and added that Qavam was "aware that our army is made up of fighting men who will not be defeated."

The Azerbaijan premier made no reference to any plan to return to Tehran for further negotiations, although Qavam had said earlier that the declaration from the province had only returned to Tabriz "for new instructions."

An observer returning from Tabriz, capital of the self-proclaimed autonomous province of Azerbaijan, said the Azerbaijan national army, "smartly attired in Russian uniforms," was staging field maneuvers between Mianeh and Zenjan. Zenjan is 180 miles northwest of Tehran, and Mianeh is eighty-five miles farther northwest.

Lane Calls Balwin's Statements Pure, Unadulterated Falsehoods

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP) — W. Preston Lane, Jr., a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, tonight termed as "pure and unadulterated falsehoods," statements by Rep H. Streett Baldwin, an opponent, to the effect that "every radical and communistic group of the CIO-PAC of Maryland" was supporting Lane.

Departing from his announced plan to deal with issues rather than personalities in the campaign, Lane said: "these statements are pure and unadulterated falsehoods, invented by Mr. Baldwin for campaign purposes.

"I do not know and do not have any political or personal relationships with any radical or communistic groups, connected with CIO-PAC or any other organization. No such groups have offered me or my headquarters the active support of all or any workers, paid or unpaid."

He reviewed the history of the 1944 campaign, in which he served as Maryland Democratic chairman. He said he had declined offers of support from labor and other organizations, "unless the offers included support for the entire Democratic ticket, including Mr. Baldwin, and Mr. Baldwin was fully aware of my policy and my position."

After the campaign, Lane said, he addressed a state CIO convention as an "act of courtesy."

"In recent days," he added, "Mr. Baldwin has become an opponent of all labor groups, hoping to have his alleged opposition made an issue in the campaign for the governorship.

"Labor questions, however, are settled by Congress and not by the state agencies. If Mr. Baldwin has accomplished anything important in Congress, except to make an outstanding record for absenteeism, nobody knows what it is. If he were really sincere about this CIO business he would have done his best to stay in Congress. But he has run away from that contest."

President Acts To Prevent Tieup Of Transportation

By The Associated Press

The long dormant negotiations between the railroad operating unions and management were revived last (Tuesday) night after President Truman made a last ditch effort to head off a nationwide transportation tieup set for Saturday.

The White House announced that President Truman held three separate conferences in the railroad dispute. The first was with A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and Alvanley Johnston, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Some 250,000 members of these two unions are under instructions to leave their jobs Saturday.

Mr. Truman met next with representatives of the conductors, firemen and switchmen and then talked over the dispute with J. J. Pelley and other officials of the Association of American Railroads.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, said all agreed to carry on negotiations concurrently starting last night and would give the president a progress report Friday.

The "Big Five" operating brotherhoods are standing on original demands for pay bosts averaging $2.50 daily. The conductors, firemen and switchmen have threatened to go on strike at some later date if their demands are not met. A third railroad strike threat at some future date has come from the fifteen railroad non-operating unions.

The unions were granted or offered wage boosts of sixteen cents hourly more than half their demands.

He said that tolerance, by reason of the atomic bomb, had become not just a virtue but a necessary law.

Grierson, former head of the National Film Board of Canada and a pioneer in the field of documentary films, spoke at a dinner which proceeded the opening of the Canadian art center exhibit assembled by the National Film Board.

As a first step in the preparation for peace, he said, "let us determine to lose our fear of the Soviet Union, for it is the best way to invite them to lose their fear of us."

Mrs. Walter Bouldin of Birmingham, Ala., retiring secretary of the association, introduced the speaker to the forty hundred fifty delegates, representing one hundred sixty junior leagues in Canada, the United States, Mexico and Hawaii.

Activities on this second day of the five-day conference included a schedule of twenty group meetings including such topics as radio councils, projects, problems of a president, public relations, money raising, community arts programs for children, league news sheets, children's theaters and placement adjustments.

The association president, Miss Cecil Lester Jones of Washington, asked members at a luncheon meeting to stress to fellow league members at home the urgency of President Truman's famine emergency program. She outlined the accomplishments of Junior Leagues to date in the food collection in behalf of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Compulsory Arbitration on Labor Disputes Is Proposed by Rep. Roe

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP) — Compulsory arbitration of deadlocked labor disputes by a nine-man "supreme court" of labor was proposed today by Rep. Dudley R. Roe (D-Md).

"We have courts for everything else; why not one to settle labor disputes?" Roe asked, suggesting that the plan be included in a labor disputes bill pending in the Senate.

He suggested that after expiration of the thirty-day cooling-off period provided in the bill and if "the nation's welfare demands that the strike be settled, the president shall have the authority to announce that a national emergency exists."

That would give him the power, under Roe's proposal, "to compel the parties to the labor dispute to submit their case to the court of arbitration for decision, and said decision when rendered shall be enforceable by all the authority and power of the government of the United States. x x x"

"The whole nation has been shocked by the actions of John L. Lewis (president of the AFL United Mine Workers) in the recent coal strike," Roe declared in a statement. "We all realize how helpless we were and what great power he exercised over the very life of our people.

"Legislation must be passed to remedy the situation."

He proposed that the court of arbitration be appointed by the president and confirmed by a two-thirds vote of the Senate.

He said the court members should be paid at least $25,000 a year. "When we think of the cost of one day's strike in the automobile industry, in the steel industry, or the coal industry, a big salary to nine men is only a drop in the bucket."

Complete Review Of Prison Camp Cases Is Ordered

Instances of Mishandling Discovered, Gen. Joseph McNary Reports

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 14 (AP) — Gen. Joseph T. McNarney said today he had ordered a complete review of the Lichfield detention camp cases after discovery of "instances of mishandling."

The commander of American forces in Europe asserted there would be no "railroading" or undue haste in the trials of fourteen officers and men on charges of mistreating soldier prisoners at the camp in England and that "I am determined that no one who may be culpable will escape being brought to justice."

In a typewritten statement distributed at a news conference, McNarney said an investigation by Maj. Gen. John T. Lewis "revealed instances of mishandling of the case and indicated a failure of some intermediate commanders concerned at the outset to recognize the seriousness of the situation and to direct a complete investigation and take prompt corrective and punitive action as required."

McNarney did not specify what thei nstances were: but said he had directed his inspector general "to undertake a complete review of all phases of the Lichfield cases from the day the first complaint of irregularities was received."

McNarney said "there will be no 'railroading' or any undue haste to the prejudice of either side" in the pending trials of six officers and eight enlisted men accused of brutality at Lichfield, "no matter how much we desire speed in the conduct of these cases."

Three weeks ago McNarney had pledged that he would not tolerate any "whitewash" of the charges. The attorney for one accused officer complained that this statement might indicate an army desire to "railroad someone to obtain a conviction in the cases."

McNarney's statement today said Lewis, after citing his conclusions, "recommended specific disciplinary action, principally in the form of admnistrative reprimands, against certain officers involved in the delays that had occurred."

But, he said, Gen. Eisenhower "decided to withhold action on Gen. Lewis's recommendations of specific punishments for the officers involved in the belief that the conduct of the trials themselves would elicit further facts and evidence which might indicate that more drastic action should be taken against certain officers."

"This expectation has already been justified," McNarney said, "as charges have been preferred against several additional officers as a result of facts revealed by the trials of enlisted men."

He said a final report on Lewis's investigation would be submitted in the near future.

Baltimore Man's Body Is Found

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 14 (AP)—The body of A. W. Hollstein, Baltimore, Md., was found shortly before 11 o'clock tonight two miles east of McEwen, Tenn., state highway patrol headquarters announced. John D. Taylor, Ripley, Tenn., veteran, confessed at Knoxville he struck Hollstein with a bottle during a hitch-hike ride.

Earlier District Atty.-Gen. Hal Clements, Jr., Knoxville, announced he had obtained an oral confession from Taylor that he had knocked Hollstein on the head three times with a bottle and pushed him down an embankment near McEwen.

Taylor's confession concentrated the search in the Waverly area.

Clements said Taylor told them he hitched a ride from Ripley to Jackson, Tenn., and that Hollstein picked him up there. Clements quoted Taylor as saying Hollstein had been drinking and that near

Tawes's Nomination Urged by Tydings

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP)—Urging the Democratic nomination of J. Millard Tawes for governor, Senator Tydings (D-Md.) tonight characterized "repeated attacks" on Tawes because he has the support of Attorney General William Curran as "transparent sham and thinly veiled hypocrisy."

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Poplar Grove (Baltimore) Democratic Club and broadcast by radio station WCAO, Tydings said all three major contenders for the nomination—Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, W. Preston Lane, Jr., and Tawes—had at one time or another sought Curran's support.

"All three of them stood in precisely the same position. Mr. Curran finally announced that he would suport Mr. Tawes. When this happened, we then see the ludicrous spectacle of the other two candidates denouncing Mr. Tawes for what they themselves eagerly sought and failed to get," Tydings added.

FLAT CAR WRECKS RAILROAD STATION

BELLEVILLE, Ill., May 14—A flat car left the tracks and scooped up a corner of the Southern railroad's express and passenger station here today. The one-story brick building housed a waiting room and baggage room. No one was injured.

Counter Proposal Is Brought Out By Swift Labor Control Opponents

Transjordan Move Termed Breach of British Obligations

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP)—Calling for the establishment of a Jewish commonwealth in Palestine, former undersecretary of state Sumner Welles asserted tonight that the British government's recent decision proclaiming the independence of Transjordan was a "breach of the spirit as well as the letter of the obligations which were assumed when it obtained the Palestine mandate."

Welles also described as a "disappointment" the report of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry on Palestine. As state chairman of the American Christian Palestine Committee, his address was prepared for delivery at the closing session of a two-day Maryland conference.

"There has been no sorrier manifestation in recent British history than the Palestine white paper of 1939 x x x" the former State department official declared.

British Policy Scored

"And I regret to say that during the years of the war and even during recent months I cannot find that British policy with regard to Palestine has been any more courageous, any more enlighted, or any more in keeping with the solemn engagements into which great Britain originally entered in 1917, than it was at the time of the issuance

Negroes Convicted Of Raping Girl, 19

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., May 14 (AP) — James Clarence Raymond Washington, 16, and Willie Gray Taylor, 15, both negroes of Huntsville, Md., were convicted today of raping a 19-year-old Seat Pleasant girl last March 17.

The verdict was returned by Judges Charles G. Marbury and John D. Grey, Jr., in Prince Georges County Circuit Court. They set sentencing tentatively for Friday. The maximum penalty in Maryland is death by hanging.

Two other youths, Charles Ross, 20, and his brother Walter, 21, charged with the same offense, will be tried later in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court at Annapolis. Their attorney obtained a change of venue.

The assaut victim testified that Taylor and Washington were two of the four youths who accosted her and her companion, Donald Beyer, 20, former coast guardsman, while they were seated in a parked car near Huntsville. She said she was raped by three of the youths, twice by two of them.

The court admitted as evidence statements the prosecution claimed were made after the attack by Washington and Taylor. Defense attorneys contended the statements were obtained under duress. County police denied any mistreatment and the court held the statements were obtained "freely and voluntarily."

Seek Investigation of Causes of Strikes and Industrial Disputes

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP) — Senate opponents of swift labor control legislation brought out unexpectedly today a counter proposal for investigation of the causes of strikes and industrial disputes. After a meeting of sixteen senators, Senator Murray (D-Mont) told reporters it was the consensus that Senate action on labor should be delayed until such an investigation is made. But he added in response to questions that he saw no prospect that the Senate, having taken up labor legislation, would drop it without enacting some bill.

There was strong evidence, however, of an organized move to delay for several days action on the legislation which was whirled into prominence by the coal strike.

An administration lieutenant said the group appeared to be able to keep labor debate going on the floor well into next week.

Did Not See Truman

Murray, chairman of the Labor committee, said he might call that group to meet tomorrow to approve a resolution by Senators Kilgore (D-WVA) and Morse (R-Ore) for the investigation of the causes of labor disputes. "There is no opposition in the committee," he said.

Expressing belief such a proposal would meet little opposition in the Senate, Murray added that he would seek to put the Case Strike Control bill aside momentarily to consider the resolution.

Asked whether he had received any word from President Truman in connection with the labor legislation battle, Murray said he had not and did not expect to consult the chief executive.

In the House, a Judiciary subcommittee approved a bill that members said would outlaw the seven per cent payroll tax that John L. Lewis has demanded for the health and welfare of his United Mine Workers.

The measure would declare it illegal for an employer to give an employes' representative money for any purpose except dues. However, the full Judiciary committee had no meeting scheduled so far this week and there was considerable sentiment in the House to wait for Sen-

Central Iranian Government Does Not Want War

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, May 14 (AP) — Premier Jafar Pishevari of the self-proclaimed autonomous regime in Azerbaijan province declared tonight that troops of the Central Iranian Government had "moved to our border, but we are not afraid of an attack."

As Pishevari broadcast this statement over the Tabriz radio, Iranian troops streamed northward toward the troubled province where reports said Separatist forces attired in Russian uniforms were holding warlike maneuvers. Azerbainjan province is adjacent to the boundary of the Soviet Union.

The Central Iranian Government reaffirmed its determination to avoid civil war. In his broadcast Pishevari described Ahmed Qavam, the premier of the Central government, as a "wise and patriotic man" and added: "he knows our strength."

Telling the Azerbaijan people of the failure of the Azerbaijan-Central Government negotiations Pishevari charged that "reactionary elements" had influenced the Tehran government's stand.

He criticized the Central government's action in bringing the recent Iranian-Russian oil agreement into the conversation and termed this agreement a "foreign affair" while the Azerbaijan problem is "strictly internal."

Pishevari said that any attack by the Iranian army on Azerbaijan troops would constitute a breach of the agreement Qavam reached with the Soviet Union, and added that Qavam was "aware that our army is made up of fighting men who will not be defeated."

The Azerbaijan premier made no reference to any plan to return to Tehran for further negotiations, although Qavam had said earlier that the declaration from the province had only returned to Tabriz "for new instructions."

An observer returning from Tabriz, capital of the self-proclaimed autonomous province of Azerbaijan, said the Azerbaijan national army, "smartly attired in Russian uniforms," was staging field maneuvers between Mianeh and Zenjan. Zenjan is 180 miles northwest of Tehran, and Mianeh is eighty-five miles farther northwest.

Lane Calls Balwin's Statements Pure, Unadulterated Falsehoods

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP) — W. Preston Lane, Jr., a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, tonight termed as "pure and unadulterated falsehoods," statements by Rep H. Streett Baldwin, an opponent, to the effect that "every radical and communistic group of the CIO-PAC of Maryland" was supporting Lane.

Departing from his announced plan to deal with issues rather than personalities in the campaign, Lane said: "these statements are pure and unadulterated falsehoods, invented by Mr. Baldwin for campaign purposes.

"I do not know and do not have any political or personal relationships with any radical or communistic groups, connected with CIO-PAC or any other organization. No such groups have offered me or my headquarters the active support of all or any workers, paid or unpaid."

He reviewed the history of the 1944 campaign, in which he served as Maryland Democratic chairman. He said he had declined offers of support from labor and other organizations, "unless the offers included support for the entire Democratic ticket, including Mr. Baldwin, and Mr. Baldwin was fully aware of my policy and my position."

After the campaign, Lane said, he addressed a state CIO convention as an "act of courtesy."

"In recent days," he added, "Mr. Baldwin has become an opponent of all labor groups, hoping to have his alleged opposition made an issue in the campaign for the governorship.

"Labor questions, however, are settled by Congress and not by the state agencies. If Mr. Baldwin has accomplished anything important in Congress, except to make an outstanding record for absenteeism, nobody knows what it is. If he were really sincere about this CIO business he would have done his best to stay in Congress. But he has run away from that contest."

Measure Extends Selective Service To July 1; Stops Draft of Fathers

Induction of Youths 18 and 19 Is Banned by Legislation; Truman Signs Reluctantly

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—President Truman affixed a reluctant signature tonight to a stop-gap bill extending the draft until July 1 but banning the induction of fathers and youths 18 and 19 years old.

Confronted with the alternatives of accepting the amendments or letting the whole wartime Selective Service law expire at midnight, the president chose "the lesser of two evils," as his secretary put it.

The secretary, Charles G. Ross, told reporters that the president regarded it as a "bad bill." It was passed because the two houses of congress were unable to get together in time on a longer extension.

Less than six hours before the midnight deadline, the Senate agreed to the House restrictions on inductions, and Senate Secretary Leslie Biffle sped the measure to the White House.

There Secretary Ross informed newsmen:

"The president doesn't like it at all, but feels, as some of his officials do, that it will be better to sign it than have confusion that will result from failure to continue a legislative support for armed force inductions."

Youths Must Register

Selective Service announced that its present ban on the induction of men 26 and over will be continued, despite the fact that the act as renewed permits the drafting of men through age 29.

In a telegram to state draft directors the agency also formally halted the induction of "teen age youths. It said, however, that men 18 and 19 still will be required to register.

Only men 20 through 25 will be drafted. This reduces Selective Service to a comparatively tiny reservoir of manpower. Officials estimated that there are only 59,000 eligibles left in this age bracket, of whom perhaps fifty per cent would be found physically unfit.

The telegram said local boards should not "take any of the following actions with respect to any registrant who has not reached his twentieth birthday:

"(A) Order any such registrant to report for preinduction physical examination;

"(B) Forward any such registrant for preinduction physical examination;

"(C) Order any such registrant to report for induction;

"(D) Forward any such registrant for induction; or

President Acts To Prevent Tieup Of Transportation

By The Associated Press

The long dormant negotiations between the railroad operating unions and management were revived last (Tuesday) night after President Truman made a last ditch effort to head off a nationwide transportation tieup set for Saturday.

The White House announced that President Truman held three separate conferences in the railroad dispute. The first was with A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and Alvanley Johnston, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Some 250,000 members of these two unions are under instructions to leave their jobs Saturday.

Mr. Truman met next with representatives of the conductors, firemen and switchmen and then talked over the dispute with J. J. Pelley and other officials of the Association of American Railroads.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, said all agreed to carry on negotiations concurrently starting last night and would give the president a progress report Friday.

The "Big Five" operating brotherhoods are standing on original demands for pay bosts averaging $2.50 daily. The conductors, firemen and switchmen have threatened to go on strike at some later date if their demands are not met. A third railroad strike threat at some future date has come from the fifteen railroad non-operating unions.

The unions were granted or offered wage boosts of sixteen cents hourly more than half their demands.

Lewis Lists Points For Holding Out For Welfare Fund

Would Eliminate Present "Company-Doctor Scourge," He Says

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—John Lewis, United Mine Workers president, gave this oral statement to reporters about the proposed UMW health and welfare fund which he proposed to the soft coal contract conference:

The mine workers request the fund for the following six reasons:

First, adequate and modern medical service to the coal miners and their dependent families, with a choice of physicians which in many areas, particularly in the south, they do not now have. The plan is to replace the present company-doctor scourge.

Second, to provide adequate hospitalization under proper standards.

Third, to provide life and health insurance for the miners which they cannot now purchase. Life insurance costs the mine workers about 277 percent of what it costs about 277 per cent of what it costs Obviously a miner cannot purchase it at that price, his family is unprotected in case of death from violence in the mines or natural causes. This fund can provide such insurance on a mass basis much more cheaply than miners could buy it themselves if they were able to buy it.

Fourth, rehabilitation—men who are injured and disabled in the mines through the loss of limbs, blindness or other major physical injuries need rehabilitation. There are no facilities available for the mine workers now, and there are probably living 50,000 men who have been incapacitated for further mining service by injury, who have received no assistance or training for other vocational employment.

Fifth, economic aid in distress or hardship cases. Families become paupers because they have not received compensation provided by the states, through the manipulation of the company-doctor system and by reason of the testimony of the company doctor. His is the only medical testimony available, because the miner cannot secure other medical testimony to refute the claims of the company doctor. As a consequence, his award for total disability may be cut as low as thirty per cent and his family may become paupers.

Sixth, if there is any money left in the fund, we propose to use it for cultural and educational work

Western Maryland Will Not Cut Off Two Daily Trains

Two Western Maryland railway passenger trains operating between Cumberland and Baltimore will not be taken off today as scheduled, Joseph M. Miller, Elkins division superintendent, said last night.

The trains affected are No. 2 and No. 3, the former leaving Cumberland at 11:50 a. m. daily except Sunday, and the latter arriving in this city at 2:10 p. m. daily except Sunday.

Miller said the railway has been able to make a twenty-five per cent reduction ordered by the Office of Defense Transportation without cutting off the Cumberland-Baltimore trains.

He said that some 400 furloughed men will be returned to duty as freight traffic returns to normal.

Hollstein hit Taylor with an empty whisky bottle, and Taylor, who was outside the car, said he got the bottle and hit Hollstein three times until he slumped on the floor, Clements related.

"Taylor said he sat in the automobile some time. Then he pulled Hollstein out of the car and pushed him down an embankment," Clements stated.

Division Chief George Burdette said he had notified the highway patrol office at Jackson and that patrolmen were searching for Hollstein.

The veteran, 26, earlier told state police he didn't remember a thing after leaving his west Tennessee home Sunday on a hitch hiking trip to Eastern Tennessee, until he reached Nashville Monday. He is being held on a charge of larceny of an automobile.

BABY, 18 MONTHS, FALLS FORTY FEET, LACERATES GUMS

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP) — An 18-months-old baby fell some forty feet from a third-story fire escape here today—and suffered slight laceration of the gums.

The bbay, son of Patrolman Charles Valenti, of the Baltimore police force, had been left in the care of his 14-year-old sister after his mother was taken to a hospital.

The sister said she had gone into the front room for a moment, and "I guess Joey (a 4-year-old brother) must have got the door open and the baby just walked out."

A neighbor saw the child's fall, and rushed to pick him up. She called his father, who took the boy to Mercy hospital. Physicians there diagnosed his injuries as "slight lacerations of the gums," adding:

"He was more frightened than hurt."

UMWA President

Lewis will negotiate the issue. Unidentifiable operators inside the conference insisted to colleagues he had not put it that way to them, however.

Lewis ridiculed as "grotesque and absurd" operators' estimates that it would cost $70,000,000 a year. He declared this estimate was based on a 600,000,000-ton production year and actual output will fall far short of that volume.

"But regardless of cost, humanities of the miners must be taken care of," he told reporters after a closed morning conference with operators.

As a scant trickle of coal started moving from the bituminous fields under a two-week strike truce, it was learned also that Lewis had presented his offer on the vital foremen's issue.

The UMW will acknowledge that an "irreducible minimum" number of supervisory employes may be exempt from unionization, according to one informed version of Lewis's proposal—just five supervisory workers on each working shift.

The foremen's issue caused the twenty-eight day "foremens strike" last fall. Lewis now is willing to exempt one superintendent, one mine manager underground, one foreman and two assistant foremen underground.

Lewis left the morning session briefly to tell newsmen that the proposed seven per cent fund, which would be paid wholly by the operators was "ultra-conservative," in view of mining hazards.

He further stated he would agree to bind the union by contract to only six uses for the fund.

Services Outlined

He named them: medical service, hospitalization, life and health insurance, rehabilitation and training of disabled men, financial aid in hardship cases, and—if any money is left—"cultural and educational work."

The union can administer the fund more "efficiently and cheaply" than any other agency, he said, thereby rejecting a plan favored by government men for a labor-management-government board.

Such a panel, Lewis declared, would "simply become another bureaucratic governmental agency with the overhead taking up a large part of the revenue, closed with red tape, and its awards delayed after the manner of other government agencies."

There still was no sign that Lewis had carried into the morning session what may be his key demand—a wage increase of probably not less than 18½ cents an hour.

Government officials have indicated that coal operators could see price relief to cover an increase of that much, although Stabilization Director Chester Bowles said today he knew of no price understanding having been reached. The operators fear Lewis will demand more than 18½ cents, with the excess coming out of their profit margins.

Insists on Fund

The UMW president quit the negotiating session long enough to walk to the lobby of the Labor department auditorium, beckon reporters and announce that he wished to clear up misunderstandings on the welfare fund.

"The fund should be a charge against coal production," he said. "It should be made a payroll charge in an amount equal to seven per cent of the gross earnings of the men; and should be paid by the operators into a fund to be operated by the UMW."

The operators would have the veto power over the fund by merely refusing to agree to it in subsequent contract negotiations, he went on, while the union would be "constantly on trial before the councils of industry and the public at large" as to the manner of its administration.

"The mineworkers have no intention of negotiating a contract now or later that does not provide such a fund," he concluded. "It is a condition precedent to the making of any agreement."

Security Council To Meet Thursday

NEW YORK, May 14. (AP)—The United Nations announced tonight that the Security Council would meet Thursday at 11 a. m., E. D. T., to consider rules which would tighten the secrecy of private council sessions and to take up a resolution affecting the admission of Albania to the United Nations.

Simultaneously, the five-man sub-committee investigating Franco Spain said it had received and was studying a 350-page document submitted by the Spanish Republican government-in-exile. This bulky arraignment of Generalissimo Francisco Franco on charges that he menaces world peace and encourages atomic bomb experiments by Germans was submitted to the United Nations this morning.

Counter Proposal

ate action. The House previously passed the Case Strike Control bill which has been dormant in the Senate.

Senator Mead (D-NY) told reporters as he walked into a closed meeting of senators fighting pending proposals to arm the federal government with increased controls over unions that he hopes no vote will be reached until after possible settlement of the coal strike.

"We ought not to be considering legislation of this type while a strike is on," he said. "When there is no strike under way, then I think we can talk rationally about the changing the labor laws."

The New York senator said information has come to him that coal negotiations are being hampered to some extent because of the vigorous language in which some senators have couched criticism of Lewis.

But he concluded that those who want the Senate to delay have no other recourse but to talk at length.

With about ten members to draw upon, his group appeared able to keep debate going for several days if it choses to prevent any test. It seemed clear this was its intention, although the senators involved didn't want to put it into those words.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla), who objected strenuously yesterday to a proposal by Senator Byrd (D-Va) to outlaw payments by employers to union organizations such as the payroll tax asked by Lewis technically held the floor.

But Pepper yielded to Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate Labor committee to bring up a bill to extend the Draft act. And when Senator Langer (R-ND) demanded the right to talk about the draft measure, Pepper smilingly said he could have all the time he wanted.

Measure Extends

Secretary of War Patterson issued a statement saying:

"I have just learned that the Senate has passed the extension of the Selective Service until July 1 as modified by the House of Representatives. I hope that before July 1 an extension of Selective Service for one year will be adopted by the Congress in such form as to permit the War Department to carry out the tasks expected of it by the nation."

The Senate vote came after Sen. Langer (R-ND) had talked for more than four hours opposing peacetime conscription.

Fearing that Congress would not act before midnight, President Truman in late afternoon signed an executive order continuing the draft organization intact, but without power to induct any more men.

However, the White House made plain that it stood ready to rescind this order after action by Congress.

The order did, however, proclaim that conscientious objectors must remain in work camps until released by "competent authority." Officials previously had expressed doubt that there would be any legal authority to hold such men if the Selective Service act were allowed to lapse.

With regard to conscientious objectors, the order said:

"Persons who, in lieu of induction into the land or naval forces, have heretofore been assigned to work of national importance under civilian direction pursuant to Section Five (G) of such act shall remain so assigned in this program until such time they are released therefrom by competent authority."

Under the order, the Selective Service system is placed under the Office for Emergency Management of the executive office of the president.

Langer took the Senate floor for what he said would be an extended speech and two hours later still was going strong.

Some senators announced they were reluctantly voting for the extension as the only thing that could be done to keep the draft act alive.

Sen. Revercomb (R-W Va), opponent of peacetime conscription and constant advocate of release for all drafted fathers, said he favored the extension only because it prevents "re-employment rights of millions of veterans from expiring."

Accident Board's Right To Limit Payments Affirmed

ANNAPOLIS, May 14 (AP)—Stressing the desirability that the "law should remain settled," the Maryland Court of Appeals reaffirmed today the right of the state industrial accident commission to limit disability payments below the legal maximum.

The tribunal denied an appeal by Georgia Townsend, Baltimore, formerly employed as a Bethlehem-Fairfield shipyard shipfitter, from the Baltimore City Court which upheld the accident commission in stopping permanent partial disability payments to the appellant after a $2,000 mark had been reached.

These payments were made under a section of the law covering unspecified injuries. The appellant, who suffered an impairment of one kidney because of an accident, argued that under the section the commission had no right to reduce the legal allowance maximum, then $3,000 and now, under subsequent amendment, $5,000.

She asked the court to overrule its previous decisions in such cases and construe the clause "by giving effect to what she claims are the clear and unambiguous words of the statute," the opinion said.

Citing cases in which it had held the contrary, the tribunal said, "it is a well recognized and valuable doctrine that decisions, once made on a question involved in a case before the court, should not hereafter be lightly disturbed or set aside."

Secretaries of War And Navy Will Visit Annapolis, West Point

WASHINGTON, May 14. (AP)—The secretaries of war and navy will show off their respective academies to each other tomorrow and Saturday, it was announced tonight.

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson will tour the naval academy at Annapolis with Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal tomorrow. Following a dress parade by the midshipmen the two secretaries will "discuss problems of the naval academy" with the superintendent, Vice Admiral Aubrey W. Fitch, and then return to Washington, the announcement said.

Saturday morning the two secretaries and members of their staffs will fly to West Point and look over the military academy there.

Army Flier Finds Tractor Driver Is Secretary Patterson

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Second Lt. P. L. Murray was a surprised and embarrassed pilot—the man on the tractor really was his boss, Secretary of War Patterson.

Lt. Murray, an army air forces pilot, made a forced landing Sunday near Cold Spring, N. Y., and was skeptical when the man driving a tractor in a nearby field identified himself as Patterson.

In fact, War department officials said today, he was so skeptical he first retorted "so's your old man." But he soon became convinced, explained his plight and Patterson helped him get the gasoline he needed to resume his flight, the War department related.

Contract Is Awarded

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 14 (AP)—The board of public works today awarded a $1,798,860 contract to J. Roland Dashiell of Salisbury to construct Deer's Head State Chronic Disease hospital near Salisbury.

Dashiell's bid contained an alternate proposal of a $142,000 fixed profit, with ninety percent of any saving to go to the state and ten per cent to the contractor.

Governor O'Conor moved that the bid be accepted after he received from Dr. Robert H. Riley, head of the state health department, notice that the state Board of Health had unanimously approved the proposed project.

"We all know what the committee has now recommended," he continued.

"Has it in reality advanced the basic solution of the great problem which the world confronts? x x x Has it in reality done anything other than to confuse public opinion with regard to the real issues involved in the determination of the future of Palestine?"

U.S. Has Obligation

Saying he questioned neither the committee's motives nor judgment, he said he did question the "wisdom of our government in asking them at this time to assume these responsibilities."

Welles asserted that the United States had an "inescapable moral obligation to lend the full support of our government within the United Nations for the furtherance of that kind of solution which will mean that those men and women of the Jewish faith throughout the world who wish to make Palestine their permanent home shall be afforded the opportunity of doing so freely.

"The government must at the same time press for the establishment of a free and democratic commonwealth of Palestine, which will afford security and equal rights to all of its citizens, whatever their faith and whatever their race may be.

"If the United Nations assumes its just responsibility, establishes a trusteeship over Palestine, and permits the immigration into that country of those who desire to settle there, Palestine in all probability will in the future possess a majority of citizens of the Jewish faith. I believe that that is its rightful destiny."

One Group Blamed For Economic Chaos By Gov. O'Conor

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 14. (AP)—Governor O'Conor, in a speech prepared for delivery tonight before the Sixteenth Ward Democratic Club of Baltimore, declared the nation "has been brought to the brink of chaos because one group among us has elected to go its own way."

Without naming the United Mine Workers, the governor said millions of American workers "anxious to help speed America on the road of economic recovery, were forced "because of the demands of one group to forego opportunity for employment.

"The one group which has brought about this situation is vastly in the minority. Their unalterable demands for betterment of their situation, however, has brought suffering and financial loss to many millions in no wise associated with them."

"This is wrong. No thinking person can justify it."

Asserting "no official has been more earnest than I in his desire to guarantee that labor should be afforded every opportunity to advance its cause" the governor said, "The debate yesterday in Washington would indicate a national reaction unfavorable to labor if such labor legislation is passed there is all too much likelihood that labor will suffer thereby."

It cannot be overlooked, he said, "that under our Democratic system, and according to all laws of justice and decency, the good of all our people is above the good of any particular group."

The governor is a Democratic candidate for the U. S. senatorial nomination.

U. S., London Make Progress in Talks

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The United States and Britain were reported today to be making satisfactory progress toward an agreement on control of several disputed, strategically located islands in the Pacific.

Acting Secretary of State Acheson officially disclosed that talks were under way between Washington and London — evidently as part of the postwar negotiations undertaken by the government to create a permanent chain of land, sea and air bases in the Atlantic and Pacific.

Almost simultaneously with Acheson's disclosure the White House announced that Admiral William D. Leahy, President Truman's chief of staff, would fly to London tomorrow to arrange for final withdrawal of a "comparative few" American troops remaining in New Zealand, Australia, the Dutch East Indies, Malaya and India.

The minor nature of the mission contrasted vividly with the importance of Leahy's position as one of the foremost military men operating under direct orders from the president. Hence there was immediate speculation as to whether the real purpose of the trip had been disclosed.

Lewis Lists Points For Holding Out For Welfare Fund

Would Eliminate Present "Company-Doctor Scourge," He Says

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—John Lewis, United Mine Workers president, gave this oral statement to reporters about the proposed UMW health and welfare fund which he proposed to the soft coal contract conference:

The mine workers request the fund for the following six reasons:

First, adequate and modern medical service to the coal miners and their dependent families, with a choice of physicians which in many areas, particularly in the south, they do not now have. The plan is to replace the present company-doctor scourge.

Second, to provide adequate hospitalization under proper standards.

Third, to provide life and health insurance for the miners which they cannot now purchase. Life insurance costs the mine workers about 277 percent of what it costs about 277 per cent of what it costs Obviously a miner cannot purchase it at that price, his family is unprotected in case of death from violence in the mines or natural causes. This fund can provide such insurance on a mass basis much more cheaply than miners could buy it themselves if they were able to buy it.

Fourth, rehabilitation—men who are injured and disabled in the mines through the loss of limbs, blindness or other major physical injuries need rehabilitation. There are no facilities available for the mine workers now, and there are probably living 50,000 men who have been incapacitated for further mining service by injury, who have received no assistance or training for other vocational employment.

Fifth, economic aid in distress or hardship cases. Families become paupers because they have not received compensation provided by the states, through the manipulation of the company-doctor system and by reason of the testimony of the company doctor. His is the only medical testimony available, because the miner cannot secure other medical testimony to refute the claims of the company doctor. As a consequence, his award for total disability may be cut as low as thirty per cent and his family may become paupers.

Sixth, if there is any money left in the fund, we propose to use it for cultural and educational work

In Kentucky, the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad recalled about 575 furloughed workers at Russell; the Illinois Central line took back 1,000 at its Paducah shops, and a Louisville firm, the Belknap Hardware and Manufacturing Company recalled 1,500 workers who were furloughed last Saturday.

Western Maryland Will Not Cut Off Two Daily Trains

Two Western Maryland railway passenger trains operating between Cumberland and Baltimore will not be taken off today as scheduled, Joseph M. Miller, Elkins division superintendent, said last night.

The trains affected are No. 2 and No. 3, the former leaving Cumberland at 11:50 a. m. daily except Sunday, and the latter arriving in this city at 2:10 p. m. daily except Sunday.

Miller said the railway has been able to make a twenty-five per cent reduction ordered by the Office of Defense Transportation without cutting off the Cumberland-Baltimore trains.

He said that some 400 furloughed men will be returned to duty as freight traffic returns to normal.

McEwen they stopped and had an argument.

Hollstein hit Taylor with an empty whisky bottle, and Taylor, who was outside the car, said he got the bottle and hit Hollstein three times until he slumped on the floor, Clements related.

"Taylor said he sat in the automobile some time. Then he pulled Hollstein out of the car and pushed him down an embankment," Clements stated.

Division Chief George Burdette said he had notified the highway patrol office at Jackson and that patrolmen were searching for Hollstein.

The veteran, 26, earlier told state police he didn't remember a thing after leaving his west Tennessee home Sunday on a hitch hiking trip to Eastern Tennessee, until he reached Nashville Monday. He is being held on a charge of larceny of an automobile.

BABY, 18 MONTHS, FALLS FORTY FEET, LACERATES GUMS

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP) — An 18-months-old baby fell some forty feet from a third-story fire escape here today—and suffered slight laceration of the gums.

The bbay, son of Patrolman Charles Valenti, of the Baltimore police force, had been left in the care of his 14-year-old sister after his mother was taken to a hospital.

The sister said she had gone into the front room for a moment, and "I guess Joey (a 4-year-old brother) must have got the door open and the baby just walked out."

A neighbor saw the child's fall, and rushed to pick him up. She called his father, who took the boy to Mercy hospital. Physicians there diagnosed his injuries as "slight lacerations of the gums," adding:

"He was more frightened than hurt."

UMWA President

Lewis will negotiate the issue. Unidentifiable operators inside the conference insisted to colleagues he had not put it that way to them, however.

Lewis ridiculed as "grotesque and absurd" operators' estimates that it would cost $70,000,000 a year. He declared this estimate was based on a 600,000,000-ton production year and actual output will fall far short of that volume.

"But regardless of cost, humanities of the miners must be taken care of," he told reporters after a closed morning conference with operators.

As a scant trickle of coal started moving from the bituminous fields under a two-week strike truce, it was learned also that Lewis had presented his offer on the vital foremen's issue.

The UMW will acknowledge that an "irreducible minimum" number of supervisory employes may be exempt from unionization, according to one informed version of Lewis's proposal—just five supervisory workers on each working shift.

The foremen's issue caused the twenty-eight day "foremens strike" last fall. Lewis now is willing to exempt one superintendent, one mine manager underground, one foreman and two assistant foremen underground.

Lewis left the morning session briefly to tell newsmen that the proposed seven per cent fund, which would be paid wholly by the operators was "ultra-conservative," in view of mining hazards.

He further stated he would agree to bind the union by contract to only six uses for the fund.

Services Outlined

He named them: medical service, hospitalization, life and health insurance, rehabilitation and training of disabled men, financial aid in hardship cases, and—if any money is left—"cultural and educational work."

The union can administer the fund more "efficiently and cheaply" than any other agency, he said, thereby rejecting a plan favored by government men for a labor-management-government board.

Such a panel, Lewis declared, would "simply become another bureaucratic governmental agency with the overhead taking up a large part of the revenue, closed with red tape, and its awards delayed after the manner of other government agencies."

There still was no sign that Lewis had carried into the morning session what may be his key demand—a wage increase of probably not less than 18½ cents an hour.

Government officials have indicated that coal operators could see price relief to cover an increase of that much, although Stabilization Director Chester Bowles said today he knew of no price understanding having been reached. The operators fear Lewis will demand more than 18½ cents, with the excess coming out of their profit margins.

Insists on Fund

The UMW president quit the negotiating session long enough to walk to the lobby of the Labor department auditorium, beckon reporters and announce that he wished to clear up misunderstandings on the welfare fund.

"The fund should be a charge against coal production," he said. "It should be made a payroll charge in an amount equal to seven per cent of the gross earnings of the men; and should be paid by the operators into a fund to be operated by the UMW."

The operators would have the veto power over the fund by merely refusing to agree to it in subsequent contract negotiations; he went on, while the union would be "constantly on trial before the councils of industry and the public at large" as to the manner of its administration.

"The mineworkers have no intention of negotiating a contract now or later that does not provide such a fund," he concluded. "It is a condition precedent to the making of any agreement."

Security Council To Meet Thursday

NEW YORK, May 14. (AP)—The United Nations announced tonight that the Security Council would meet Thursday at 11 a. m., E. D. T., to consider rules which would tighten the secrecy of private council sessions and to take up a resolution affecting the admission of Albania to the United Nations.

Simultaneously, the five-man sub-committee investigating Franco Spain said it had received and was studying a 350-page document submitted by the Spanish Republican government-in-exile. This bulky arraignment of Generalissimo Francisco Franco on charges that he menaces world peace and encourages atomic bomb experiments by Germans was submitted to the United Nations this morning.

Counter Proposal

ate action. The House previously passed the Case Strike Control bill which has been dormant in the Senate.

Senator Mead (D-NY) told reporters as he walked into a closed meeting of senators fighting pending proposals to arm the federal government with increased controls over unions that he hopes no vote will be reached until after possible settlement of the coal strike.

"We ought not to be considering legislation of this type while a strike is on," he said. "When there is no strike under way, then I think we can talk rationally about the changing the labor laws."

The New York senator said information has come to him that coal negotiations are being hampered to some extent because of the vigorous language in which some senators have couched criticism of Lewis.

But he concluded that those who want the Senate to delay have no other recourse but to talk at length.

With about ten members to draw upon, his group appeared able to keep debate going for several days if it choses to prevent any test. It seemed clear this was its intention, although the senators involved didn't want to put it into those words.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla), who objected strenuously yesterday to a proposal by Senator Byrd (D-Va) to outlaw payments by employers to union organizations such as the payroll tax asked by Lewis technically held the floor.

But Pepper yielded to Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate Labor committee to bring up a bill to extend the Draft act. And when Senator Langer (R-ND) demanded the right to talk about the draft measure, Pepper smilingly said he could have all the time he wanted.

Measure Extends

Secretary of War Patterson issued a statement saying:

"I have just learned that the Senate has passed the extension of the Selective Service until July 1 as modified by the House of Representatives. I hope that before July 1 an extension of Selective Service for one year will be adopted by the Congress in such form as to permit the War Department to carry out the tasks expected of it by the nation."

The Senate vote came after Sen. Langer (R-ND) had talked for more than four hours opposing peacetime conscription.

Fearing that Congress would not act before midnight, President Truman in late afternoon signed an executive order continuing the draft organization intact, but without power to induct any more men.

However, the White House made plain that it stood ready to rescind this order after action by Congress.

The order did, however, proclaim that conscientious objectors must remain in work camps until released by "competent authority." Officials previously had expressed doubt that there would be any legal authority to hold such men if the Selective Service act were allowed to lapse.

With regard to conscientious objectors, the order said:

"Persons who, in lieu of induction into the land or naval forces, have heretofore been assigned to work of national importance under civilian direction pursuant to Section Five (G) of such act shall remain so assigned in this program until such time they are released therefrom by competent authority."

Under the order, the Selective Service system is placed under the Office for Emergency Management of the executive office of the president.

Langer took the Senate floor for what he said would be an extended speech and two hours later still was going strong.

Some senators announced they were reluctantly voting for the extension as the only thing that could be done to keep the draft act alive.

Sen. Revercomb (R-W Va), opponent of peacetime conscription and constant advocate of release for all drafted fathers, said he favored the extension only because it prevents "re-employment rights of millions of veterans from expiring."

Accident Board's Right To Limit Payments Affirmed

ANNAPOLIS, May 14 (AP)—Stressing the desirability that the "law should remain settled," the Maryland Court of Appeals reaffirmed today the right of the state industrial accident commission to limit disability payments below the legal maximum.

The tribunal denied an appeal by Georgia Townsend, Baltimore, formerly employed as a Bethlehem-Fairfield shipyard shipfitter, from the Baltimore City Court which upheld the accident commission in stopping permanent partial disability payments to the appellant after a $2,000 mark had been reached.

These payments were made under a section of the law covering unspecified injuries. The appellant, who suffered an impairment of one kidney because of an accident, argued that under the section the commission had no right to reduce the legal allowance moximum, then $3,000 and now, under subsequent amendment, $5,000.

She asked the court to overrule its previous decisions in such cases and construe the clause "by giving effect to what she claims are the clear and unambiguous words of the statute," the opinion said.

Citing cases in which it had held the contrary, the tribunal said, "it is a well recognized and valuable doctrine that decisions, once made on a question involved in a case before the court, should not hereafter be lightly disturbed or set aside."

Secretaries of War And Navy Will Visit Annapolis, West Point

WASHINGTON, May 14. (AP)—The secretaries of war and navy will show off their respective academies to each other tomorrow and Saturday, it was announced tonight.

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson will tour the naval academy at Annapolis with Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal tomorrow. Following a dress parade by the midshipmen the two secretaries will "discuss problems of the naval academy" with the superintendent, Vice Admiral Aubrey W. Fitch, and then return to Washington, the announcement said.

Saturday morning the two secretaries and members of their staffs will fly to West Point and look over the military academy there.

Cumberland Council Navy League of the United States, expects to make a final decision on location of a club room at a meeting next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in city hall auditorium.

Last night, William B. Orndorff, commander of the Amvets, addressed the council and discussed a proposed state bonus for veterans of World War II.

Army Flier Finds Tractor Driver Is Secretary Patterson

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Second Lt. P. L. Murray was a surprised and embarrassed pilot—the man on the tractor really was his boss, Secretary of War Patterson.

Lt. Murray, an army air forces pilot, made a forced landing Sunday near Cold Spring, N. Y., and was skeptical when the man driving a tractor in a nearby field identified himself as Patterson.

In fact, War department officials said today, he was so skeptical he first retorted "so's your old man." But he soon became convinced, explained his plight and Patterson helped him get the gasoline he needed to resume his flight, the War department related.

Government-Owned Machinery Can Not Be Taxed in State

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP)—Maryland tax officials said today that government-owned machinery, even though it is the property of corporations which are branches of the government, cannot be taxed in Maryland.

The United States Supreme Court has ruled that such machinery is taxable in Pennsylvania.

The unanimous high court decision handed down yesterday does not affect Maryland tax problems, Albert W. Ward, Maryland State Tax Commission secretary, asserted.

Ward said the point involved in the supreme court case was the law of Pennsylvania which considers machinery as real property.

In Maryland, Ward continued, machinery is not real estate unless it is so affixed to the realty or permanent structures as to be deemed part of the real estate.

Nationalization Of Industry

NATIONALIZATION OF INDUSTRY—feared by many as a revolutionary prospect for the United States in consequence of strikes in major industries—now is advocated outright by the president of a powerful railroad brotherhood as the best way for the government to deal with the threatened nationwide railroad strike. President A. F. Whitney, of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, has asked Congress to enact legislation to this end and to "impound all funds and make suitable adjustments of grievances with employes" because of "the obstinacy of the railroads and the fact that they are unwilling to make a reasonable settlement."

When state socialism, in the form of government ownership, is advocated in furtherance of the interests of a labor union, it is time for the American people to consider how vitally and directly the pressure of unionism is affecting their destiny.

Nationalization of industry is a threat to the American economic system of free enterprise, a threat no less prejudicial to the American worker than to the American employer. It would put the national economy on a bureaucratic basis tending toward totalitarianism and menacing individual rights.

How uncompromising is the attitude back of the Whitney proposal can be seen in the background of recent developments. Both the trainmen and officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers walked out of a meeting with the carriers in Chicago after turning down the settlement proposals advanced by the president's fact-finding board. Whitney said at the time there would be no further negotiations "until the railroads come to us in Cleveland."

Equally challenging is the argument put forth by the trainmen's president. He asserted that government ownership and operation of the roads "appears to be the only way by which over-capitalization may be corrected and railroad finances placed upon a sound basis." Ignoring the obvious rejoinder that railroad finances are not the business of railroad unions, it may be pointed out that the government took control of the railroads as a World War I measure in January, 1918, and from then until February 29, 1920, operated them at a loss of $1,696,000,000.

Actually it can be contended that the railroad workers least can afford nationalization, even if such a step should bring about granting of their immediate demands. In every country where government has become the main employer—either through socialization of industry or through piecemeal nationalization as proposed by Whitney—organized labor has lost its free bargaining power. Nationalization of industry brings about nationalization of labor—a thing which may be called by prettier names but is communism or fascism.

Is that what Whitney wants?

Lewis's New Demand Is Really Not New

WHILE the Wagner Labor Relations law forbids employers from contributing any moneys to unions and this provision has raised doubts in the minds of President Truman and others regarding the royalty on coal originally sought by John L. Lewis, Samuel B. Pettengill, the commentator, declares that Lewis and the operators can lawfully agree to a private tax on coal and give the money to him.

It appears that Pettengill is correct both with regard to some existing law and precedents. He points out that by implication the "Petrillo" bill recently enacted actually gives the blessing of Congress to Petrillo in collecting royalty on electrical recordings, which he has done for a long time and still does. The measure, he notes, simply forbids a second tax every time the recording is played.

So for the record this may be noted along with the reminder by David Dubinsky, leader of the AFL Ladies' Garment Workers union, that Lewis's request for a seven per cent pay-roll assessment is nothing new. It is new only in the size of the demand. Dubinsky's union won a health and vacation fund five years ago for approximately 300,000 of its members. It is financed by a pay-roll deduction of one and one-half to five per cent.

For about 200,000 union members, the union has sole administration of the fund. Agreements with two of the twenty-eight employer groups which cover about 100,000 workers provide for joint employer-union committees to administer the fund. The agreements stipulate that the funds cannot be used for any purpose except health and vacation benefits and the cost of administration.

Health benefits include illness and accident payments, cost of operations and free medical examination. Dubinsky says the union makes public statements annually. The plan, Dubinsky says, was obtained without strikes.

So it appears that Lewis has to an extent resolved doubts about the royalty tax proposal by switching to his new demand for a pay-roll levy to finance a miners' health and welfare fund.

But if a tax of this kind is won for the miners union—and it appears that they are entitled to a health and welfare fund of some kind—it might be necessary to provide limits with regard to existing health and welfare rights in order to prevent an undue multiplication of them.

But the whole thing shows further that Lewis is not proceeding illegally in his move toward getting something more for his miners and that jumping upon him is merely avoiding the real point of the matter.

If anything is wrong about a coal strike that paralyzes the industry of the whole nation—and patently there is something wrong about such a thing—the remedy is not at Lewis's door, nor does it lie in such futile efforts as were made with the Petrillo bill, but at the door of Congress primarily, which enacted the laws that have made it both possible and entirely legal; and secondarily, and with almost equal responsibility, with an administration that has promoted unfair, one-sided application of those laws.

Lewis's course, however unpopular, should serve to get the straight of this whole business.

Our Teen-Age Callithumpians

THREE SCHOOLBOYS down at Richmond, Va., dressed themselves in crisp cotton frocks and marched primly off to school the other day. It wasn't, as might at first be supposed, the result of the shortage in male clothing, which it well might have been, that prompted the demonstration. It was, instead, an urge to protest the bobby-soxers' appropriation of boys' slacks, old sweaters and undershirts, and run-down shoes.

The school principal characterized the demonstration as "silly" and marched the paraders off home to change their attire. In a way, it may have been silly, but it was no sillier than the outlandish rigs that the feminine teen-agers — and some older enough to know better who desperately but mostlyunsuccessfully seek to ape them—have for some time been wearing—not in their back yards or their gardens, but right out in public everywhere.

Those costumes with their general untidiness, the baggy slacks, or rolled-up denim overalls; the exposed shirttails and the touseled hair mussed up in keeping with the general picture, make these youngsters look like real toughies from the slums. And it's a great pity.

Oh, yes, it is a rogue, and, like all fashion foibles, it will soon wear itself out, and the feminine teen-agers will eventually become more presentable; bue there are many who can be excused for hoping that the day will be speedily forthcoming.

Car Seat Scheme Has Drawbacks

AMONG the innovations envisioned for the forthcoming new automobiles is a front seat arrangement whereby the driver will sit forward of the other passengers in a sort of "nose" something like those used on bombers.

The purpose of the pilot-house affair is that of reducing accidents by giving the driver a wider range of vision. But there are two practical drawbacks.

One is the likelihood that accidents would not be reduced because the driver would be constantly tempted to twist himself around to direct a remark to his fellow passengers.

The other has to do with romance, it being pointed out that with millions of girl friends sitting out of sight, and at least partially out of mind, the engagement and marriage rate would be sure to suffer.

It doesn't look as if this invention would be at all practical.

Statistician who has figured that a person's chances that lightning won't strike him this year are 330,000 to one has thrown cold water on many a candidate's aspirations.

Bureaucrats declare things are getting better, perhaps on the theory that in the summer men are not so particular whether they have shirts on their backs.

A dispute over six men brought a strike of 2,000 rubber workers. Verily this is becoming a nation of minor minorities.

Labor Legislation Faces Dilatory Action in Senate

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 14. —It's the same old story in the Senate. Already the advocates of delay and the sponsors of a program of sabotage are active to prevent the Congress from passing any laws to protect the public interest as against abuse of collective bargaining powers.

The same tactics have now, for more than a decade, kept the Senate from passing any laws to clarify the Wagner law and make it two-sided instead of one-sided.

Today employees can misrepresent what the employer is doing and actually can carry on campaigns undermining the employer's business, but there is no redress either from the employer or for the minority of his employees who are helpless to get out of the strait jacket imposed upon them by closed shops.

Collective bargaining requires good faith on the part of the employer but not of the union. Coercion and intimidation can be used by organizers, but the employer is forbidden even to discuss the issues arising in his own plant. Where good labor relations have long prevailed, there can be and is disturbance of such relationships because the National Labor Relations Board can be used to tie the hands and silence the voice of the employer.

Pendulum at Extreme

The pendulum has swung to an extreme in the alleged attempt to equalize bargaining power. The bargaining power is preponderantly on labor's side today. The nation is at present suffering from the effects of a coal strike which could have and should have been settled by collective bargaining. But one side—the union—after a month's delay did not present its demands clearly until this very week. Yet if the employers had similarly refrained from stating their position, they could have been penalized under the Wagner law.

The Senate is thoroughly familiar with the whole situation but doesn't believe the American people are aroused about it. And maybe they aren't. A number of letters and telegrams of indignation have come in to Capitol Hill but it isn't anything like the protest which would be expected to flow from such a drastic curtailment of public facilities occasioned by the shortage of coal. Maybe the public is calloused to inconvenience.

Dilatory Tactics Revealed

If the American people really care about the emergency that has arisen—something which may seriously be doubted if the evidence in letters and telegrams is appraised—they might be persuading their senators to do something about it.

A bi-partisan group of senators is working on new labor legislation but the tactics of the pro-labor group are already revealed. There are senators who cry out that to do something now about the coal emergency is being "anti-labor" and that the coal strike mustn't be used to limit labor's rights.

The House of Representatives has already passed a bill restricting the opportunities of labor unions to abuse collective bargaining privileges. But the Senate has a strong pro-labor group who feel they owe their election to labor votes. Presumably the citizens generally do not organize into an anti-labor group but divide into the two major parties, voting the same straight tickets each time irrespective of what their representatives in Congress do about the labor problem.

Different Story Possible

If all the citizens who are disturbed about the labor situation were to make up their minds to forget about party lines and vote against any Republican or any Democrat who refuses to protect the public interest and who blocks labor legislation, there would be a different story to tell.

The tactics of delay are emerging. One group of senators friendly to the unions is already proposing an investigation of labor conditions. This probably would wind up in a witch-hunt against employers. It certainly is designed to postpone action. Congress, however, knows—and has known for a decade—that the Wagner law has defects and needs amendment. But the concerted action of the labor unions always blocks corrective legislation.

Now that it appears there is some of the labor side is to urge further investigations, but, of course, no action. It will be interesting to see whether a majority of the Senate can reflect the public will today or whether further abuses will have to occur before the Senators will wake up to the fact that the voters want them to act in the interes of all he people.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Drew Pearson Notes Basic Difference Between Hoover, Roosevelt and Truman

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 14 — Insiders who have watched the Hoover, Roosevelt and Truman administrations, point to two events as best illustrating their methods of approaching national problems. Those two events are: The bonus army under Herbert Hoover, and the coal strike under Harry Truman.

Roosevelt also was threatened with a bonus army, also with several coal strikes. But they have been forgotten, whereas the public will always remember the Hoover bonus army and the current coal crisis.

And in this very fact is found the basic difference of technique between Hoover, Roosevelt and Truman.

Hoover sat in the White House watching the bonus army of veterans daily grow larger until it reached the unruly total of 20,000 men, and finally was driven out of the city by Gen. MacArthur, leaving a black mark against the Hoover administration never to be lived down.

Roosevelt Anticipated Issue

As Roosevelt came into office, bonus army veterans continued to enter Washington. But FDR, without any fanfare, sent them to Ft. Hunt, Va., where they were fed, clothed and sent to areas where work was most available.

In handling the threatened coal strikes, Roosevelt also tried to meet the issue before it met him. Sixty days in advance of the contract deadline—not thirty days as this time—he had Harold Ickes, one of his strongest cabinet members, start knocking Lewis's and the mine operators' heads together. And at one time he was all set to go on the radio with the most scathing denunciation Lewis had ever received, when John L., tipped off in advance, yielded.

Roosevelt, of course, had the full force of "no strikes in wartime" behind him. Truman didn't. However, not only did Truman delay intervention between the warring miner-operation factions, but neglected all the many steps he could have taken, both to soften the coal miners and cut the ground out from under Lewis.

Best Lewis Weapon Neglected

Last autumn, for instance, when Lewis pulled his abortive strike to secure recognition of the foreman's union, Ickes advised Truman that Lewis was on shaky ground, that his miners weren't behind him, that then was the time to weaken Lewis by going over his head to get the miners back to work. Ickes knew the miners already were straggling back to work, would welcome a plea from the White House. They had no sympathy for a foremen's union. But Truman didn't act.

Ickes also urged that the two government-owned pipelines, built during the submarine crisis to bring oil to the Atlantic coast, to be turned into natural gas lines to tap Texas gas fields. For gas competition against coal is what Lewis fears most.

Two applications from reputable groups to buy these pipelines have been on file with the Federal Power Commission, but nothing has happened. While it would take some time to get the pipelines operating, not one preliminary move has been made. Even the threat to open these lines would send shivers down John L. Lewis's back.

Miners Deserve Safety

Finally, the miners have a legitimate grievance regarding mine safety. Never have they been able to get a satisfactory safety law passed by Congress. In his private conferences, Truman has taken the position that this must be worked out by the operators and the miners; but if, instead of waiting for this, he had urged Congress to pass a mine safety law, he would have pulled the rug from under one of Lewis's best arguments.

Likewise with the welfare fund. Other unions have such a fund. The railroad brotherhoods have a retirement fund established by Congress. The same could be done for the miners—though not to be administered by one man.

However, no one in the White House saw these things in advance, no one had the vision to crack down on John L. Lewis with gas pipelines in one hand and mine safety, plus a proper welfare fund, in the other.

This failure to meet the issues early, to ward off either a bonus army or a coal strike before it festers, is the gravest failure of the Truman administration today.

It is the difference between statesmanship and muddling through. It gets to the heart of why we, the most victorious, the strongest, nation to emerge from the war, have lost our leadership of the world today.

Lewis Demands Holiday Pay

Inside fact is that the first day's coal negotiations between John L. Lewis and the operators got off to a bad start. Lewis demanded time-and-a-half pay promised him by Roosevelt for holiday work, but which Truman had canceled shortly after V-J day.

Ed McGrady, opening the negotiations, did his best to emphasize the importance of the conference.

"President Truman, speaking for the people," McGrady declared, "has said that he wants some results from us in four or five days. We must not let him down and disappoint the American people."

However, Lewis again raised the question of pay for Labor day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's, and refused to arbitrate. The coal operators requested time to caucus, but after hurried conferences were not able to reach an agreement to give Lewis this pay. They contend that, inasmuch as President Truman by an executive order abolished Roosevelt's promise shortly after V-J day, they are not obligated to pay anything further to the miners.

"You've got the money in your pockets," thundered Lewis to the operators. "It belongs to my men."

Mine Dictator Lewis

Last week, John L. Lewis had an interesting hour's conference with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, in which he made this remark:

"Why don't you seize the mines? You seize the mines and appoint a good administrator, and your crisis will be over."

"Who do you think would make a good administrator?" asked Schwellenbach.

"John L. Lewis," replied John L. Lewis. "I'll see that you get your coal."

Later, in negotiations with John Steelman, Lewis opposed seizure of the mines and said that he couldn't trust the Solid Fuels Administration to run them. Lewis said the Solid Fuels Administration and the Interior department were "full of broken-down mining engineers who are tools of the operators."

White House Merry-Go-Round

Weakest man around the president continues to be St. Louis's John Snyder, the alleged war reconverter. Bob Hannegan (who incidentally says Snyder is from Arkansas, not Missouri) has done his best to persuade Truman to oust Snyder. The president won't budge. . . . The President's Daughter

Washington society has been buzz-z-z-zing about the president's daughter's having run to lunch with a nice young man before the Kentucky derby, thereby standing up a large and official luncheon of Kentuckians who had gathered to do her honor.

However, here is what really happened. Charming, efficient lobbyist for the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad is Wichita McCullough, former West Virginia WPAdministrator, who throws big parties in Washington at the expense of the C. and O. and does an A-1 job for his railroad.

McCullough invited 100 select officials to travel with him to the derby on a special train, including Margaret Truman. On the train were Secretary of the Treasury Vinson and his delightful wife, both Kentuckians; Mr. and Mrs. Paul porter, also Kentuckians, with four Texans also slipped in, Attorney General Tom Clark and Congressman Lyndon Johnson, plus their better halves.

Six months earlier this group had been invited to lunch with Vinson's old aide, now counsel for the Democratic National Committee, Edward "Alsop" Prichard, at his home in Paris, Ky. So, although C. and O. Lobbyist McCullough tried to get them to a big luncheon he staged in Lexington, this cabinet group refused to renege on their original invitation and took the president's daughter with them.

The McCullough luncheon did wait for Margaret, and the railroad lobbyist did get in a huff, though he had no reason to.

Later Margaret turned up at the derby with handsome Henry Prichard, brother of Ed, which brought immediate ohs and ahs from the Washington society of columnists.

"Could it be," they sighed, "that Margaret is in love?"

If so, it was love at first sight. Prior to the derby she and Henry had never met.

On Eating-- And Eaters

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Brillat-Savarin was the one who said that famous saying: "Tell me what you eat, and I will tell you what you are."

During these rationing days, and the re-arrangement of our diet, it is interesting to read of famous folks who ate, how and what they ate. Pope, it is said shortened his life by feeding too much "on high-seasoned dishes, and drinking spirits." The Wordsworths rarely dined—they disliked it. They merely went to the cupboard when hungry, and got what they wanted.

Samuel Pepys, in his diary tells of leaving the table when a black piece of meat "came out of the pot." Dr. Johnson was disguested when some fried haddock was served at an eating place, and so it was ordered off the table.

A lady, sitting next to Trollope, the novelist, noted that he took everything that was passed to him, and remarked: "You seem to have a very good appetite." To which he replied: "None at all, madam, but thank God, I am very greedy."

Charles Lamb, writing to his friend, Thomas Allsop, inviting him to dinner, had this to say: "Leg of Lamb, as before, hot at 4. And the heart of Lamb ever." Lamb, as you may know, was a famous punster.

Tennyson liked his eggs not too lightly cooked. At a hotel where he ordered them, he sent his eggs to be boiled longer and expostulated with the pretty waitress "as to the softness of her eggs and the apparent hardness of her heart," which was followed by a hearty laugh on the part of both. And it was Oliver Wendell Holmes who remarked that the only palatable thing occasionally to be had" in a tavern, was "a boiled egg."

G. K. Chesterton, in his autobiography, remarked: "My ignorance of cookery is such that I can even eat the food in the most fashionable and expensive hotels in London." Arnold Bennett, apparently was not so ignorant of the ways of a gourmet. The Ritz Hotel sent him some pate de foie gras, and he remarked: "This means pate de foie gras at every meal, as the stuff won't keep." Later his Aunt sent him some oat-cakes, and he remarked: "I adore oat-cakes: yet was I glad to have eaten the last one this morning."

A friend, dining with Tennyson, wrote: "We had two chops, one pickle, two cheeses, one pint of stout, one pint of port, and three cigars."

Private Coal Tax Is within the Law, Pettengill Says

By SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL

John Lewis is not doing anything illegal. He is entirely within the law. To make this a contest of who scowls the hardest doesn't stoke the boiler.

Lewis demands that foremen be unionized. But N.L.R.B. has just decided that is O.K. by them. So why jump on John?

Lewis is on strike. But strikes are within the law. And didn't the administration support steel and auto and other strikes that lasted much longer than the coal strike has so far?

Lewis wants to levy a tax on coal to build up a huge welfare fund under his absolute control. But this precedent was established long ago, and the administration did nothing about it except to scold mildly when a campaign was on. Petrillo has been collecting a royalty on electrical recordings for a long time and still does. By implication, the "Petrillo" bill, recently enacted, gives it the blessing of Congress. The bill simply forbids a second tax every time the recording is played.

Private Tax Seen Lawful

Lewis and the operators can lawfully agree to levy a private tax of ten cents or $10 on every ton of coal, and give the money to John. The operators have refused to do this (although permitted to Petrillo). They are right and should be supported.

Nevertheless, if Lewis can get away with his demands, as Petrillo did, there is nothing in the Wagner act or anti-trust laws to stop him. Labor unions have been "exempted out" by the administration, Congress and various outrageous decisions of the supreme court, which the U. S. Senate has so far refused to do anything to correct.

So, if you go without heat, or electricity, or have to shut down the factory, or are thrown out of work by the coal strike, be sure to hurl your dead cats at the right parties.

"Please, John, be a good fellow, won't you?" is not the formula. The American people ought not to have to live by the grace of John L. Lewis or James Caesar Petrillo or any Democratic or Republican politician, whosoever.

This ought to be a government of law, and not of men.

The trouble is that we have abandoned principle and substituted expediency for the impartial administration of law.

It is inconvenient for the administration right now, and makes us look like fools before the entire world to show that Lewis can tie this nation up worse than Hitler could. But, if this were a government of law and not of politicians kept in power by a lazy public, we would no more tolerate a little man-and-wife grocery store being clubbed into paying tribute to a teamster's union under threat that no merchandise will be delivered, than we would tolerate a whole nation being clubbed into submission by Hitlers, foreign or domestic. Little Hirlers grow into big Hitlers. Small tyrannies grow into huge tyrannies.

Miners Not To Blame

Mr. Truman is appealing to the miners to please dig us some coal. No doubt many would do so. But how can they? If they do, they can be kicked out of the union, and that would cost them their jobs and their wives and kids the chance to eat. So, I am not blaming the miners. I am blaming an administration which for years has been building up industry-wide collective bargaining, with the closed shop as its weapon of coercion. It is this which has put "We the People," including thousands of coal miners, in the wringer.

Congressman Robertson, of Virginia, and others, propose to make private tax levies unlawful. This is all to the good. But when and if this is done, the main trouble will remain. It is that government has put public power in private hands. This is another name for anarchy. If you have condoned it, and not voted for Congressmen who tried to correct it, don't holler for coal.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I've just discovered drive-in theaters! One of them kept showing all my pictures and I went around to thank the manager. He said, "Don't mention it . . . it's a pleasure to show them out here in the fresh air!"

But they're still wonderful! As soon as you get parked, settled down, and interested in the picture, someone wants to pass and you have to stand your car on end.

One of the drive-in theaters tried to show "Lost Week-end" but it didn't work out so well. After the show was over, three cars staggered down Hollywood boulevard with bloodshot headlights, whistling at all the cute little convertibles.

And one night they showed a Bette Davis picture and the car in front of me cried all the water out of its radiator. It was a very romantic story. During the tender love scene, the sedan and roadster next to me were holding fenders. And I got into a little damage suit. I was so interested by the end of the picture that when the hero and heroine walked off into the sunset, I stepped on my started and tried to follow.

But actually the drive-ins aren't much different from the indoor theaters. You wait in line an hour, drive five miles, and lose two fenders getting parked in a good spot from which you can see the screen and then, as soon as you're interested, your wife leans over and says, "Honey, would you mind running back to the gate and getting me a sack of popcorn?"

Nationalization Of Industry

NATIONALIZATION OF INDUSTRY—feared by many as a revolutionary prospect for the United States in consequence of strikes in major industries—now is advocated outright by the president of a powerful railroad brotherhood as the best way for the government to deal with the threatened nationwide railroad strike. President A. F. Whitney, of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, has asked Congress to enact legislation to this end and to "impound all funds and make suitable adjustments of grievances with employes" because of "the obstinacy of the railroads and the fact that they are unwilling to make a reasonable settlement."

When state socialism, in the form of government ownership, is advocated in furtherance of the interests of a labor union, it is time for the American people to consider how vitally and directly the pressure of unionism is affecting their destiny.

Nationalization of industry is a threat to the American economic system of free enterprise, a threat no less prejudicial to the American worker than to the American employer. It would put the national economy on a bureaucratic basis tending toward totalitarianism and menacing individual rights.

How uncompromising is the attitude back of the Whitney proposal can be seen in the background of recent developments. Both the trainmen and officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers walked out of a meeting with the carriers in Chicago after turning down the settlement proposals advanced by the president's fact-finding board. Whitney said at the time there would be no further negotiations "until the railroads come to us in Cleveland."

Equally challenging is the argument put forth by the trainmen's president. He asserted that government ownership and operation of the roads "appears to be the only way by which over-capitalization may be corrected and railroad finances placed upon a sound basis." Ignoring the obvious rejoinder that railroad finances are not the business of railroad unions, it may be pointed out that the government took control of the railroads as a World War I measure in January, 1918, and from then until February 29, 1920, operated them at a loss of $1,696,000,000.

Actually it can be contended that the railroad workers least can afford nationalization, even if such a step should bring about granting of their immediate demands. In every country where government has become the main employer—either through socialization of industry or through piecemeal nationalization as proposed by Whitney—organized labor has lost its free bargaining power. Nationalization of industry brings about nationalization of labor—a thing which may be called by prettier names but is communism or fascism.

Is that what Whitney wants?

Lewis's New Demand Is Really Not New

WHILE the Wagner Labor Relations law forbids employers from contributing any moneys to unions and this provision has raised doubts in the minds of President Truman and others regarding the royalty on coal originally sought by John L. Lewis, Samuel B. Pettengill, the commentator, declares that Lewis and the operators can lawfully agree to a private tax on coal and give the money to him.

It appears that Pettengill is correct both with regard to some existing law and precedents. He points out that by implication the "Petrillo" bill recently enacted actually gives the blessing of Congress to Petrillo in collecting royalty on electrical recordings, which he has done for a long time and still does. The measure, he notes, simply forbids a second tax every time the recording is played.

So for the record this may be noted along with the reminder by David Dubinsky, leader of the AFL Ladies' Garment Workers union, that Lewis's request for a seven per cent pay-roll assessment is nothing new. It is new only in the size of the demand. Dubinsky's union won a health and vacation fund five years ago for approximately 300,000 of its members. It is financed by a pay-roll deduction of one and one-half to five per cent.

For about 200,000 union members, the union has sole administration of the fund. Agreements with two of the twenty-eight employer groups which cover about 100,000 workers provide for joint employer-union committees to administer the fund. The agreements stipulate that the funds cannot be used for any purpose except health and vacation benefits and the cost of administration.

Health benefits include illness and accident payments, cost of operations and free medical examination. Dubinsky says the union makes public statements annually. The plan, Dubinsky says, was obtained without strikes.

So it appears that Lewis has to an extent resolved doubts about the royalty tax proposal by switching to his new demand for a pay-roll levy to finance a miners' health and welfare fund.

But if a tax of this kind is won for the miners union—and it appears that they are entitled to a health and welfare fund of some kind—it might be necessary to provide limits with regard to existing health and welfare rights in order to prevent an undue multiplication of them.

But the whole thing shows further that Lewis is not proceeding illegally in his move toward getting something more for his miners and that jumping upon him is merely avoiding the real point of the matter.

If anything is wrong about a coal strike that paralyzes the industry of the whole nation—and patently there is something wrong about such a thing—the remedy is not at Lewis's door, nor does it lie in such futile efforts as were made with the Petrillo bill, but at the door of Congress primarily, which enacted the laws that have made it both possible and entirely legal; and secondarily, and with almost equal responsibility, with an administration that has promoted unfair, one-sided application of those laws.

Lewis's course, however unpopular, should serve to get the straight of this whole business.

Our Teen-Age Callithumpians

THREE SCHOOLBOYS down at Richmond, Va., dressed themselves in crisp cotton frocks and marched primly off to school the other day. It wasn't, as might at first be supposed, the result of the shortage in male clothing, which it well might have been, that prompted the demonstration. It was, instead, an urge to protest the bobby-soxers' appropriation of boys' slacks, old sweaters and undershirts, and run-down shoes.

The school principal characterized the demonstration as "silly" and marched the paraders off home to change their attire. In a way, it may have been silly, but it was no sillier than the outlandish rigs that the feminine teen-agers — and some older enough to know better who desperately but mostlyunsuccessfully seek to ape them—have for some time been wearing—not in their back yards or their gardens, but right out in public everywhere.

Those costumes with their general untidiness, the baggy slacks, or rolled-up denim overalls; the exposed shirttails and the touseled hair mussed up in keeping with the general picture, make these youngsters look like real toughies from the slums. And it's a great pity.

Oh, yes, it is a vogue, and, like all fashion foibles, it will soon wear itself out, and the feminine teen-agers will eventually become more presentable; bue there are many who can be excused for hoping that the day will be speedily forthcoming.

Car Seat Scheme Has Drawbacks

AMONG the innovations envisioned for the forthcoming new automobiles is a front seat arrangement whereby the driver will sit forward of the other passengers in a sort of "nose" something like those used on bombers.

The purpose of the pilot-house affair is that of reducing accidents by giving the driver a wider range of vision. But there are two practical drawbacks.

One is the likelihood that accidents would not be reduced because the driver would be constantly tempted to twist himself around to direct a remark to his fellow passengers.

The other has to do with romance, it being pointed out that with millions of girl friends sitting out of sight, and at least partially out of mind, the engagement and marriage rate would be sure to suffer.

It doesn't look as if this invention would be at all practical.

Statistician who has figured that a person's chances that lightning won't strike him this year are 330,000 to one has thrown cold water on many a candidate's aspirations.

Bureaucrats declare things are getting better, perhaps on the theory that in the summer men are not so particular whether they have shirts on their backs.

A dispute over six men brought a strike of 2,000 rubber workers. Verily this is becoming a nation of minor minorities.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 14 — Insiders who have watched the Hoover, Roosevelt and Truman administrations, point to two events as best illustrating their methods of approaching national problems. Those two events are: The bonus army under Herbert Hoover, and the coal strike under Harry Truman.

Roosevelt also was threatened with a bonus army, also with several coal strikes. But they have been forgotten, whereas the public will always remember the Hoover bonus army and the current coal crisis.

And in this very fact is found the basic difference of technique between Hoover, Roosevelt and Truman.

Hoover sat in the White House watching the bonus army of veterans daily grow larger until it reached the unruly total of 20,000 men, and finally was driven out of the city by Gen. MacArthur, leaving a black mark against the Hoover administration never to be lived down.

Roosevelt Anticipated Issue

As Roosevelt came into office, bonus army veterans continued to enter Washington. But FDR, without any fanfare, sent them to Ft. Hunt, Va., where they were fed, clothed and sent to areas where work was most available.

In handling the threatened coal strikes, Roosevelt also tried to meet the issue before it met him. Sixty days in advance of the contract deadline—not thirty days as this time—he had Harold Ickes, one of his strongest cabinet members, start knocking Lewis's and the mine operators' heads together. And at one time he was all set to go on the radio with the most scathing denunciation Lewis had ever received, when John L., tipped off in advance, yielded.

Roosevelt, of course, had the full force of "no strikes in wartime" behind him. Truman didn't. However, not only did Truman delay intervention between the warring miner-operation factions, but neglected all the many steps he could have taken, both to soften the coal miners and cut the ground out from under Lewis.

Best Lewis Weapon Neglected

Last autumn, for instance, when Lewis pulled his abortive strike to secure recognition of the foreman's union, Ickes advised Truman that Lewis was on shaky ground, that his miners weren't behind him, that then was the time to weaken Lewis by going over his head to get the miners back to work. Ickes knew the miners already were straggling back to work, would welcome a plea from the White House. They had no sympathy for a foremen's union. But Truman didn't act.

Ickes also urged that the two government-owned pipelines, built during the submarine crisis to bring oil to the Atlantic coast, to be turned into natural gas lines to tap Texas gas fields. For gas competition against coal is what Lewis fears most.

Two applications from reputable groups to buy these pipelines have been on file with the Federal Power Commission, but nothing has happened. While it would take some time to get the pipelines operating, not one preliminary move has been made. Even the threat to open these lines would send shivers down John L. Lewis's back.

Miners Deserve Safety

Finally, the miners have a legitimate grievance regarding mine safety. Never have they been able to get a satisfactory safety law passed by Congress. In his private conferences, Truman has taken the position that this must be worked out by the operators and the miners; but if, instead of waiting for this, he had urged Congress to pass a mine safety law, he would have pulled the rug from under one of Lewis's best arguments.

Likewise with the welfare fund. Other unions have such a fund. The railroad brotherhoods have a retirement fund established by Congress. The same could be done for the miners—though not to be administered by one man.

However, no one in the White House saw these things in advance, no one had the vision to crack down on John L. Lewis with gas pipelines in one hand and mine safety, plus a proper welfare fund, in the other.

This failure to meet the issues early, to ward off either a bonus army or a coal strike before it festers, is the gravest failure of the Truman administration today.

It is the difference between statesmanship and muddling through. It gets to the heart of why we, the most victorious, the strongest, nation to emerge from the war, have lost our leadership of the world today.

Lewis Demands Holiday Pay

Inside fact is that the first day's coal negotiations between John L. Lewis and the operators got off to a bad start. Lewis demanded time-and-a-half pay promised him by Roosevelt for holiday work, but which Truman had canceled shortly after V-J day.

Ed McGrady, opening the negotiations, did his best to emphasize the importance of the conference.

"President Truman, speaking for the people," McGrady declared, "has said that he wants some results from us in four or five days. We must not let him down and disappoint the American people."

However, Lewis again raised the question of pay for Labor day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's, and refused to arbitrate. The coal operators requested time to caucus, but after hurried conferences were not able to reach an agreement to give Lewis this pay. They contend that, inasmuch as President Truman by an executive order abolished Roosevelt's promise shortly after V-J day, they are not obligated to pay anything further to the miners.

"You've got the money in your pockets," thundered Lewis to the operators. "It belongs to my men."

Mine Dictator Lewis

Last week, John L. Lewis had an interesting hour's conference with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, in which he made this remark:

"Why don't you seize the mines? You seize the mines and appoint a good administrator, and your crisis will be over."

"Who do you think would make a good administrator?" asked Schwellenbach.

"John L. Lewis," replied John L. Lewis. "I'll see that you get your coal."

Later, in negotiations with John Steelman, Lewis opposed seizure of the mines and said that he couldn't trust the Solid Fuels Administration to run them. Lewis said the Solid Fuels Administration and the Interior department were "full of broken-down mining engineers who are tools of the operators."

White House Merry-Go-Round

Weakest man around the president continues to be St. Louis's John Snyder, the alleged war reconverter. Bob Hannegan (who incidentally says Snyder is from Arkansas, not Missouri) has done his best to persuade Truman to oust Snyder. The president won't budge. . . . At economic sessions inside the White House, Snyder contributes almost nothing except to tell strangers where to find the washroom. . . . Individually, Truman has an A-1 cabinet, but aside from Hannegan and Byrnes, none will light any firecrackers under the presidential chair. . . . Secretary of the Treasury Vinson, who used to bat home runs in the Roosevelt administration, now takes his base on balls. . . . Any administration which can't keep young men or else attract new young blood, is bankrupt, and young men are leaving the Truman administration so fast it's tragic. . . . Only outfit attracting new young blood, the State department, now is under attack, with the White House asking for an undercover investigation. . . . Some cabinet cronies make it a special point to find new jokes to tell the president when they sail down the Potomac on weekends. . . . Perhaps they remember the fate of an old friend, Harold Ickes, who dared be disagreeable, told Truman he was meddling with murder by putting Ed Pauley in the navy. Labor Legislation Faces Dilatory Action in Senate

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 14. —It's the same old story in the Senate. Already the advocates of delay and the sponsors of a program of sabotage are active to prevent the Congress from passing any laws to protect the public interest as against abuse of collective bargaining powers.

The same tactics have now, for more than a decade, kept the Senate from passing any laws to clarify the Wagner law and make it two-sided instead of one-sided.

Today employees can misrepresent what the employer is doing and actually can carry on campaigns undermining the employer's business, but there is no redress either from the employer or for the minority of his employees who are helpless to get out of the strait jacket imposed upon them by closed shops.

Collective bargaining requires good faith on the part of the employer but not of the union. Coercion and intimidation can be used by organizers, but the employer is forbidden even to discuss the issues arising in his own plant. Where good labor relations have long prevailed, there can be and is disturbance of such relationships because the National Labor Relations Board can be used to tie the hands and silence the voice of the employer.

Pendulum at Extreme

The pendulum has swung to an extreme in the alleged attempt to equalize bargaining power. The bargaining power is preponderantly on labor's side today. The nation is at present suffering from the effects of a coal strike which could have and should have been settled by collective bargaining. But one side—the union—after a month's delay did not present its demands clearly until this very week. Yet if the employers had similarly refrained from stating their position, they could have been penalized under the Wagner law.

The Senate is thoroughly familiar with the whole situation but doesn't believe the American people are aroused about it. And maybe they aren't. A number of letters and telegrams of indignation have come in to Capitol Hill but it isn't anything like the protest which would be expected to flow from such a drastic curtailment of public facilities occasioned by the shortage of coal. Maybe the public is calloused to inconvenience.

Dilatory Tactics Revealed

If the American people really care about the emergency that has arisen—something which may seriously be doubted if the evidence in letters and telegrams is appraised—they might be persuading their senators to do something about it.

A bi-partisan group of senators is working on new labor legislation but the tactics of the pro-labor group are already revealed. There are senators who cry out that to do something now about the coal emergency is being "anti-labor" and that the coal strike mustn't be used to limit labor's rights.

The House of Representatives has already passed a bill restricting the opportunities of labor unions to abuse collective bargaining privileges. But the Senate has a strong pro-labor group who feel they owe their election to labor votes. Presumably the citizens generally do not organize into an anti-labor group but divide into the two major parties, voting the same straight tickets each time irrespective of what their representatives in Congress do about the labor problem.

Different Story Possible

If all the citizens who are disturbed about the labor situation were to make up their minds to forget about party lines and vote against any Republican or any Democrat who refuses to protect the public interest and who blocks labor legislation, there would be a different story to tell.

The tactics of delay are emerging. One group of senators friendly to the unions is already proposing an investigation of labor conditions. This probably would wind up in a witch-hunt against employers. It certainly is designed to postpone action. Congress, however, knows—and has known for a decade—that the Wagner law has defects and needs amendment. But the concerted action of the labor unions always blocks corrective legislation.

Now that it appears there is some of the labor side is to urge further investigations, but, of course, no action. It will be interesting to see whether a majority of the Senate can reflect the public will today or whether further abuses will have to occur before the Senators will wake up to the fact that the voters want them to act in the interes of all he people.

On Eating-- And Eaters

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Brillat-Savarin was the one who said that famous saying: "Tell me what you eat, and I will tell you what you are."

During these rationing days, and the re-arrangement of our diet, it is interesting to read of famous folks who ate, how and what they ate. Pope, it is said shortened his life by feeding too much "on high-seasoned dishes, and drinking spirits." The Wordsworths rarely dined—they disliked it. They merely went to the cupboard when hungry, and got what they wanted.

Samuel Pepys, in his diary tells of leaving the table when a black piece of meat "came out of the pot." Dr. Johnson was disguested when some fried haddock was served at an eating place, and so it was ordered off the table.

A lady, sitting next to Trollope, the novelist, noted that he took everything that was passed to him, and remarked: "You seem to have a very good appetite." To which he replied: "None at all, madam, but thank God, I am very greedy."

Charles Lamb, writing to his friend, Thomas Allsop, inviting him to dinner, had this to say: "Leg of Lamb, as before, hot at 4. And the heart of Lamb ever." Lamb, as you may know, was a famous punster.

Tennyson liked his eggs not too lightly cooked. At a hotel where he ordered them, he sent his eggs to be boiled longer and expostulated with the pretty waitress "as to the softness of her eggs and the apparent hardness of her heart," which was followed by a hearty laugh on the part of both. And it was Oliver Wendell Holmes who remarked that the only palatable thing occasionally to be had" in a tavern, was "a boiled egg."

G. K. Chesterton, in his autobiography, remarked: "My ignorance of cookery is such that I can even eat the food in the most fashionable and expensive hotels in London." Arnold Bennett, apparently was not so ignorant of the ways of a gourmet. The Ritz Hotel sent him some pate de foie gras, and he remarked: "This means pate de foie gras at every meal, as the stuff won't keep." Later his Aunt sent him some oat-cakes, and he remarked: "I adore oat-cakes: yet was I glad to have eaten the last one this morning."

A friend, dining with Tennyson, wrote: "We had two chops, one pickle, two cheeses, one pint of stout, one pint of port, and three cigars."

Private Coal Tax Is within the Law, Pettengill Says

By SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL

John Lewis is not doing anything illegal. He is entirely within the law. To make this a contest of who scowls the hardest doesn't stoke the boiler.

Lewis demands that foremen be unionized. But N.L.R.B. has just decided that is O.K. by them. So why jump on John?

Lewis is on strike. But strikes are within the law. And didn't the administration support steel and auto and other strikes that lasted much longer than the coal strike has so far?

Lewis wants to levy a tax on coal to build up a huge welfare fund under his absolute control. But this precedent was established long ago, and the administration did nothing about it except to scold mildly when a campaign was on. Petrillo has been collecting a royalty on electrical recordings for a long time and still does. By implication, the "Petrillo" bill, recently enacted, gives it the blessing of Congress. The bill simply forbids a second tax every time the recording is played.

Private Tax Seen Lawful

Lewis and the operators can lawfully agree to levy a private tax of ten cents or $10 on every ton of coal, and give the money to John. The operators have refused to do this (although permitted to Petrillo). They are right and should be supported.

Nevertheless, if Lewis can get away with his demands, as Petrillo did, there is nothing in the Wagner act or anti-trust laws to stop him. Labor unions have been "exempted out" by the administration, Congress and various outrageous decisions of the supreme court, which the U. S. Senate has so far refused to do anything to correct.

So, if you go without heat, or electricity, or have to shut down the factory, or are thrown out of work by the coal strike, be sure to hurl your dead cats at the right parties.

"Please, John, be a good fellow, won't you?" is not the formula. The American people ought not to have to live by the grace of John L. Lewis or James Caesar Petrillo or any Democratic or Republican politician, whosoever.

This ought to be a government of law, and not of men.

The trouble is that we have abandoned principle and substituted expediency for the impartial administration of law.

It is inconvenient for the administration right now, and makes us look like fools before the entire world to show that Lewis can tie this nation up worse than Hitler could. But, if this were a government of law and not of politicians kept in power by a lazy public, we would no more tolerate a little man- and-wife grocery store being clubbed into paying tribute to a teamster's union under threat that no merchandise will be delivered, than we would tolerate a whole nation being clubbed into submission by Hitlers, foreign or domestic. Little Hirlers grow into big Hitlers. Small tyrannies grow into huge tyrannies.

Miners Not To Blame

Mr. Truman is appealing to the miners to please dig us some coal. No doubt many would do so. But how can they? If they do, they can be kicked out of the union, and that would cost them their jobs and their wives and kids the chance to eat. So, I am not blaming the miners. I am blaming an administration which for years has been building up industry-wide collective bargaining, with the closed shop as its weapon of coercion. It is this which has put "We the People," including thousands of coal miners, in the wringer.

Congressman Robertson, of Virginia, and others, propose to make private tax levies unlawful. This is all to the good. But when and if this is done, the main trouble will remain. It is that government has put public power in private hands. This is another name for anarchy. If you have condoned it, and not voted for Congressmen who tried to correct it, don't holler for coal.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I've just discovered drive-in theaters! One of them kept showing all my pictures and I went around to thank the manager. He said, "Don't mention it . . . it's a pleasure to show them out here in the fresh air!"

But they're still wonderful! As soon as you get parked, settled down, and interested in the picture, someone wants to pass and you have to stand your car on end.

One of the drive-in theaters tried to show "Lost Week-end" but it didn't work out so well. After the show was over, three cars staggered down Hollywood boulevard with bloodshot headlights, whistling at all the cute little convertibles.

And one night they showed a Bette Davis picture and the car in front of me cried all the water out of its radiator. It was a very romantic story. During the tender love scene, the sedan and roadster next to me were holding fenders. And I got into a little damage suit. I was so interested by the end of the picture that when the hero and heroine walked off into the sunset, I stepped on my started and tried to follow.

But actually the drive-ins aren't much different from the indoor theaters. You wait in line an hour, drive five miles, and lose two fenders getting parked in a good spot from which you can see the screen and then, as soon as you're interested, your wife leans over and says, "Honey, would you mind running back to the gate and getting me a sack of popcorn?"

Delta Theta Chi Hears Mexican Talk by Mrs. Rogers

Maryland Alpha Chapter, Delta Theta Chi continued its South American program at the meeting Monday evening, with Mrs. A. L. Rogers giving the highlights of her summer in Mexico.

Mrs. Rogers discussed the people, the fiestas and celebrations comparing them with the celebrations here. She pointed out the various characters taking part in a bull fight and said that a bull fight is to the Mexicans what a baseball game is to Americans.

If Americans looked upon the Mexicans with tolerance and would strive for a better understanding of them, there would be greater friendliness betwen th two countries, the speaker declared. In concluding, she urged the group to read, "A Peacock Sheds Its Tail," which will give a picture of Mexico, similar to the one presented by Mrs. Rogers.

Mrs. Anna B. Higgins was in charge of the program and introduced the speaker. The next meeting will be held May 28.

Blunt Brushoffs Work when Gentle Measures Fail

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Why must some people be practically hit over the head before they're willing to recognize the fact that some particular man or some individual girl doesn't want to take them seriously?

Few girls want to tell a man bluntly that he's not the fairy prince they're waiting for. And few men like to give a brusque brushoff to girls who seem over-eager to be dated by them. Yet sometimes blunt words and brusque brushoffs are all that will do the trick when more gentle measures fail to get the idea across.

Take the following letter, for instance, in which a man complains that he can't figure out what the girl he wants is trying to do.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I've been going with a girl for a year now. She is a very nice girl, the kind of a girl a fellow dreams of settling down with. I love her very much, and she said she liked me, and that I was a swell fellow and that any girl would be glad to get me. She would always say that I would meet some nice girl, and that would burn me up, when I only wanted her.

"It seems she met a fellow a couple of years ago. He was in the armed forces and she like him very much. Just before he came home, we had a tiff and broke up. It seemed to me that she just used that as an excuse so that she could be with this fellow. Well, when he came home they went around together, but things didn't work out and they broke up.

"So I called her up, with the idea of going out with her again, but she seems to keep stalling me off, so that I don't know what she is trying to do. I ask her if she wants to go out with me any more and she says yes, but she keeps putting it off. She keeps telling me what she did this night and where she went and what she intends to do the following night, but there seems to be no free night for me.

"As for me, I'm not much of a guy. I haven't got a car or a bank book. I have a steady job, but I did take a lot of time off, and she resents this bitterly as she is a very industrious person. I understand all this and try to do my best, but I can't seem to keep my mind on my work when things are not going right between us. I love her so much there isn't anything in this world I wouldn't do for her. I feel she is trying to break off with me and is trying to be gentle about it, but this way hurts me, for I feel I still have a chance with her.

"E.C."

If you feel as you say, that this girl is trying to break off with you, and is trying to do it in a nice way, why don't you accept that fact, and not worry her to the point where she may have to say some really harsh things before you will let her alone? It seems to me as though you were just kidding yourself along when you say you feel you still have a chance with her.

If there really is a chance for you, she won't leave you in doubt about it. She'll make it perfectly clear by accepting your invitations instead of continually declining them. And if she does keep on declining them, then, no matter what else she may say, you ought to take it as a purposeful hint that she would rather you didn't pursue her. It's a hard thing to do, when you're in love with a girl, but you ought to have too much masculine pride to do anything else.

Man Slaps Woman, Steals Her Purse And Lands in Jail

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP) — Miss Geane Evans's refusal to converse with an unknown man who she said approached her on the street cost her a slap in the face and, temporarily, her purse—containing nearly $1,900 worth of jewelry and $36 in cash.

Miss Evans told police a man tried to start a conversation with her as she was walking. She tried to walk away, whereupon, she explained, he slapped her in the face, causing her to fall and drop the purse.

The man grabbed the pocketbook and ran, but Miss Evans's screams attracted two other men who chased the thief. They caught him after he tossed the purse away in a Catholic recreation center yard and held him until police took over.

A priest found the purse, meanwhile, and returned it to the Eastern district police station, where it was turned over to Miss Evans. Nothing was missing.

Police are holding the man on charges of assault, striking and robbing Miss Evans.

Why Farmers Are Apt To Be Non-Partisan

HARRISBURG, Ill., (AP) — An Illinois farmer momentarily stumped A. R. Clark here, he admitted, as he attempted to classify political leanings of voters while campaigning for a candidate.

"And what are your politics, neighbor?" asked Clark.

Library Receives Rare Old Book -- Its Own

NEWTON, Mass (AP) — Newton Public Library officials scratched their heads and decided it wasn't worth the trouble to collect $226.

A book returned to the library recently was borrowed Jan. 29, 1915, and not found until settlement of an estate in Weymouth.

At two cents a day, the usual fine, the borrower owed $226. But no one knew where he was.

The book was Thomas Bailey Aldrich's "Story of a Bad Boy."

—Manufacturing is now the leading industry of New London, Conn., but it was formerly the seat of extensive whaling and sealing interests.

—The first explorer of what is now New Hampshire is thought to have been Martin Pring, who anchored in Piscataqua Harbor in 1603.

Uncle Sam Turns Trader Sam To Get More Hemp and Copra

ABACA being cut in uniform lengths for hemp by Filipinos.

By JAMES HALSEMA

AP Newsfeatures

MANILA—Uncle Sam, in the role of Trader Sam, has found a way to stimulate hemp and copra production in the Philippines. It is a simple formula: Give the grower goods he wants and can use, instead of simply paying him money which he can't effectively spend.

The barter plan adopted by the federal government's copra and abaca (Manila hemp) purchasing missions in the Philippines works through the Philippine Abaca Management Corporation (PAMCO), and a similar corporation handling copra. The government assures the grower his products will get to market by providing trucks to carry them to the ports. It makes sure he will get goods in return for his work, by bringing the goods to him.

Prevents Black Market

The grower has the right to use seventy-five percent of what PAMCO pays him in the purchase of staples such as cloth, thread, cigarets, evaporated milk, lard, soap, flour, rice, beans, salted fish, shoes. He can take up to twenty-five percent in a wide variety of consumer goods otherwise unobtainable. He buys these at fixed prices; the black market has no chance to elbow in.

In every region where this plan has been put into effect trade is brisk. Already raw materials for rope and edible oils are pouring back to the United States.

New Yorker on Job

Typical of the barter set-ups is the one operated in the Bicol region—the long, narrow, volcano-studded southeastern tail of Luzon—by Murray Cook of New York City. Everyone in the Bicol region knows PAMCO and everyone knows Cook.

"I barter everything from sardines to generators," he says.

One Pilot Is Killed As Planes Collide

MIAMI, Fla., May 14 (AP) — Two Navy Hellcat fighter planes collided in a storm at 9,000 feet over the Everglades yesterday, killing one pilot but leaving the other unaware of the accident, the Miami Naval Station announced today.

The navy said the surviving pilot, Lt. (JG) Walter E. Mattis, USN, of Atlantic City, N. J., reported he felt a slight jar while flying through the storm, but had been unable to see anything.

Examination of the wingtip of his plane showed that it had been smashed, the navy said.

Uncle Sam Turns Trader Sam To Get More Hemp and Copra

By JAMES HALSEMA

AP Newsfeatures

MANILA—Uncle Sam, in the role of Trader Sam, has found a way to stimulate hemp and copra production in the Philippines. It is a simple formula: Give the grower goods he wants and can use, instead of simply paying him money which he can't effectively spend.

The barter plan adopted by the federal government's copra and abaca (Manila hemp) purchasing missions in the Philippines works through the Philippine Abaca Management Corporation (PAMCO), and a similar corporation handling copra. The government assures the grower his products will get to market by providing trucks to carry them to the ports. It makes sure he will get goods in return for his work, by bringing the goods to him.

Carpenters Local Asks Dissolution Of Court Order

BALTIMORE, May 14—(AP)—Local 101, Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, (AFL) today sought dissolution of a temporary injunction granting the brotherhood control of the local's $700,000 assets.

During a hearing before Judge Michael Manley in circuit court, the local won its argument that testimony concerning charges of embezzlement of $244,038.30 in local funds should be admitted in evidence.

Judge Manley ruled that such testimony would be admitted and also said the burden of proof of the necessity for the injunction would be on the national group.

The local contended there was no basis for the brotherhood's assertion that it intended to "dissipate, secrete or do away with" the $700,000.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — First factory of its kind in the world, a military dairy farm at Lahore is pioneering the production of canned buffalo milk.

TEAMWORK

★ With the passing of each year, a great number of facts are added to man's increasing store of knowledge. Not over seventy-five years ago a man of superior intelligence could possess a working knowledge of all of science. Now, however, the realm of the known is so vast that it is necessary for men to specialize in order to master one small but deep corner of scientific knowledge.

Thus we have the physician, who diagnoses disease and prescribes medication and treatment. The pharmacist compounds and dispenses. Both the physician and the pharmacist benefit greatly from the researches of the biologist, the chemist, the physiologist, and the physicist, to name but a few. Through the teamwork of the allied sciences, increasingly better medical service for all is assured.

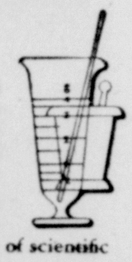
TEAMWORK



★ With the passing of each year, a great number of facts are added to man's increasing store of knowledge. Not over seventy-five years ago a man of superior intelligence could possess a working knowledge of all of science. Now, however, the realm of the known is so vast that it is necessary for men to specialize in order to master one small but deep corner of scientific knowledge.

Thus we have the physician, who diagnoses disease and prescribes medication and treatment. The pharmacist compounds and dispenses. Both the physician and the pharmacist benefit greatly from the researches of the biologist, the chemist, the physiologist, and the physicist, to name but a few. Through the teamwork of the allied sciences, increasingly better medical service for all is assured.

SHOULD WE TAKE IT EASY AFTER 40?

"People live too fast and too hard," says she.

"It's all right to get into the thick of things when you're young," she continues, "but after 40 we ought to slow up. So won't you please write an article to that effect, telling older people to take it easy, stop being ambitious, stop feeling so serious about life. Just sit back and relax.

"Life should really begin at 40," she concludes. "We should stop struggling then and start to enjoy ourselves.

Write an article? Gladly, lady, but not in agreement. For I don't believe it's wise to "take it easy after 40." To the contrary it's the surest way to become a public nuisance and a complete flop.

There is no evidence that human beings were designed for a rocking chair program at any age. To the contrary there is ample proof that man was equipped for a long and lusty existence both physical and mental. He may be able to climb more mountains before 40 but there are other activities quite as exciting as mountain climing. And when brawn begins to fail the brain can carry on with undiminished vigor—if we've kept it fit.

Life does not "begin at 40." It too often ends at 40 because we cease to struggle. Life begins whenever we have the courage and spunk to tackle it and it continues in high as long as we refuse to take the count. But by the same token it fizzles out the moment we quit hustling.

There is no more tragic spectacle than the woman who decides to take it easy after the children have grown or the man who lets himself go when his business at last runs smoothly. Right then and there the long fadeout starts. Beware of the middle age sag. It's the surest way of losing your loved ones and your own self respect.

One thing is certain—the moment you start accumulating fat around the waist you'll also pile it up above the ears.

Life was never intended to be slow or easy. We need challenge and criticism, conflict and competition for our normal health as much as we need food, drink and sleep. Struggle isn't a curse. Hard work isn't an injustice. They're the best things that could happen to you, things that elevate a decent human being above the complacent brute. Die when you must but do it with your boots on—not in a feather bed.

Frostburg Tax Rate Is Raised From $1 to $1.10

Recent Salary Raises for City Employes Cited in Report of Increase

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, May 14 — The mayor and city commissioners, meeting Monday evening, raised the tax rate from $1 to $1.10. City Clerk Alex G. Close stated today that recent salary raises, the annual appropriation to the Frostburg Recreation Association of $1,000 and funds needed to pay the city's share of street improvements made it necessary for the city to find some means to secure more income.

According to the city clerk, the schedule of salaries being paid at the present time is as follows:

Laborers, sixty-five cents per hour; Melvin Lemmert, filtration engineer, raised from $135 to $145 per month; James Kenney, water superintendent, raised from $145 to $155 per month; Emmit McAteer, Piney Run dam custodian, raised from $115 to $125; George Krapf, street superintendent, raised from $135 to $145; Alex G. Close, city clerk, raised from $160 to $170; Benjamin H. Thomas, police chief, raised from $145 to $155; Police Officers Ronald Kreider, George Tipping, Hugh Duncan and Walter Eichhorn, raised from $135 to $145 per month.

Other salaries paid by the city include those of Mayor Skidmore, $500 annually; City Commissioners Arthur Thomas, Jesse Jacobs, John Hendley and Kenneth Crowe, $300 annually; City Attorney William S. Jenkins, $75, monthly; and city Treasurer D. Harry Eisel, $12.50 monthly.

It was reported at the council meeting that the resurfacing of Hill street has been completed and that one-third of the cost would be paid by the city. The paving of Locust street, soon to be started, would be another item of expense, one-third of which would have to be paid by the city.

The city's principal sources of income, aside from taxes and water rents, is from the parking meters and the sale of timber at the Piney Run water shed. Parking meter income for the year ending May 1, 1945, was $4,390.53. The income from the sale of timber for the past two and one half years amounted to approximately $24,000, Mayor Skidmore said. Close stated today that the printed copies of the annual financial report of the city would be ready for distribution in about a month.

Close stated today that recent salary raises, the annual appropriation to the Frostburg Recreation Association of $1,000 and funds needed to pay the city's share of street improvements made it necessary for the city to find some means to secure more income.

According to the city clerk, the schedule of salaries being paid at the present time is as follows:

It was reported at the council meeting that the resurfacing of Hill street has been completed and that one-third of the cost would be paid by the city. The paving of Locust street, soon to be started, would be another item of expense, one-third of which would have to be paid by the city.

The city's principal sources of income, aside from taxes and water rents, is from the parking meters and the sale of timber at the Piney Run water shed. Parking meter income for the year ending May 1, 1945, was $4,390.53. The income from the sale of timber for the past two and one half years amounted to approximately $24,000, Mayor Skidmore said. B and P Women's Club Receives Extension Citation

Installs Officers; Hears J. T. Fey Talk about Pacific War

The Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club received the Extension Citation at the state convention held in Hagerstown, it was announced at the meeting of the club last evening at Central YMCA. The citation was given for having increased the club membership twenty percent for the year of 1945-1946.

Miss Anna Nicht was elected delegate to the biannial convention to be held in Cleveland, July 7 to 12 with Miss Jay Keenan as alternate. It was announced that another collection of food and clothing, for members of the organization in Europe, will be collected at the next meeting. The budget for 1946-1947 was given and Miss Keenan chairman of the Auditing committee reported all records are correct and in order.

Besides the business session the club held installation of officers and heard a talk by John T. Fey on the campaigns in the SWP. An original installation ceremony was composed by Miss Orpha Bonita Pritchard and Miss Geraldine Pritchard; with Miss Clare Livasay doing the clerical work.

Officers installed were Miss Anna Nicht, president; Miss Anne Tennant, first vice president; Miss Virginia Neff, second vice president; Miss Betsy Ross Rankin, secretary and Miss Nan Livingston, treasurer. The dinner table was arranged in keeping with the club colors of gold and green with yellow roses centering the table and each new officer receiving a rose.

The club also presented a gift of a hand forged tray to Miss Louise Cornell, retiring secretary, who will become the bride of Ray Garrett, principal of the junior high school at Ellenboro, W. Va., in June. The couple will reside in Harrisville, W. Va.

Mr. Fey, a graduate of Allegany high school, attended Washington and Lee university and graduated from the University of Maryland and Harvard Law school. He served four years in the armed forces, with three years duty in the Pacific theater. Telling of his experiences in the islands, he used a water proof map which he brought from the islands and was one used by the pilots in that territory. Following his talk he presented it to Miss Nicht.

Guadalcanal was a suicide operation, he said, because they were not ready to begin the offensive then but had to for two reasons; first to divert the Japanese from Russia and second to protect the sea route to Australia. A year later, however, he said, it was well equipped and the real offensive began. He next told of going to the atolls on the way to Japan; explaining they are a series of small coral islands with a lagoon in the center.

Next taken were the Gilbert and Marshall islands and the latter, the speaker said, was the "finest operation ever pulled off." It was bombarded for months and the living conditions were terrible. The Japanese too were very clever and knew English and tried many clever tricks to catch the Americans. Mr. Fey also told of watching beautiful love birds return for three or four mornings after the bombings, to find food and finally not finding it fail to return again.

Some of the natives, he said, were friendly others were not because the Japanese had treated them so badly, breaking up their families and working them hard. When the Americans came however they paid for the work and treated the natives kindly, so they were well liked.

By passing many islands they went on up to Guam, Saipan and Tenean, here the natives were hostile, the speaker said, because the Japs had told them for a man to be an American Marine he had to kill either a father or mother; their minds had been so poisoned with propaganda that they feared the marines would torture them and often committed suicide rather than to be taken by a marine.

The next step was Iwo Jima and Okinawa, here the "fighting was tough, for they were fighting in the water to the land," but these islands had to be taken to help the navy. The principal diet on Okinawa was sweet potatoes and goats milk he said.

While they were successful in capturing Okinawa and Saipan, it was a heavy loss of men for the Americans, he said, but after they were taken the Japanese realized the end of the war was in sight.

policy, enough ground was gained at yesterday's session to end the conclave in three days instead of four as originally scheduled, Frank J. Coleman, secretary said last night.

With Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, and Leo H. McCormick, Maryland director of OPA, the only scheduled speakers, and most all other business except the election, which is to be uncontested, out of the way, adjournment this afternoon is almost assured.

Coleman explained last night that the convention has only about half the number of delegates anticipated due to the lack of local hotel accommodations. There are about 250 delegates and fifty guests here, about thirty per cent of whom are spending their nights at Bedford, Pa., Frostburg, or in private homes about the city, or wherever they were able to obtain sleeping quarters.

Delegates have taken the whole thing in their stride, Coleman said, and have been prompt in coming to all sessions and committee meetings. Speakers, too, have been considerate and helped save time whenever possible.

Little entertainment has featured the convention this year, and it has been one of strictly business. Last night, however, most of the delegates attended a dance arranged at the Southern hotel.

Drivers Pay Minimum Fines after Crash

Following a truck-car collision, Ralph Andrew Michael, of Route 2, this city, and Robert S. Jenkins, of RFD 1, Frostburg, were fined $1 and costs each when arraigned last night in Cresaptown before Magistrate Roy S. Bowman on reckless driving charges.

State Trooper Ira G. Unger, who investigated, said Michael stopped his truck yesterday afternoon on Route 220 near the Celanese plant to pick up a pedestrian friend. The car operated by Jenkins crashed against the rear of the machine, he added.

Trooper Unger said Jenkins' car, which was damaged to the extent of about $250, skidded 91 feet before hitting the truck. No one was injured.

OFFICE Booby Traps

AP Newsfeatures

NICE safe office work? Well, maybe it's safe. U. S. office workers had 49,000 job accidents last year. Here's what government experts say are the principal hazards.

STAIRS—Walk, don't run. Use the hand rail. Pick up those loose papers. Keep to right.

BARRICADES—People don't enjoy trips—not this kind. Keep the walkways clear.

LIFTS—Lift with your legs, not your back. And call for help when you need it.

TRAFFIC — Corridors, doors, blind corners all have their stop and go problems.

EVEN DESKS — Stay topside. Watch sharp edges, splinters and protruding equipment. Think of your nylons if you don't care about your hide.

"We have won a great victory and labor has every right to share in the fruits of that great victory. We are in the midst of conflict today brought about by a period of reconversion. The good sense of the American people will resolve these conflicts. Management and labor must meet on a plane where clarity and honesty of thought prevail, rather than fog and double talk.

specifications and the location must be approved by the mayor and city council, as well as by the commission.

In discussing his proposal, Sullivan, who operates a restaurant at 332 Virginia avenue, said that the building would be constructed of concrete block and would measure approximately 80 by 92 feet. He plans to invest between $12,000 and $15,000 in the building, if the concession is granted to him.

Location Not Determined

John A. Chapman, airport manager, said that the location of the building has not yet been determined, and Sullivan added that a proposed location would be suggested in his detailed statement.

Considerable discussion was held regarding the sale of wine and beer at the building. Mayor Post stated that he does not approve the sale of any intoxicant, including wine and beer, on any city-owned property.

Chapman reported that wine and beer are sold at other airports in this area, including those at Hagerstown and Pittsburgh, Pa., and said he had warned Sullivan that if the concession is not properly operated, he would notify the commission to that effect and the place would be closed.

Weber pointed out that the commission should be guided by the custom elsewhere, and said the sale of wine and beer would be acceptable if the concession were managed properly.

Thomas Lohr Richards suggested that beer and wine should be served only with meals, but Chapman said he did not think such a restriction need be imposed. Heskett said the place would have to be "well-policed" by the operator if a beer and wine license were granted.

Brothers To Be Partners

Besides the restaurant, Sullivan said he plans to operate a night club with a dance floor, as well as a roof garden and an observation platform on the roof of the building. He said he is ready to start construction as soon as approval is granted. The building would be of a temporary nature in case it had to be moved, he added.

Sullivan added that he plans to operate the concession with his brothers, John L. and James E. Sullivan. The latter was also present at the meeting.

For the record, it was stated that a supplemental agreement calling for the creation of a $50,000 building fund for Cumberland Airways, Inc., approved at the April meeting of the commission, had been approved by the mayor and city council and had been signed by William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, president of the corporation.

It was decided not to hold a commission meeting on the last Thursday of this month, which falls on May 30, Memorial day.

B and P Women's Club Receives Extension Citation

'nstalls Officers; Hears J. T. Fey Talk about Pacific War

The Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club received the Extension Citation at the state convention held in Hagerstown, it was announced at the meeting of the club last evening at Central YMCA. The citation was given for having increased the club membership twenty percent for the year of 1945-1946.

Miss Anna Nicht was elected delegate to the biannial convention to be held in Cleveland, July 7 to 12 with Miss Jay Keenan as alternate. It was announced that another collection of food and clothing for members of the organization in Europe, will be collected at the next meeting. The budget for 1946-1947 was given and Miss Keenan chairman of the Auditing committee reported all records are correct and in order.

Besides the business session the club held installation of officers and heard a talk by John T. Fey on the campaigns in the SWP. An original installation ceremony was composed by Miss Orpha Bonita Pritchard and Miss Geraldine Pritchard; with Miss Clare Livasay doing the clerical work.

Officers installed were Miss Anna Nicht, president; Miss Anne Tennant, first vice president; Miss Virginia Neff, second vice president; Miss Betsy Ross Rankin, secretary and Miss Nan Livingston, treasurer. The dinner table was arranged in keeping with the club colors of gold and green with yellow roses centering the table and each new officer receiving a rose.

The club also presented a gift of a hand forged tray to Miss Louise Cornell, retiring secretary, who will become the bride of Ray Garrett, principal of the junior high school at Ellenboro, W. Va., in June. The couple will reside in Harrisville, W. Va.

Mr. Fey, a graduate of Allegany high school, attended Washington and Lee university and graduated from the University of Maryland and Harvard Law school. He served four years in the armed forces, with three years duty in the Pacific theater. Telling of his experiences in the islands, he used a water proof map which he brought from the islands and was one used by the pilots in that territory. Following his talk he presented it to Miss Nicht.

Guadalcanal was a suicide operation, he said, because they were not ready to begin the offensive then but had to for two reasons; first to divert the Japanese from Russia and second to protect the sea route to Australia. A year later, however, he said, it was well equipped and the real offensive began. He next told of going to the atolls on the way to Japan; explaining they are a series of small coral islands with a lagoon in the center.

Next taken were the Gilbert and Marshall islands and the latter, the speaker said, was the "finest operation ever pulled off." It was bombarded for months and the living conditions were terrible. The Japanese too were very clever and knew English and tried many clever tricks to catch the Americans. Mr. Fey also told of watching beautiful love birds return for three or four mornings after the bombings, to find food and finally not finding it fail to return again.

Some of the natives, he said, were friendly others were not because the Japanese had treated them so badly, breaking up their families and working them hard. When the Americans came however they paid for the work and treated the natives kindly, so they were well liked.

By passing many islands they went on up to Guam, Saipan and Tenean, here the natives were hostile, the speaker said, because the Japs had told them for a man to be an American Marine he had to kill either a father or mother; their minds had been so poisoned with propaganda that they feared the marines would torture them and often committed suicide rather than to be taken by a marine.

The next step was Iwo Jima and Okinawa, here the "fighting was tough, for they were fighting in the water to the land," but these islands had to be taken to help the navy. The principal diet on Okinawa was sweet potatoes and goats milk he said.

While they were successful in capturing Okinawa and Saipan, it was a heavy loss of men for the Americans, he said, but after they were taken the Japanese realized the end of the war was in sight.

policy, enough ground was gained at yesterday's session to end the conclave in three days instead of four as originally scheduled, Frank J. Coleman, secretary said last night.

With Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, and Leo H. McCormick, Maryland director of OPA, the only scheduled speakers, and most all other business except the election, which is to be uncontested, out of the way, adjournment this afternoon is almost assured.

Coleman explained last night that the convention has only about half the number of delegates anticipated due to the lack of local hotel accommodations. There are about 250 delegates and fifty guests here, about thirty per cent of whom are spending their nights at Bedford, Pa., Frostburg, or in private homes about the city, or wherever they were able to obtain sleeping quarters.

Delegates have taken the whole thing in their stride, Coleman said, and have been prompt in coming to all sessions and committee meetings. Speakers, too, have been considerate and helped save time whenever possible.

Little entertainment has featured the convention this year, and it has been one of strictly business. Last night, however, most of the delegates attended a dance arranged at the Southern hotel.

Drivers Pay Minimum Fines after Crash

Following a truck-car collision, Ralph Andrew Michael, of Route 2, this city, and Robert S. Jenkins, of RFD 1, Frostburg, were fined $1 and costs each when arraigned last night in Cresaptown before Magistrate Roy S. Bowman on reckless driving charges.

State Trooper Ira G. Unger, who investigated, said Michael stopped his truck yesterday afternoon on Route 220 near the Celanese plant to pick up a pedestrian friend. The car operated by Jenkins crashed against the rear of the machine, he added.

Trooper Unger said Jenkins' car, which was damaged to the extent of about $250, skidded 91 feet before hitting the truck. No one was injured.

OFFICE Booby Traps

AP Newsfeatures

NICE safe office work? Well, maybe it's safe. U. S. office workers had 49,000 job accidents last year. Here's what government experts say are the principal hazards.

STAIRS—Walk, don't run. Use the hand rail. Pick up those loose papers. Keep to right.

LIFTS—Lift with your legs, not your back. And call for help when you need it.

TRAFFIC — Corridors, doors, blind corners all have their stop and go problems.

Physician Tells Of New Treatment For Gingivitis

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Because the war made necessary careful physical examination of large numbers of men and women, it has revealed a number of hitherto unknown facts. As a result we now know that certain disorders are much more frequent than was formerly supposed.

One of these, discovered in Canada to afflict a large number of young men, is gingivitis or inflammation of the gums. Of 1,448 apparently normal men examined, one-fifth were found to have gingivitis.

Swollen Gums

Often, the condition caused no symptoms. However, a large number of the patients had painful, swollen gums or bleeding of the gums.

Exactly what causes gingivitis is still a matter of some dispute. It has been stated that perhaps the condition is due to a lack of vitamin C or ascorbic acid. In gingivitis there is redness and swelling of the gums. Later on they may become thickened. These changes, it has been reported, may be overcome by giving ascorbic acid in large amounts.

Dr. W. J. Linghorne and his coworkers, of Canada, carried out some studies on a large group of men to determine the effect of various nutritive substances on the gingivitis. In the first studies which they made, they noted that giving large amounts of vitamins A and D, B-1 and B-2, and niacin, which is a part of the B-Complex, as well as ascorbic acid, for a period of five months seemed to have little effect on the inflammation of the gums.

In their second and third studies, however, they noted that, when the gum inflammation was cleared up to the maximum degree by local treatment, the giving of a large amount of ascorbic acid was more successful in keeping the condition from recurring than was the giving of smaller amounts of ascorbic acid.

The local treatment which was carried out was to apply a paste made by mixing a liquid and powder into the pockets in the gums. The pack thus formed was retained in place for a period of forty-eight hours, and then a second application was made if necessary.

At the end of this period of treatment, the pack was removed. All the tartar was scraped from the teeth polished. Patients were then instructed to keep the teeth clean and to stimulate the gum issue by the use of the toothbrush. It was found that if the diet was one that supplied a large amount of ascorbic acid, the gingivitis could be kept from recurring. There was no difference in the effect on the gum tissue whether the ascorbic acid was supplied in natural foods as for example, four ounces of orange juice, or was given in the form of tablets.

It would appear from this study that gingivitis or gum inflamation may be due in part at least to a vitamin C deficiency but in all cases, to overcome the condition, careful treatment by the dentist is necessary.

Eight College Golf Teams To Compete For Eastern Title

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 14 (AP)—Eight college golf teams will gather Saturday at the Navy's north Severn links to vie for the eastern intercollegiate championship title now held by Army.

Navy Coach Bob Williams said today that Princeton appeared to be the team to beat and Dartmouth sure to put on a creditable performance.

The Middie linkmen have had weather trouble this year, with high and frequent winds prevailing on match days, but they will be counted among the top challengers for the intercollegiate crown.

Participating teams in Saturday's tournament will be Army, Cornell, Dartmouth, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Lafayette, Navy, Princeton and the University of Virginia.

The match will be a 36-hole affair, beginning in the morning.

Garrett Will Hold Three Track Meets

Northern and Southern Sectional Events Are Set for May 24

OAKLAND, Md., May 14—A program of games, track and field events have been drawn up for elementary schools of the southern section of the county, in preparation for a combined meeting on Friday, May 31, on the Oakland high school athletic field.

The program includes marbles, hop scotch, horseshoes, relays, dodge ball, softball, running and jumping. Schools of this unit have been following the program during daily practice periods for the past few weeks.

Since the annual county athletic meet, sponsored by the state department of physical education, will not be held this year, teachers in charge are hoping that this program will serve in its place and be a start for a county-wide program for next year.

It was also announced by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, that the northern unit schools would also have track and field events at Accident on Friday, May 24.

Holland Will Start Charles Town Races

HAVRE de GRACE, Md., May 14. (AP)—Harold Holland, of New Orleans, La., who was a visitor here today, received congratulations from horsemen upon his appointment as starter for the Charles Town Jockey Club's 46-day meeting, which ushers in the West Virginia racing season May 29.

Navy's Thinclads To Face Two Tests

Sailors Enter Heptagonal and NC4A Meets on Successive Weeks

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 14 (AP)—Navy cinder artists, facing the Princeton heptagonal track and field meet and the NC4A event on consecutive Saturdays, hoped today to make it a second undefeated season for Coach Earl Thomson.

After polishing off Duke and the University of North Carolina, the Middies literally ran away from Maryland and Villanova in a triangular meet last Saturday.

The heptagonals will be held at Princeton Saturday, and the NC4A meet comes to Annapolis May 25. Coach Thomson's squad has a tough job to capture the team title, but Navy has shown great power and versatility and seems to be improving fast. The annual Army-Navy track meet will be run during the NC4A meet.

The sailors will get a full test for the NC4A meet at the same time, since several major schools will be in the Princeton meet. They include Princeton, Army, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania and Yale.

However, Penn, Army and Princeton have individual performers who will take some first place points for their teams.

Fish Lure Hobby Is Now a Business

TRENTON, Mo., May 14 (AP) — "Foolin' the fish" has become a business for Gene Sparks and Dick Kurtz.

From deer hair, squirrel tails, duck and turkey wings, peacock and rooster feathers and bits of Chenille, dyed a variety of colors, they have made more than 25 kinds of flies and lures for fishermen this spring. They're marketed through sporting goods stores.

The assortment includes small bugs, minnows, worms, grasshoppers and even pop-eyed frogs.

"The fun comes in testing the lures," says Sparks. "They all catch fish."

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., May 14. (AP)—You may see a modified "T" formation operated by William and Mary's Indians when next autumn rolls around.

R. N. (Rube) McCray, the Indians' athletic director and head coach, is putting his football prospects through several weeks of spring drills, and he has them experimenting around with a modified "T" in which the team lines up in an unbalanced line, with the tailback in the same position he occupies in the straight single wing.

In McCray's modified version of the "T," the fullback and the wingback are staggered, and either may be the man in motion. The blocking back is under the center—making the modified "T."

Navy Coach Bob Williams said today that Princeton appeared to be the team to beat and Dartmouth sure to put on a creditable performance.

The Middie linkmen have had weather trouble this year, with high and frequent winds prevailing on match days, but they will be counted among the top challengers for the intercollegiate crown.

Participating teams in Saturday's tournament will be Army, Cornell, Dartmouth, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Lafayette, Navy, Princeton and the University of Virginia.

The match will be a 36-hole affair, beginning in the morning.

Northern and Southern Sectional Events Are Set for May 24

It was also announced by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, that the northern unit schools would also have track and field events at Accident on Friday, May 24.

Navy's Thinclads To Face Two Tests

Sailors Enter Heptagonal and NC4A Meets on Successive Weeks

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 14 (AP)—Navy cinder artists, facing the Princeton heptagonal track and field meet and the NC4A event on consecutive Saturdays, hoped today to make it a second undefeated season for Coach Earl Thomson.

After polishing off Duke and the University of North Carolina, the Middies literally ran away from Maryland and Villanova in a triangular meet last Saturday.

The heptagonals will be held at Princeton Saturday, and the NC4A meet comes to Annapolis May 25. Coach Thomson's squad has a tough job to capture the team title, but Navy has shown great power and versatility and seems to be improving fast. The annual Army-Navy track meet will be run during the NC4A meet.

The sailors will get a full test for the NC4A meet at the same time, since several major schools will be in the Princeton meet. They include Princeton, Army, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania and Yale.

However, Penn, Army and Princeton have individual performers who will take some first place points for their teams.

Coach Is One-Man Show

By C. V. BURNS

If Interstate League games are being played according to the official rules of baseball it looks as though Umpire-in-Chief Joe Angellatta erred in over-ruling a decision made by Base Umpire Paul Deffenbaugh at first base in the Mt. Savage-F. O. Eagles game in Mt. Savage Sunday afternoon.

According to the Mt. Savage version of the game, the Eagles advanced a runner to second after two down and Joe Geatz was called out by Umpire Deffenbaugh on a grounder to the infield, which would have ended the third inning. At this point, Angellatta, it is said, differed with the base umpire and called Geatz safe. An argument ensued between the arbiters and right then and there the game ended. Mt. Savage was out in front, 3 to 1.

Baseball rules specifically state tha the field umpire shall render all decisions at first base and second base, and all decisions at third base, except those to be made by the Umpire-in-Chief in accordance with Section 3, Rule 54.

Section 3, Rule 54 states that the umpire-in-chief shall render base decisions in the following manner:

(1) If the ball it hit fair, with a runner on first, he must go to third base to take a possible decision; (2) with more than one base occupied, he shall, on appeal, decide whether or not a runner on third leaves the base before a fly ball is caught; (3) in case of a runner being caught between third and home, when more than one base is occupied, he shall make the decision on the runner nearest the home plate.

The rules state that a base umpire shall also have equal authority with the umpire-in-chief in the calling of "balks" on the pitcher, and enforcing the rule prohibiting the use of foreign substance on the ball and prohibiting "freak" deliveries.

Under no circumstances shall an umpire criticize of interfere with a decision unless asked to do so by his associate.

An umpire may not change decisions of other umpire, or umpires. Latter may ask for a conference and then may change a decision if satisfied he is in the wrong.

And no manager or captain may protest a decision of the umpire where it is simply a matter of judgment on the part of the latter.

All of this information is in the rule book.

Carroll Boggs, professional at the Cumberland Country Club, reports that approximately fifty golfing members of the triple C organization have turned in 36-hole qualifying scores for the men's spring golf handicap and he is hopeful the field will be increased to sixty-four when the qualifying round is concluded on Thursday. Drawings for match play in the various flights will be made Friday afternoon.

Remember Johnny Smittle, who pitched for the Wheeling Stogies and Cumberland Colts and several other Mid-Atlantic League clubs between 1925 and 1932?

Smittle, now 48, appeared in a game as relief pitcher the other day and led Strabane to its first triumph of the season over Canonsburg, Pa. Johnny pitched his first ball in the M. A. under Richard "Dick" Guy at Wheeling in the days the Stogies played their home games at Bauer park.

Russ Parsons, coach at Stonewall Jackson high school in Charleston, W. Va., is a busy man these days getting things ready for West Virginia's scholastic championship baseball tournament which will be staged at Kanawha park in Charleston on May 30-31 and June 1.

Parsons is sending out tickets to Charleston business and professional men in hopes that they'll come through with a purchase of these tickets to underwrite the affair, which will cost about $2,000.

This tournament is of particular interest in this district because Moorefield high school's Yellow Jackets, winners of nine consecutive games, will get an opportunity to compete at Charleston if they eliminate Masontown high in a best-of-three game series.

Coach Homer Brooks is pleased over the showing made by his Parsons Panthers, who finished second to Martinsburg in Saturday's sectional track and field meet in Martinsburg.

Four of the eight boys from nearby schools who qualified to compete in the state meet in Charleston next Saturday are from Parsons. Kenneth Keller won the quarter mile dash and was a member of the mile relay team which romped home a winner in 3:35. Other members of the quartet are Releigh Cook, Dan Nestor and Don McIntyre.

Parsons placed second in both the shuttle hurdle relay and the medley relay; Oliver was second in the mile run; Carr, fourth in the pole vault; Oliver, third, and Barton, fourth, in the half mile run; Long, fourth and fifth in the high and low hurdles, and Nestor and Shahan, fourth and fifth in the 220 yards dash.

From then on the fans were "on" the coach.

Every time the spectators in the grandstand would wisecrack about Clara, the coach displaying a most belligerent mood, faced them and shouted:

"Aw, go lay down and die."—

—o—

He was flabbergasted and lost for words, however, when Johnny Esposito pounded a liner about four feet over the shortstop's head into left field, and one of the grandstanders yelled:

"Hey coach, you better take out the shortstop!"

Martin Marion

BROOKLYN, May 14 (AP)—Marty Marion, "Mr. Shortstop" of the St. Louis Cardinals, punched a single into centerfield with two out and the bases loaded in the eleventh inning to give the Red Birds a hard-fought 7 to 5 victory over Brooklyn in the first meeting between the two red-hot National league contenders at Ebbets field today.

In handing the bustling Durochermen their first defeat in their last ten games at home, the spirited crew from the west showed the stuff that champions are made of, and Lefty Max Lanier pitched his heart out to achieve his fifth straight win against no losses. The loss reduced the Dodgers lead over the Cards to a single game and gave them a chance to jam the works in the concluding tussle tomorrow.

It was anybody's decision until the lanky Marion, with the light fading and the wind cutting like a knife, solved little Vic Lombardi, fourth Brooklyn flinger, for the pay-off punch in the eleventh. The Dodgers had numerous chances in the late innings, but each time Lanier bore down and stifled the hopes of 32,918 loyal adherents crammed into the Flatbush arena. Box:

Earshot Is Winner Over Bonnie Beryl In Acorn Stakes

26,929 See Helis Filly Score by Half Length in $10,000 Race

NEW YORK, May 14—(AP)—Ten of the best three-year-old fillies in the country clashed in the $10,000 added one-mile Acorn Stakes at Belmont Park today but it turned out to be strictly a two-horse issue. William Helis's Earshot beat William Woodward's odds-on choice, Bonnie Beryl, by a half length—and the others weren't even within earshot of the leading lady of that name.

Eight lengths away, Mrs. W. P. Stewart's Rytina, in front for more than half the journey, earned the show. She set a sizzling early pace but weakened rapidly when challenged.

A crowd of 26,929 saw Earshot take the sixteenth running of the Acorn, which was worth $9,480 to owner Helis. Earshot, well backed, was timed in 1:37 1-5 under Eddie Arcaro, who won the stake a year ago on Gallorette and who also was winning his second straight race on the program. Earshot paid $7.60.

Earshot, in her previous outing, was second in the Pimlico Oaks. She has started nine times this year, winning six races and finishing second on the three other occasions. She was not named for the $20,000 added, mile and three-furlong Coaching Club Oaks to be run a week hence, so Bonnie Beryl looms as favorite for that fixture.

Ted Atkinson, subbing for the suspended Jimmy Stout, had Bonnie Beryl close behind Rytina in the preliminary stages. The Belair Beauty gained a brief advantage nearing the home turn, being joined by Earshot as they straightened out. The Helis heroine moved a length to the good a furlong out but Bonnie Beryl was not through and extended the winner to the limit.

Detroit Rookie Hurler Will Face Senators Today

Ted Gray Averaged 17 Strikeouts Per Game in Navy League

DETROIT, May 14 (AP)—Blessed with a mound staff six deep in starting pitchers, the Detroit Tigers today made room for a promising 21-year-old rookie lefthander as Manager Steve O'Neill nominated navy veteran Ted Gray to work Wednesday against the Washington Senators.

Gray, just two weeks out of the navy, where he averaged seventeen strikeouts a game, will be making his first big league start, but O'Neill is convinced he's ready.

The slender, dark-eyed youngster, signed by Scout A. J. (Wish) Egan off a Highland Park, Mich., high school team in 1941, pitched batting practice to the Tigers Sunday.

"Several batters came in and told me the kid had real stuff," O'Neill said. "Wednesday's game with a Washington club loaded with left-hand batters is a natural spot for us to give him a trial.

"Mind you, I'm not sending just another lefthander out there. Gray has lots of stuff and plenty of confidence."

Gray, thus moved up on the starting line alongside such stars as Hal Newhouser, Virgil Trucks, Al Benton, Overmire, Dizzy Trout and Tommy Bridges, really is confident though modest.

Asked about his remarkable strikeout record in a navy league in the New Hebrides and Solomon Islands, Ted remarked, "the batters weren't so good out there."

Behind him is a full season of organized ball. In 1941, when he won 13 and lost 14 games for a last place Winston-Salem Club in the Piedmont league. Then 17 years old, Gray fanned 143 batters in 213 innings and twice beat Dave (Boo) Ferriss, now a Boston Red Sox star.

Ferriss and York Star As Boston Tops Chisox

"Boo" Throws only 78 Pitches in Winning, 3-0; Rudy York Hits Two-run Homer

CHICAGO, May 14 (AP) — Boston's Dave (Boo) Ferriss, with some help from Rudy York, won one of the toughest mound duels of the season today as he beat Joe Haynes and the Chicago White Sox, 3-0.

A crowd of 13,392 watched Boston in its first western game.

The Red Sox could get but four hits off Haynes, but one of those was York's towering homer into the left field stands in the fourth. Ted Williams scored ahead of York. Another was a double by York in the seventh that sent Bobby Doerr to third base, from where he scored on on infield out.

Ferriss was almost perfect. He threw but 78 pitches in winning his fourth victory of the year, and set the Sox down with three pitches in the ninth. He walked but one and struck out four. Box:

NATS WALLOP TIGERS

DETROIT, May 14 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers' eight-game winning streak blew up today in the face of a 20-hit Washington uprising that produced a 15 to 1 triumph for knuckleballer Roger Wolff.

Wolff, coasting to his third victory of the season, had a four-hit shutout until Tiger Left Fielder Anse Moore homered in the ninth.

After tagging lefthander Frank (Stubby) Overmire for three runs on a five-hit attack in the third, the Senators really went hit-wacky in the fifth, scoring eight times off Tommy Bridges and George Caster as 12 men batted and seven of them hit safely.

The Nats slugged out eight extra-base blows, including Buddy Lewis's three-run homer in the fifth and seven doubles, three of them in the ninth as four more runs scampered across. Box:

YANKS WIN ON HOMERS

ST. LOUIS, May 14—(AP)—The New York Yankees staged one of their old-time slugging bees today as they clouted out three homers to account for all of their runs in a 6-2 conquest of the St. Louis Browns.

It was the Yanks' old guard who took care of the power show. Bill Dickey, Joe DiMaggio and Joe Gordon, who just returned to the lineup after a five-day layoff because of a leg injury, belted out the four-baggers. Box:

Lesnevich Stops Mills in Tenth Round at London

American Successfully Defends Title before 11,000 Spectators

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—Gus Lesnevich of Cliffside, N. J., knocked out Great Britain's Freddie Mills in the tenth round of their 15-round fight for the world light heavyweight title tonight before 11,000 spectators.

Referee Eugene Henderson stopped the bout after Lesnevich, defending his world crown, flattened Mills twice in the tenth round, once for a count of nine.

Mills got up after that and tried to carry on. A right to the jaw sprawled him on the floor again and the referee raised Lesnevich's right hand without stopping to count. The American weighed the maximum of 175 pounds, Mills 173 pounds 14 ounces.

Coach Is One-Man Show

By C. V. BURNS

If Interstate League games are being played according to the official rules of baseball it looks as though Umpire-in-Chief Joe Angellatta erred in over-ruling a decision made by Base Umpire Paul Deffenbaugh at first base in the Mt. Savage-F. O. Eagles game in Mt. Savage Sunday afternoon.

According to the Mt. Savage version of the game, the Eagles advanced a runner to second after two down and Joe Geatz was called out by Umpire Deffenbaugh on a grounder to the infield, which would have ended the third inning. At this point, Angellatta, it is said, differed with the base umpire and called Geatz safe. An argument ensued between the arbiters and right then and there the game ended. Mt. Savage was out in front, 3 to 1.

Baseball rules specifically state tha the field umpire shall render all decisions at first base and second base, and all decisions at third base, except those to be made by the Umpire-in-Chief in accordance with Section 3, Rule 54.

Section 3, Rule 54 states that the umpire-in-chief shall render base decisions in the following manner:

(1) If the ball it hit fair, with a runner on first, he must go to third base to take a possible decision; (2) with more than one base occupied, he shall, on appeal, decide whether or not a runner on third leaves the base before a fly ball is caught; (3) in case of a runner being caught between third and home, when more than one base is occupied, he shall make the decision on the runner nearest the home plate.

The rules state that a base umpire shall also have equal authority with the umpire-in-chief in the calling of "balks" on the pitcher, and enforcing the rule prohibiting the use of foreign substance on the ball and prohibiting "freak" deliveries.

Under no circumstances shall an umpire criticize of interfere with a decision unless asked to do so by his associate.

An umpire may not change decisions of other umpire, or umpires. Latter may ask for a conference and then may change a decision if satisfied he is in the wrong.

All of this information is in the rule book.

Carroll Boggs, professional at the Cumberland Country Club, reports that approximately fifty golfing members of the triple C organization have turned in 36-hole qualifying scores for the men's spring golf handicap and he is hopeful the field will be increased to sixty-four when the qualifying round is concluded on Thursday. Drawings for match play in the various flights will be made Friday afternoon.

Remember Johnny Smittle, who pitched for the Wheeling Stogies and Cumberland Colts and several other Mid-Atlantic League clubs between 1925 and 1932?

Smittle, now 48, appeared in a game as relief pitcher the other day and led Strabane to its first triumph of the season over Canonsburg, Pa. Johnny pitched his first ball in the M. A. under Richard "Dick" Guy at Wheeling in the days the Stogies played their home games at Bauer park.

Russ Parsons, coach at Stonewall Jackson high school in Charleston, W. Va., is a busy man these days getting things ready for West Virginia's scholastic championship baseball tournament which will be staged at Kanawha park in Charleston on May 30-31 and June 1.

Parsons is sending out tickets to Charleston business and professional men in hopes that they'll come through with a purchase of these tickets to underwrite the affair, which will cost about $2,000.

This tournament is of particular interest in this district because Moorefield high school's Yellow Jackets, winners of nine consecutive games, will get an opportunity to compete at Charleston if they eliminate Masontown high in a best-of-three game series.

Coach Homer Brooks is pleased over the showing made by his Parsons Panthers, who finished second to Martinsburg in Saturday's sectional track and field meet in Martinsburg.

Four of the eight boys from nearby schools who qualified to compete in the state meet in Charleston next Saturday are from Parsons. Kenneth Keller won the quarter mile dash and was a member of the mile relay team which romped home a winner in 3:35. Other members of the quartet are Releigh Cook, Dan Nestor and Don McIntyre.

Parsons placed second in both the shuttle hurdle relay and the medley relay; Oliver was second in the mile run; Carr, fourth in the pole vault; Oliver, third, and Barton, fourth, in the half mile run; Long, fourth and fifth in the high and low hurdles, and Nestor and Shahan, fourth and fifth in the 220 yards dash.

—o—

He was flabbergasted and lost for words, however, when Johnny Esposito pounded a liner about four feet over the shortstop's head into left field, and one of the grandstanders yelled:

Marty Marion's Single with Bases Loaded Wins Contest

BROOKLYN, May 14 (AP)—Marty Marion, "Mr. Shortstop" of the St. Louis Cardinals, punched a single into centerfield with two out and the bases loaded in the eleventh inning to give the Red Birds a hard-fought 7 to 5 victory over Brooklyn in the first meeting between the two red-hot National league contenders at Ebbets field today.

Martin Marion

In handing the bustling Durochermen their first defeat in their last ten games at home, the spirited crew from the west showed the stuff that champions are made of, and Lefty Max Lanier pitched his heart out to achieve his fifth straight win against no losses. The loss reduced the Dodgers lead over the Cards to a single game and gave them a chance to jam the works in the concluding tussle tomorrow.

It was anybody's decision until the lanky Marion, with the light fading and the wind cutting like a knife, solved little Vic Lombardi, fourth Brooklyn flinger, for the pay-off punch in the eleventh. The Dodgers had numerous chances in the late innings, but each time Lanier bore down and stifled the hopes of 32,918 loyal adherents crammed into the Flatbush arena.

Earshot Is Winner Over Bonnie Beryl In Acorn Stakes

26,929 See Helis Filly Score by Half Length in $10,000 Race

NEW YORK, May 14—(AP)—Ten of the best three-year-old fillies in the country clashed in the $10,000 added one-mile Acorn Stakes at Belmont Park today but it turned out to be strictly a two-horse issue. William Helis's Earshot beat William Woodward's odds-on choice, Bonnie Beryl, by a half length—and the others weren't even within earshot of the leading lady of that name.

Eight lengths away, Mrs. W. P. Stewart's Rytina, in front for more than half the journey, earned the show. She set a sizzling early pace but weakened rapidly when challenged.

A crowd of 26,929 saw Earshot take the sixteenth running of the Acorn, which was worth $9,480 to owner Helis. Earshot, well backed, was timed in 1:37 1-5 under Eddie Arcaro, who won the stake a year ago on Gallorette and who also was winning his second straight race on the program. Earshot paid $7.60.

Earshot, in her previous outing, was second in the Pimlico Oaks. She has started nine times this year, winning six races and finishing second on the three other occasions. She was not named for the $20,000 added, mile and three-furlong Coaching Club Oaks to be run a week hence, so Bonnie Beryl looms as favorite for that fixture.

Ted Atkinson, subbing for the suspended Jimmy Stout, had Bonnie Beryl close behind Rytina in the preliminary stages. The Belair Beauty gained a brief advantage nearing the home turn, being joined by Earshot as they straightened out. The Helis heroine moved a length to the good a furlong out but Bonnie Beryl was not through and extended the winner to the limit.

Detroit Rookie Hurler Will Face Senators Today

Ted Gray Averaged 17 Strikeouts Per Game in Navy League

DETROIT, May 14 (AP)—Blessed with a mound staff six deep in starting pitchers, the Detroit Tigers today made room for a promising 21-year-old rookie lefthander as Manager Steve O'Neill nominated navy veteran Ted Gray to work Wednesday against the Washington Senators.

Gray, just two weeks out of the navy, where he averaged seventeen strikeouts a game, will be making his first big league start, but O'Neill is convinced he's ready.

"Several batters came in and told me the kid had real stuff," O'Neill said. "Wednesday's game with a Washington club loaded with left-hand batters is a natural spot for us to give him a trial.

Gray, thus moved up on the starting line alongside such stars as Hal Newhouser, Virgil Trucks, Al Benton, Overmire, Dizzy Trout and Tommy Bridges, really is confident though modest.

Asked about his remarkable strikeout record in a navy league in the New Hebrides and Solomon Islands, Ted remarked, "the batters weren't so good out there."

Behind him is a full season of organized ball. In 1941, when he won 13 and lost 14 games for a last place Winston-Salem Club in the Piedmont league. Then 17 years old, Gray fanned 143 batters in 213 innings and twice beat Dave (Boo) Ferriss, now a Boston Red Sox star.

Ferriss and York Star As Boston Tops Chisox

"Boo" Throws only 78 Pitches in Winning, 3-0; Rudy York Hits Two-run Homer

CHICAGO, May 14 (AP) — Boston's Dave (Boo) Ferriss, with some help from Rudy York, won one of the toughest mound duels of the season today as he beat Joe Haynes and the Chicago White Sox, 3-0.

The Red Sox could get but four hits off Haynes, but one of those was York's towering homer into the left field stands in the fourth. Ted Williams scored ahead of York. Another was a double by York in the seventh that sent Bobby Doerr to third base, from where he scored on on infield out.

Ferriss was almost perfect. He threw but 78 pitches in winning his fourth victory of the year, and set the Sox down with three pitches in the ninth. He walked but one and struck out four. Box:

NATS WALLOP TIGERS

DETROIT, May 14 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers' eight-game winning streak blew up today in the face of a 20-hit Washington uprising that produced a 15 to 1 triumph for knuckleballer Roger Wolff.

Wolff, coasting to his third victory of the season, had a four-hit shutout until Tiger Left Fielder Anse Moore homered in the ninth.

After tagging lefthander Frank (Stubby) Overmire for three runs on a five-hit attack in the third, the Senators really went hit-wacky in the fifth, scoring eight times off Tommy Bridges and George Caster as 12 men batted and seven of them hit safely.

The Nats slugged out eight extra-base blows, including Buddy Lewis's three-run homer in the fifth and seven doubles, three of them in the ninth as four more runs scampered across. Box:

YANKS WIN ON HOMERS

ST. LOUIS, May 14—(AP)—The New York Yankees staged one of their old-time slugging bees today as they clouted out three homers to account for all of their runs in a 6-2 conquest of the St. Louis Browns.

It was the Yanks' old guard who took care of the power show. Bill Dickey, Joe DiMaggio and Joe Gordon, who just returned to the line-up after a five-day layoff because of a leg injury, belted out the four-baggers. Box:

Lesnevich Stops Mills in Tenth Round at London

American Successfully Defends Title before 11,000 Spectators

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—Gus Lesnevich of Cliffside, N. J., knocked out Great Britain's Freddie Mills in the tenth round of their 15-round fight for the world light heavyweight title tonight before 11,000 spectators.

Referee Eugene Henderson stopped the bout after Lesnevich, defending his world crown, flattened Mills twice in the tenth round, once for a count of nine.

Mills got up after that and tried to carry on. A right to the jaw sprawled him on the floor again and the referee raised Lesnevich's right hand without stopping to count. The American weighed the maximum of 175 pounds, Mills 173 pounds 14 ounces.

Special Stocks Account for Gains As Leaders Generally Retreat

Skepticism over a quick settlement of the coal controversy and possibility of a national railway walkout by the weekend served to inspire further trimming of accounts. On the other hand, earnings, dividends and splitup talk persisted as buying incentives for scattered favorites.

On the downside were U. S. steel, Republic steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, North American, Electric Power and Light, Anaconda, American Smelting, American Can, Westinghouse, Philip Morris, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Texas Co. and Armour.

Higher in the curb were the three issues of Dennison Mfg., Fansteel, Creole Petroleum, National Rubber Machinery, Solar Aircraft and Standard Oil of Kentucky. Turnover here was 430,000 shares versus 480,000 yesterday.

Chicago Grain Prices

CHICAGO, May 14 (AP)—Trading in new contracts in all grain futures pits today failed to attract any appreciable amount of business. At the opening the new contracts were bid at the 5 cent permissible daily limit without attracting offerings, and held there during the day's trading, with the exception of the new oats contracts.

Special Stocks Account for Gains As Leaders Generally Retreat

Skepticism over a quick settlement of the coal controversy and possibility of a national railway walkout by the weekend served to inspire further trimming of accounts. On the other hand, earnings, dividends and splitup talk persisted as buying incentives for scattered favorites.

On the downside were U. S. steel, Republic steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, North American, Electric Power and Light, Anaconda, American Smelting, American Can, Westinghouse, Philip Morris, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Texas Co. and Armour.

Higher in the curb were the three issues of Dennison Mfg., Fansteel, Creole Petroleum, National Rubber Machinery, Solar Aircraft and Standard Oil of Kentucky. Turnover here was 430,000 shares versus 480,000 yesterday.

Long-term United States government loans rallied in bond trading after early declines and closed in the dealer market with small gains.

Victory loan Dec. 2½s closed in the dealer market at 102 25-32 bid, up 4-32 on the day.

Chicago Grain Prices

CHICAGO, May 14 (AP)—Trading in new contracts in all grain futures pits today failed to attract any appreciable amount of business. At the opening the new contracts were bid at the 5 cent permissible daily limit without attracting offerings, and held there during the day's trading, with the exception of the new oats contracts.

Closing futures:

Radio Network Schedules New Sports Review

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—A new sports review makes its ABC bow at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. It plans to use the drama to tell what has happened in the athletic arena the previous seven days, as well as to look ahead for what's coming. Besides the necessary actors, there will be an orchestra and a couple of sports commentators.

Right afterward at 9:30 ABC is switching to Dallas for a special program. The state's governor, Coke Stevenson, is to speak and there will be included Edgar Guest and his poems, "Sen." Claghorn as well as Ilka Chase. The studio will be a Dallas department store.

Red Skelton, another NBC-er visitor to CBS, is to show up in the Bob Crosby guest department at 8:30. Jeri Sullivan is the regular singer in this one . . . A ten-year-old who plays both saxophone and piano will be the Kay Kyser guest on his NBC hour at 9 . . . Lee Sims, the veteran pianist of the kilocycles, is around NBC at 11:45 for a late night concert. He also is heard other nights in the week.

Frank Sinatra will be in Detroit for his CBS broadcast at 8. He is on his way east again from Hollywood.

Excerpts from the opera "Samson and Delilah" will be on display for "Great Moments in Music" of CBS at 9. Incidentally this program is to sign off at the end of the season after four and a half years on the network in the same Wednesday night time.

In running the network until 1 a. m., or an hour later than the daylight schedule would ordinarily take the chain off, NBC is filling the extra time with pickups from various points around the country.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 15

Changes in programs as listed are due to corrections by networks made too late to incorporate.

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS NOTE—All times are P.M. eastern standard. To change to eastern daylight, add one hour; central daylight same as eastern standard. To the other hand, for central standard subtract one hour; for mountain standard subtract two hours.

Codfish Is Odd Fish; Imitates Brook Trout

PITTSFIELD, Mass (AP) — Boston no longer is the sole "home of the bean and the cod."

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—A new sports review makes its ABC bow at 9 o'clock Wednesday night. It plans to use the drama to tell what has happened in the athletic arena the previous seven days, as well as to look ahead for what's coming. Besides the necessary actors, there will be an orchestra and a couple of sports commentators.

Right afterward at 9:30 ABC is switching to Dallas for a special program. The state's governor, Coke Stevenson, is to speak and there will be included Edgar Guest and his poems, "Sen." Claghorn as well as Ilka Chase. The studio will be a Dallas department store.

Red Skelton, another NBC-er visitor to CBS, is to show up in the Bob Crosby guest department at 8:30. Jeri Sullivan is the regular singer in this one . . . A ten-year-old who plays both saxophone and piano will be the Kay Kyser guest on his NBC hour at 9 . . . Lee Sims, the veteran pianist of the kilocycles, is around NBC at 11:45 for a late night concert. He also is heard other nights in the week.

Frank Sinatra will be in Detroit for his CBS broadcast at 8. He is on his way east again from Hollywood.

Excerpts from the opera "Samson and Delilah" will be on display for "Great Moments in Music" of CBS at 9. Incidentally this program is to sign off at the end of the season after four and a half years on the network in the same Wednesday night time.

In running the network until 1 a. m., or an hour later than the daylight schedule would ordinarily take the chain off, NBC is filling the extra time with pickups from various points around the country.

Robert Buxbaum Nominated by AFL For Re-election

Stutzman Proposed for Vice President; No Opponents Named

Delegates to the Maryland-District of Columbia American Federation of Labor convention indicated their approval yesterday of the administration of Robert J. Buxbaum, president, and Frank J. Coleman, secretary, by nominating them without opposition for re-election.

After nominations were completed yesterday afternoon for the election, which is the first action of business on the agenda this morning, it was evident there would be no division of opinion and no contest on the choice of officers.

To fill a vacancy created by the death of John Locker, of Washington, D. C., one of the vice presidents, and to fill the vacancy of Paul W. England, of this city, vice president, who is not eligible for re-election, delegates nominated Glenn Snyder, Washington, and C. E. Stutzman, this city.

Buxbaum was also the only nominee for delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention to be held in Chicago in October.

Forty-two Resolutions

On the opening day of the convention, delegates presented seventeen resolutions on various subjects. Yesterday additional resolutions swelled the total to forty-two. Among those presented yesterday were resolutions opposing discontinuance of price control; raising the amount of income tax exemption from $500 per person to $1,500 per person if married or single, with an exemption of $500 for each dependent other than wife.

Another resolution indorses the payroll saving plan; while another opposes a move by prohibitionists to make the country "dry;" and another would indorse a plan of the Allegany Trades Council to build a "Labor Temple" in Cumberland.

Resolutions favoring an eight-hour day for all women workers in Maryland, and favoring a minimum wage law of sixty-five cents an hour and establishment of a Social Security committee within the organization were also submitted.

All these resolutions were referred to the legislative, resolution or other appropriate committees and will be acted upon today.

Of the original seventeen resolutions submitted, some were passed yesterday.

Favor Pay Increase

Favorable action was taken upon a resolution favoring an increase in salary schedules and working conditions for public school teachers in Allegany county.

Resolution No. 18, requesting the governor to fill a vacancy on the Maryland Board of Barber Examiners indorsed Mahlon A. Dize, John Mann and John Glaser, all of Baltimore, for the appointment.

Resolution No. 17, which was also adopted, says "in the near future there will be brought to the laboring classes a six-hour work day, and a thirty-six hour work week. In such an event, the AFL wants legislation to assure a thirty minute period for rest or lunch, so workers will not be required to work steadily for six hours without a break.

Local Woman Is Severely Burned

Mrs. Frances Mahaney, 27, wife of Ralph Mahaney, Celanese employe, was in a "fair" condition late last evening in Memorial hospital where she was admitted at 6:20 p. m. for treatment of severe burns.

Attaches said Mrs. Mahaney suffered second and third degree burns of the arms, legs, abdomen and back after her clothes caught fire as she was filling a cigaret lighter at her home.

The local woman explained that she was smoking while filling the device and that her clothes went up in flames after some of the fluid spilled on her dress.

Morris Bennett, 27, 210 Woods street, Westernport, was admitted to the same hospital yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock for treatment of a compound fracture of the right leg. The Bennett Coal Company employe said he was loading coal when a crane came down and struck him on the leg. Attaches said Bennett's condition was considered "good."

George Taylor, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Taylor, 24 Bridge street, Ridgeley, was treated this morning for a right arm injury suffered in a fall.

Cumberland and Allegany county are expected to be represented officially at the meeting by the presence of Mayor Post, members of the city council, the county commissioners, members of the real estate board and also members of the Allegany County Price Control information panel of some twenty odd members.

Among the speakers will be Leo H. McCormick, State OPA director; Walter R. Heath, Maryland rent control executive; Thomas E. Barrett, Jr., chief rent attorney, and Edward Reisinger, Maryland OPA labor advisor.

Court Jurisdiction In O'Neal Suit Is Questioned

Workshop for Blind Asks Dismissal of Action over Vending Stand

In an answer filed yesterday in circuit court, the Maryland Workshop for the Blind stated that the Allegany County Circuit court is without jurisdiction in the petition filed April 29 by James William O'Neal, blind vendor in the post office building, who has asked the court for an order prohibiting the workshop from interferring with his business.

In his petition filed last month, O'Neal charged the workshop with trying to enforce "chain store tactics" in their effort to take over his business in what O'Neal characterized as a misconstruction of the law on the part of the workshop.

Office in Baltimore

The answer filed yesterday, signed by John G. Schlipp, states that the workshop has its principal office in Baltimore and "is not engaged in business in Allegany county."

The answer contends that the court is without jurisdiction in the matter and has asked that the bill of complaint be dismissed.

Chief Judge William A. Huster ordered O'Neal to appear in court on June 6 at 9:30 a. m. to show cause why his bill of complaint should not be dismissed for want of jurisdiction in the case.

O'Neal Asked Injunction

O'Neal, represented by Morris Baron, on April 29 asked the court to prohibit the workshop from interfering with his business, from "threatening him" and going to post office authorities to seek his ejection from his place of business.

O'Neal contends that the workshop has far exceeded its power as written or implied in the Randolph-Sheppard act and in the act of the Maryland Legislature. The vendor said he had never received aid from the workshop and that he did not desire to transfer his stand from his personal ownership.

Two Issues Are Under Discussion At Celanese Plant

Negotiations between the Celanese Corporation of America and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, for a wage increase for the union's 8,500 members employed at the Amcelle plant will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock, according to company and union spokesmen.

The company and union met yesterday afternoon in a 2 to 8 p. m. session attended by James A. Holden, federal conciliator, and Wesley Cook, New York, assistant director of the rayon division of Textile Workers Union of America.

It was understood last evening that two issues are at stake in the negotiations, first, whether the increase offered by the company is to be paid as a percentage increase amounting to six to ten cents hourly increases for different classes of workers or as an "across the board" increase.

The second issue at stake deals with the wage reopening clause in connection with the extension of the working agreement for one year. The company wants wages frozen for the extension period while the union wants the right to reopen wage negotiations in case of inflationary increases in living costs during the life of the contract.

No money, it was understood, is involved in the negotiations, but only a question of how the increase shall be distributed.

The union has scheduled membership meetings for this evening at 7:30 o'clock and tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to hear a report of the negotiations for the wage boost.

Gunshot Victim Shows Improvement

Mrs. Frances Jones, 32, wife of Charles E. Jones, Winfield road, who police said was admitted to Memorial hospital Monday morning with a self inflicted gunshot wound of the left chest, was reported "somewhat improved" last evening.

Both Rumar Farris, 45, and Julia Stevens, 17, both of Paw Paw, W. Va., admitted to Memorial hospital for treatment of injuries suffered when the motorcycle they were riding collided with a car near Paw Paw Sunday, were reported in a "fair" condition last evening. Farris suffered a possible fracture of the skull and the Stevens girl suffered a fractured left leg and other injuries.

School Board Plans To Purchase Site for School

Nicholson and Smith Will Sell Tract at Ellerslie

Edward A. Dashiell yesterday was re-elected president of the board of education at the annual meeting where it was announced that the deal to purchase land for the proposed new school at Ellerslie will be closed next week.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent and secretary-treasurer of the board ex officio, said that four acres of open land will be purchased from Somerville Nicholson and Fulcher P. Smith.

The property lies on the west side of the highway running through Ellerslie in the south end of town and is bounded by streets on three sides. The tract is located approximately 250 feet from the highway.

Kopp did not state when it will be possible to start construction on the new school but expressed satisfaction that the tract for the new building is practically settled.

Kopp informed the board members yesterday that there will be sixty-five positions to fill in the teaching staff next year. This number includes twenty-four elementary teaching positions and forty-one high school positions.

The superintendent said that the positions to be filled does not consist entirely as the result of resignations. A few teachers are being dismissed at the end of the school year and some new positions are either being created or filled now that the war is over.

Kopp also reported to the board on the recent conference of county superintendents held here, the dental clinic report and a discussion on sick pay was held.

Lane and Tawes Address Delegates At AFL Conclave

J. Millard Tawes, of Crisfield and Baltimore, and W. Preston Lane, Jr., of Hagerstown, were presented as "friends of labor," by Robert J. Buxbaum, AFL president.

Lane advised the delegates to "look at us" and decide how you wish to vote in the coming election. In making a decision, he stated, four points should be considered as follows:

1. Background of experience and training.
2. Intellectual honesty, as the "next four years will need a high degree of intellectual honesty."
3. Sincerity to promote the interests of all the people.
4. Courage to decide and act.

Lane said he was glad to speak on the same platform and same day as Tawes as it represents the spirit of the Democratic party, and said "it would be well if it was the spirit of the Republican party."

Says Governor Has Duty

He said the next governor has the duty of helping to bring the state and country back to normal pursuits and to work for the future. The candidate said he has had other recent opportunities, including that of becoming a vice president and general counsel for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, but said instead he seeks to "make use of what experience I have had and what ability I may have to do something in the real interests of the people."

In suggesting that the delegates look over the candidates, Lane said they should make certain that their privilege to organize is not interfered with.

Tawes said in part:

"We in Maryland have been singularly free from the industrial disturbances that existed in other parts of the country. Maryland has always been a safe state for labor and for capital. We do not go to extremes. Corruption and tyranny by employers, exploitation of the working man is not a part of the Maryland way of doing things. The manipulators, agitators and demagogues do not find fertile soil in Maryland in which to work. When there is a dispute we are disposed here to work out a fair compromise, —fair to all,—labor, capital and the general public."

Tawes said labor was among the first to recognize "the danger from Fascism and Communism over seas," and that "the most outspoken criticisms of these alien ideologies came from men who were leaders in labor.

"Today a social security program is accepted without question. Unemployment compensation has met the impact of its first great test, now that the war has ended. Abuse in individual cases should not obscure the great god that has come to the working man from this law.

Old Age Security

"The fear of old age is no longer a specter to be faced by the working men and women because here, too, our social security program has provided protection when old age comes. Today these great

Local Woman Receives Call from Tokyo

Mrs. George W. Allen, 634 Lincoln street, received a telephone call from her sister, Lt. Helen A. Corle, stationed in the army nurse corps in Tokyo early Sunday morning.

Mrs. Allen said arrangements for the call were made for 9 p. m. Saturday but added the call was delayed.

Lt. Corle, who graduated from the Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in September, 1944, entered the nurse corps April, 1945, and went overseas last September. She is stationed at the Seventy-sixth station hospital in Tokyo.

Veteran Unemployment Is Termed Community Problem by USES Head

Insufficient Number of Jobs Available, Brown Tells Legionnaires

Grafton Lee Brown, state director of the United States Employment Service, last night told members of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, that veteran unemployment should be regarded as a community problem and that representatives of the veterans' agencies, labor and management should get together and thresh the problem out.

Citing a recent survey by his office, Brown said the figures show that there aren't a sufficient number of jobs available and in this connection said that a total of 170,000 veterans have been returned to Maryland which is more than the number drafted from the state.

While there are now 23,000 unemployed veterans in the state, it is only in spots that the picture is unfavorable, Brown said. The speaker said he understood there are now over 2,000 unemployed veterans in the Cumberland area and that while the advisory committee of the United States Employment Service stand ready to give every assistance, the community should regard the matter as its problem.

USES Sometimes Uninformed

Brown told the Legionnaires that one difficulty is the fact that employers with vacancies sometimes neglect to inform the employment service of this fact—which "completely handcuffs us."

"Jobs must be available," Brown told the members of the post "and it's up to labor, management and veterans' agencies to get together and help work the matter out."

Brown, who is also chairman of the State Veterans Service committee, was accompanied last night by Michael F. Pendergast, former Cumberland newspaperman who was recently promoted to chief of operations of the United States Employment Service in the state. Brown is also a former newspaperman.

Another guest present at last night's meeting of the post was Fred Z. Hetzel, formerly United States Employment Service manager in Cumberland, who now holds a similar post in Washington, D. C. Yesterday marked Hetzel's first visit to Cumberland in two years.

Plan Newspaper Advertising

Following Brown's talk, Patrick J. Carroll, chief of the USES office in Cumberland, moved that Fort Cumberland Post do its bit in solving the unemployment situatoin by sponsoring advertisements in the Cumberland newspapers advising management, labor and the general public of conditions that exist on the unemployment front. This motion was adopted unanimously by the post and Commander Samuel A. Graham named Carroll chairman of a committee to prepare copy for the advertisements.

The post commander last night appointed Phil Fleming chairman of a new housing committee to select a site for a new Legion home in Cumberland. It was indicated that Fleming would name committee members to assist him with the project at a later date.

It was also announced last night that Fort Cumberland Post now has a total of 1,690 members.

Following the meeting, a dinner was served the membership. The meal was prepared, as usual, under the capable direction of "Cappy" Haller.

Cresaptown Couple Are Overcome By Gas Fumes

Quick action on the part of neighbors was credited with saving the life of a B. and O. trackman and his wife who were overcome by gas fumes at their home in Cresaptown early last evening.

Marvin Borror, 40, was admitted to Memorial hospital at 8:20 p. m. in an unconscious condition and attaches said oxygen was administered for thirty minutes before he regained consciousness. His condition was reported as "fair" late last evening.

Attaches were told that Mr. and Mrs. Borror were overcome by fumes from the gas furnace at their home.

Neighbors reported the couple were found unconscious by a neighbor who went to the home and found Mrs. Borror unconscious in the kitchen of the home. She revived soon after neighbors threw open the windows of the flat.

Mrs. Borror reported that she and her husband had finished eating their supper shortly before they were overcome by the fumes.

Allegany High's Class Day Play Rehearsals Start

"The Good Ship Alleganac" Is Written by Lewyn C. Davis

Rehearsals for the Class day play to be presented at Allegany high school May 28 started last night with a cast of fifty-five under the direction of Claude C. Wickard, dramatic coach at Allegany.

Wickard said this year's class play entitled "The Good Ship Alleganac" was written by Lewyn C. Davis, principal of Central high school, Lonaconing, and formerly vice principal at Allegany high.

The play was described by Wickard as original and colorful and features a pirate theme and a number of dance reviews, the latter staged by Mrs. Betty Winters.

The play opens with the "Good Ship Alleganac" tied up at Riverside park. The graduating class goes aboard and the ship takes off for remote places and concludes on a beautiful tropical island in the Southwest Pacific.

The writer has worked in the usual matters associated with a class day including the class will, distribution of gifts and the prophecy.

Wickard said he believed the audience would find the original play both different and entertaining. It will be presented in honor of the graduating class of around 190 seniors.

Graduation week at Allegany will open officially with the play on Tuesday, May 28. The senior prom is scheduled for the following day with commencement exercises on May 31.

Council To Hold Budget Meeting Thursday Morning

The mayor and city council will meet tomorrow at 9 a. m. in the mayor's office for final discussion of the proposed budget for the coming fiscal year and to set the tax rate, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

A discussion of the budget was held yesterday following a special meeting of the mayor and council to pass the payroll. Mayor Post said every effort will be made to pare the budget to the minimum amount necessary for the operation of the several departments.

An order was passed yesterday for the appointment of Robert R. Golden as custodian of Constitution park to succeed Joseph J. Lydinger who resigned. His basic monthly salary is $90 and coupled with the twenty per cent bonus and recent $14 monthly raise given all salaried workers he will receive $22 monthly. In addition, he gets the use of the residence at the park rent free.

A petition of residents of the 900-block Glenwood street, asking the city to pass an ordinance for grading and paving the section of the street between Putnam street and West Oldtown Road, was referred to the street commissioner and city engineer. The section referred to is about 1,309 feet long and the residents asked that it be blacktopped.

A request for permission to install two 2,500 gallon gasoline tanks at the service station owned by Richard C. and Allen P. Shaw, 1103 Oldtown road, was made by the Sun Oil Company. The request was referred to Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer with authority to act.

The city also granted the Young Men's Civic Club, an organization comprised of negro youths in the Pine avenue section, permission to organize an association to handle the Pine avenue playgrund.

Detailed Plan Regarding Operation Of Airport Restaurant Requested

Commission Hears Bid of Charles C. Sullivan for Concession

Charles C. Sullivan was requested by the municipal airport commission last night to submit a detailed statement to the commission within the next few days regarding his bid to operate a restaurant and night club concession at the Cumberland Municipal airport.

Sullivan exhibited building plans for the proposed structure at a special meeting of the commission in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, suggested that Sullivan submit a detailed account of the building specifications, including dimensions, materials and fixtures, as well as a definite plan of management.

Heskett's motion to that effect, seconded by Arthur J. Weber, was approved unanimously. The statement will be submitted to Cumberland Airways, Inc., the West Virginia corporation which operates the airport under lease from the city.

Early Meeting Planned

The resolution regarding the statement also included an amendment to the effect that the commission gave tentative approval to the building plans which Sullivan brought to the meeting last night. Although Edmund S. Burke, commission chairman, was not present at the meeting, T. Donald Shires, secretary, reported that Burke had seen the plans and had expressed his approval of them.

G. Wyatt Brenaman suggested that the commission meet again as soon as the detailed statement is drawn up by Sullivan, so that it may be studied and submitted to the mayor and city council next Monday, if the commission approves it.

Mayor Post pointed out that the construction of any public building on city-owned property must also be approved by the city engineer and the fire chief.

Heskett said both the building

Coal Is Ordered By Commissioners For County Home

Board Will Pay Price Fixed in Contract of UMW and Operators

The county commissioners yesterday approved an order to purchase a supply of coal from the Consolidated Fuel Company for Sylvan Retreat, the county asylum.

The commissioners moved to purchase the coal after officials at the home reported that the unseasonably cold weather in recent weeks and nearly exhausted the supply of coal and that several additional tons will be needed to keep the buildings heated. However, the commissioners were advised that the supply of coal at other county institutions is adequate.

It was reported that the commissioners will pay the price for the coal which may be fixed in event any increase is made retroactive when a new contract is signed by the United Mine Workers of America and operators now conferring in Washington.

Exempt Church Property

A motion was passed to exempt St. Luke's Lutheran church from payment of 1947 taxes on a property at 230 Bedford street, which is owned by the congregation and which is to be occupied as a parsonage. The present parsonage at Bedford and Columbia streets was recently sold.

The board accepted the offer of $300 from Lyle B. Parks, 56 Elder street, for Lots 298 and 299 on Lafayette avenue, owned by the county. No action was taken on his offer of $200 for Lots 296 and 297 on the same street.

Three members of Mt. Savage Post, American Legion, appeared before the board to ask improvements to the street between the Acme building and the Junior Order hall in Mt. Savage. They said a wall is needed along the street which is a part of the Mt. Savage road through the town, which is not incorporated. The Legion members, Joseph Carter, Edward Murray and Charles King, were advised that County Engineer John H. Carscaden will contact officials of the state roads commission and investigate the matter.

USES Head Asks For AFL's Help In Job Situation

Brown Asks Delegates To See that Work Opportunities Are Registered

Revealing some of the highlights of the War Manpower Commission during the war, and appealing for jobs for veterans and war workers in the state, Grafton Lee Brown, Maryland director of the United States Employment Service, addressed delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor in the Fort Cumberland hotel ballroom here yesterday.

Brown told his audience that without the co-operation of labor and management much of the work of the commission would have been impossible. He was enthusiastic in his praise of numerous labor leaders throughout the state, and mentioned by name the AFL president, Robert J. Buxbaum, and others in Baltimore, and John Dolphin, Harry Porch, Patrick Allender and others, of this city.

"As a result of the rapid expansion of war production in Baltimore," Brown revealed, "employment in essential industry increased from 133,000 in April 1940 to over a quarter of a million by December 1943 when the peak of employment was reached."

"In April 1940, about 45,000 were out of work in the Baltimore area alone. This force was soon absorbed as war production began," he declared. It became necessary, he explained, to draw older men, women, boys and girls into war production, and with the help of labor and capital, the commission was able to do this as more and more able-bodied industrial workers were placed under arms.

"Maryland became the mecca for more thousands from all over the South and the farming areas of neighboring states. The tide swelled as the thunder of industry increased in tempo and at one time, in December 1943, the tremendous flow of immigrant labor had reached a crest of 200,000 such workers in the state," Brown stated.

"It was not always a pretty picture . . . this panorama of production on the home front . . . but mountains of munitions and materials moved to the far-flung battle fronts of a war-encircled world, he declared.

Army of Workers

"More than 214,000 of Maryland's sons and daughters wore uniforms of the nation all over the world," Brown continued. Maryland's industry at the height of the war became a controlled army of over a quarter million workers, directed by the priority referral regulations of the War Manpower Commission.

"Because of its many varied industries, Maryland became an 'arsenal of America,' and the state's war production ran the gamut of everything the serviceman required. "Lots of people," the speaker ex-

Miner Wins Decree From Absent Wife

Chief Judge William A. Huster yesterday awarded an absolute divorce to Clarence W. Mellott, 47, 401 Virinia avenue, from Frances S. Mellott, now believed to be living in New Castle, Pa.

The court awarded the petitioner the custody of one of two children, with the defendant given the custody of the other. According to their attorney, Harold E. Naughton, they were married at Berkeley Springs in 1923 and separated at Amaranth, Pa., in 1937.

Charging that his bride deserted him thirty days after their marriage, Leonard Sirbaugh yesterday filed suit for an absolute divorce from Mrs. Velma Geatz Sirbaugh, said to reside in Petersburg, W. Va. The husband, represented by Edward J. Ryan, said they were married January 12 of this year in Cumberland and lived together until February 13.

Mrs. Anna C. McCourt, Cumberland, who filed suit for a partial divorce last week from James A. McCourt, has withdrawn the action, through her counsel, Julius E. Schindler. The wife had charged her husband with threatening her life "with knives and guns" and also charged that more than $1,000 in a joint account at a local bank represented her earnings while employed. She has asked a court order to obtain the money. The dispute was later adjusted by the couple, however, and her counsel withdrew the action.

The court yesterday granted an absolute divorce to Mrs. Pauline F. Bennett, Cumberland, from Franklin Benntt. Edwin M. Horchler was counsel for the wife who was still under twenty-one years of age when the action was filed last July 20 by her mother and next best friend, Mrs. Emma C. Reed.

Driver Is Held After Truck Hits Telephone Pole

Luther Weltman, Corriganville, who police said was the driver of a Charlton Brothers truck which crashed against a telephone pole in front of The Dingle drug store, 756 Greene street, last evening at 7:25 o'clock, is being held for investigation in the city jail.

Police said the truck Weltman was driving east on Greene street street swerved to pass a car which turned into a nearby gasoline station and crashed against the pole when the driver lost control of the ton and a half truck.

The truck, police said, sideswiped the pole and damaged the cab, adding that the bed of the truck was almost torn from the chassis when the bed caught on the pole.

The truck, loaded with wine and whiskey, was returning from Cozy inn when the accident occurred, police said. Detective Thomas J. See, Detective Lt. R. Emmett Flynn and Officers John G. Powers and Joseph Stitcher investigated.

Robert Buxbaum Nominated by AFL For Re-election

Stutzman Proposed for Vice President; No Opponents Named

Delegates to the Maryland-District of Columbia American Federation of Labor convention indicated their approval yesterday of the administration of Robert J. Buxbaum, president, and Frank J. Coleman, secretary, by nominating them without opposition for re-election.

After nominations were completed yesterday afternoon for the election, which is the first action of business on the agenda this morning, it was evident there would be no division of opinion and no contest on the choice of officers.

To fill a vacancy created by the death of John Locker, of Washington, D. C., one of the vice presidents, and to fill the vacancy of Paul W. England, of this city, vice president, who is not eligible for re-election, delegates nominated Glenn Snyder, Washington, and C. E. Stutzman, this city.

Forty-two Resolutions

On the opening day of the convention, delegates presented seventeen resolutions on various subjects. Yesterday additional resolutions swelled the total to forty-two. Among those presented yesterday were resolutions opposing discontinuance of price control; raising the amount of income tax exemption from $500 per person to $1,500 per person if married or single, with an exemption of $500 for each dependent other than wife.

Another resolution indorses the payroll saving plan; while another opposes a move by prohibitionists to make the country "dry;" and another would indorse a plan of the Allegany Trades Council to build a "Labor Temple" in Cumberland.

Resolutions favoring an eight-hour day for all women workers in Maryland, and favoring a minimum wage law of sixty-five cents an hour and establishment of a Social Security committee within the organization were also submitted.

All these resolutions were referred to the legislative, resolution or other appropriate committees and will be acted upon today.

Of the original seventeen resolutions submitted, some were passed yesterday.

Favor Pay Increase

Favorable action was taken upon a resolution favoring an increase in salary schedules and working conditions for public school teachers in Allegany county.

Resolution No. 14, requesting the governor to fill a vacancy on the Maryland Board of Barber Examiners indorsed Mahlon A. Dize, John Mann and John Glaser, all of Baltimore, for the appointment.

Resolution No. 17, which was also adopted, says "in the near future there will be brought to the laboring classes a six-hour work day, and a thirty-six hour work week. In such an event, the AFL wants legislation to assure a thirty minute period for rest or lunch, so workers will not be required to work steadily for six hours without a break.

Court Jurisdiction In O'Neal Suit Is Questioned

Workshop for Blind Asks Dismissal of Action over Vending Stand

In an answer filed yesterday in circuit court, the Maryland Workshop for the Blind stated that the Allegany County Circuit court is without jurisdiction in the petition filed April 29 by James William O'Neal, blind vendor in the post office building, who has asked the court for an order prohibiting the workshop from interferring with his business.

In his petition filed last month, O'Neal charged the workshop with trying to enforce "chain store tactics" in their effort to take over his business in what O'Neal characterized as a misconstruction of the law on the part of the workshop.

Office in Baltimore

The answer filed yesterday, signed by John G. Schilpp, states that the workshop has its principal office in Baltimore and "is not engaged in business in Allegany county."

The answer contends that the court is without jurisdiction in the matter and has asked that the bill of complaint be dismissed.

Chief Judge William A. Huster ordered O'Neal to appear in court on June 6 at 9:30 a. m. to show cause why his bill of complaint should not be dismissed for want of jurisdiction in the case.

O'Neal Asked Injunction

O'Neal, represented by Morris Baron, on April 29 asked the court to prohibit the workshop from interfering with his business, from "threatening him" and going to post office authorities to seek his ejection from his place of business.

O'Neal contends that the workshop has far exceeded its power as written or implied in the Randolph-Sheppard act and in the act of the Maryland Legislature. The vendor said he had never received aid from the workshop and that he did not desire to transfer his stand from his personal ownership.

Two Issues Are Under Discussion At Celanese Plant

Negotiations between the Celanese Corporation of America and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, for a wage increase for the union's 8,500 members employed at the Amcelle plant will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock, according to company and union spokesmen.

The company and union met yesterday afternoon in a 2 to 8 p. m. session attended by James A. Hoiden, federal conciliator, and Wesley Cook, New York, assistant director of the rayon division of Textile Workers Union of America.

A company spokesman said last evening he felt there was "some progress" at the conference.

It was understood last evening that two issues are at stake in the negotiations, first, whether the increase offered by the company is to be paid as a percentage increase amounting to six to ten cents hourly increases for different classes of workers or as an "across the board" increase.

The union is reported as insisting on the flat increase while the company wants the percentage increase.

The second issue at stake deals with the wage reopening clause in connection with the extension of the working agreement for one year. The company wants wages frozen for the extension period while the union wants the right to reopen wage negotiations in case of inflationary increases in living costs during the life of the contract.

No money, it was understood, is involved in the negotiations, but only a question of how the increase shall be distributed.

The union has scheduled membership meetings for this evening at 7:30 o'clock and tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to hear a report of the negotiations for the wage boost.

Gunshot Victim Shows Improvement

Mrs. Frances Jones, 32, wife of Charles E. Jones, Winfield road, who police said was admitted to Memorial hospital Monday morning with a self inflicted gunshot wound of the left chest, was reported "somewhat improved" last evening.

Both Rumar Farris, 45, and Julia Stevens, 17, both of Paw Paw, W. Va., admitted to Memorial hospital for treatment of injuries suffered when the motorcycle they were riding collided with a car near Paw Paw Sunday, were reported in a "fair" condition last evening. Farris suffered a possible fracture of the skull and the Stevens girl suffered a fractured left leg and other injuries.

School Board Plans To Purchase Site for School

Nicholson and Smith Will Sell Tract at Ellerslie

Edward A. Dashiell yesterday was re-elected president of the board of education at the annual meeting where it was announced that the deal to purchase land for the proposed new school at Ellerslie will be closed next week.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent and secretary-treasurer of the board ex officio, said that four acres of open land will be purchased from Somerville Nicholson and Fulcher P. Smith.

The property lies on the west side of the highway running through Ellerslie in the south end of town and is bounded by streets on three sides. The tract is located approximately 250 feet from the highway.

Kopp did not state when it will be possible to start construction on the new school but expressed satisfaction that the tract for the new building is practically settled.

Kopp informed the board members yesterday that there will be sixty-five positions to fill in the teaching staff next year. This number includes twenty-four elementary teaching positions and forty-one high school positions.

The superintendent said that the positions to be filled does not consist entirely as the result of resignations. A few teachers are being dismissed at the end of the school year and some new positions are either being created or filled now that the war is over.

Kopp also reported to the board on the recent conference of county superintendents held here, the dental clinic report and a discussion on sick pay was held.

Lane and Tawes Address Delegates At AFL Conclave

J. Millard Tawes, of Crisfield and Baltimore, and W. Preston Lane, Jr., of Hagerstown, were presented as "friends of labor," by Robert J. Buxbaum, AFL president.

Lane advised the delegates to "look at us" and decide how you wish to vote in the coming election. In making a decision, he stated, four points should be considered as follows:

1. Background of experience and training.
2. Intellectual honesty, as the "next four years will need a high degree of intellectual honesty."
3. Sincerity to promote the interests of all the people.
4. Courage to decide and act.

Lane said he was glad to speak on the same platform and same day as Tawes as it represents the spirit of the Democratic party, and said "it would be well if it was the spirit of the Republican party."

Says Governor Has Duty

He said the next governor has the duty of helping to bring the state and country back to normal pursuits and to work for the future. The candidate said he has had other recent opportunities, including that of becoming a vice president and general counsel for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, but said instead he seeks to "make use of what experience I have had and what ability I may have to do something in the real interests of the people."

In suggesting that the delegates look over the candidates, Lane said they should make certain that their privilege to organize is not interfered with.

Tawes said in part:

"We in Maryland have been singularly free from the industrial disturbances that existed in other parts of the country. Maryland has always been a safe state for labor and for capital. We do not go to extremes. Corruption and tyranny by employers, exploitation of the working man is not a part of the Maryland way of doing things. The manipulators, agitators and demagogues do not find fertile soil in Maryland in which to work. When there is a dispute we are disposed here to work out a fair compromise, —fair to all,—labor, capital and the general public."

Tawes said labor was among the first to recognize "the danger from Fascism and Communism over seas," and that "the most outspoken criticisms of these alien ideologies came from men who were leaders in labor.

"Today a social security program is accepted without question. Unemployment compensation has met the impact of its first great test, now that the war has ended. Abuse in individual cases should not obscure the great god that has come to the working man from this law.

Old Age Security

"The fear of old age is no longer a specter to be faced by the working men and women because here, too, our social security program has provided protection when old age comes. Today these great

Veteran Unemployment Is Termed Community Problem by USES Head

Insufficient Number of Jobs Available, Brown Tells Legionnaires

Grafton Lee Brown, state director of the United States Employment Service, last night told members of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, that veteran unemployment should be regarded as a community problem and that representatives of the veterans' agencies, labor and management should get together and thresh the problem out.

Citing a recent survey by his office, Brown said the figures show that there aren't a sufficient number of jobs available and in this connection said that a total of 170,000 veterans have been returned to Maryland which is more than the number drafted from the state.

While there are now 23,000 unemployed veterans in the state, it is only in spots that the picture is unfavorable, Brown said. The speaker said he understood there are now over 2,000 unemployed veterans in the Cumberland area and that while the advisory committee of the United States Employment Service stand ready to give every assistance, the community should regard the matter as its problem.

USES Sometimes Uninformed

Brown told the Legionnaires that one difficulty is the fact that employers with vacancies sometimes neglect to inform the employment service of this fact—which "completely handcuffs us."

"Jobs must be available," Brown told the members of the post "and it's up to labor, management and veterans' agencies to get together and help work the matter out."

Brown, who is also chairman of the State Veterans Service committee, was accompanied last night by Michael F. Pendergast, former Cumberland newspaperman who was recently promoted to chief of operations of the United States Employment Service in the state. Brown is also a former newspaperman.

Another guest present at last night's meeting of the post was Fred Z. Hetzel, formerly United States Employment Service manager in Cumberland, who now holds a similar post in Washington, D. C. Yesterday marked Hetzel's first visit to Cumberland in two years.

Plan Newspaper Advertising

Following Brown's talk, Patrick J. Carroll, chief of the USES office in Cumberland, moved that Fort Cumberland Post do its bit in solving the unemployment situatoin by sponsoring advertisements in the Cumberland newspapers advising management, labor and the general public of conditions that exist on the unemployment front. This motion was adopted unanimously by the post and Commander Samuel A. Graham named Carroll chairman of a committee to prepare copy for the advertisements.

The post commander last night appointed Phil Fleming chairman of a new housing committee to select a site for a new Legion home in Cumberland. It was indicated that Fleming would name committee members to assist him with the project at a later date.

It was also announced last night that Fort Cumberland Post now has a total of 1,690 members.

Following the meeting, a dinner was served the membership. The meal was prepared, as usual, under the capable direction of "Cappy" Haller.

Cresaptown Couple Are Overcome By Gas Fumes

Quick action on the part of neighbors was credited with saving the life of a B. and O. trackman and his wife who were overcome by gas fumes at their home in Cresaptown early last evening.

Marvin Borror, 40, was admitted to Memorial hospital at 8:20 p. m. in an unconscious condition and attaches said oxygen was administered for thirty minutes before he regained consciousness. His condition was reported as "fair" late last evening.

Attaches were told that Mr. and Mrs. Borror were overcome by fumes from the gas furnace at their home.

Neighbors reported the couple were found unconscious by a neighbor who went to the home and found Mrs. Borror unconscious in the kitchen of the home. She revived soon after neighbors threw open the windows of the flat.

Mrs. Borror reported that she and her husband had finished eating their supper shortly before they were overcome by the fumes.

Allegany High's Class Day Play Rehearsals Start

"The Good Ship Alleganac" Is Written by Lewyn C. Davis

Rehearsals for the Class day play to be presented at Allegany high school May 28 started last night with a cast of fifty-five under the direction of Claude C. Wickard, dramatic coach at Allegany.

Wickard said this year's class play entitled "The Good Ship Alleganac" was written by Lewyn C. Davis, principal of Central high school, Lonaconing, and formerly vice principal at Allegany high.

The play was described by Wickard as original and colorful and features a pirate theme and a number of dance reviews, the latter staged by Mrs. Betty Winters.

The play opens with the "Good Ship Alleganac" tied up at Riverside park. The graduating class goes aboard and the ship takes off for remote places and concludes on a beautiful tropical island in the Southwest Pacific.

The writer has worked in the usual matters associated with a class day including the class will, distribution of gifts and the prophecy.

Wickard said he believed the audience would find the original play both different and entertaining. It will be presented in honor of the graduating class of around 190 seniors.

USES Head Asks For AFL's Help In Job Situation

Brown Asks Delegates To See that Work Opportunities Are Registered

Revealing some of the highlights of the War Manpower Commission during the war, and appealing for jobs for veterans and war workers in the state, Grafton Lee Brown, Maryland director of the United States Employment Service, addressed delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor in the Fort Cumberland hotel ballroom here yesterday.

Brown told his audience that without the co-operation of labor and management much of the work of the commission would have been impossible. He was enthusiastic in his praise of numerous labor leaders throughout the state, and mentioned by name the AFL president, Robert J. Buxbaum, and others in Baltimore, and John Dolphin, Harry Porch, Patrick Allender and others, of this city.

"As a result of the rapid expansion of war production in Baltimore," Brown revealed, "employment in essential industry increased from 133,000 in April 1940 to over a quarter of a million by December 1943 when the peak of employment was reached."

45,000 Jobless in 1940

"In April 1940, about 45,000 were out of work in the Baltimore area alone. This force was soon absorbed as war production began," he declared. It became necessary, he explained, to draw older men, women, boys and girls into war production, and with the help of labor and capital, the commission was able to do this as more and more able-bodied industrial workers were placed under arms.

"Maryland became the mecca for more thousands from all over the South and the farming areas of neighboring states. The tide swelled as the thunder of industry increased in tempo and at one time, in December 1943, the tremendous flow of immigrant labor had reached a crest of 200,000 such workers in the state," Brown stated.

"It was not always a pretty picture . . . this panorama of production on the home front . . . but mountains of munitions and materials moved to the far-flung battle fronts of a war-encircled world, he declared.

Army of Workers

"More than 214,000 of Maryland's sons and daughters wore uniforms of the nation all over the world," Brown continued. Maryland's industry at the height of the war became a controlled army of over a quarter million workers, directed by the priority referral regulations of the War Manpower Commission.

"Because of its many varied industries, Maryland became an 'arsenal of America,' and the state's war production ran the gamut of everything the serviceman required.

Miner Wins Decree From Absent Wife

Chief Judge William A. Huster yesterday awarded an absolute divorce to Clarence W. Mellott, 47, 401 Virinia avenue, from Frances S. Mellott, now believed to be living in New Castle, Pa.

The court awarded the petitioner the custody of one of two children, with the defendant given the custody of the other. According to their attorney, Harold E. Naughton, they were married at Berkeley Springs in 1923 and separated at Amaranth, Pa., in 1937.

Charging that his bride deserted him thirty days after their marriage, Leonard Sirbaugh yesterday filed suit for an absolute divorce from Mrs. Velma Geatz Sirbaugh, said to reside in Petersburg, W. Va. The husband, represented by Edward J. Ryan, said they were married January 12 of this year in Cumberland and lived together until February 13.

Mrs. Anna C. McCourt, Cumberland, who filed suit for a partial divorce last week from James A. McCourt, has withdrawn the action, through her counsel, Julius E. Schindler. The wife had charged her husband with threatening her life "with knives and guns" and also charged that more than $1,000 in a joint account at a local bank represented her earnings while employed. She has asked a court order to obtain the money. The dispute was later adjusted by the couple, however, and her counsel withdrew the action.

The court yesterday granted an absolute divorce to Mrs. Pauline F. Bennett, Cumberland, from Franklin Bennett. Edwin M. Horchler was counsel for the wife who was still under twenty-one years of age when the action was filed last July 20 by her mother and next best friend, Mrs. Emma C. Reed.

Police said the truck Weltman was driving east on Greene street street swerved to pass a car which turned into a nearby gasoline station and crashed against the pole when the driver lost control of the ton and a half truck.

The truck, police said, sideswiped the pole and damaged the cab, adding that the bed of the truck was almost torn from the chassis when the bed caught on the pole.

The truck, loaded with wine and whiskey, was returning from Cozy inn when the accident occurred, police said. Detective Thomas J. See, Detective Lt. R. Emmett Flynn and Officers John G. Powers and Joseph Stitcher investigated.
